

Great Financial Crisis

CITY OF LAWRENCE

May Not be Able to Pay the City Employees

LAWRENCE, Sept. 2.—City Treasurer William A. Kelleher announced this forenoon that the wages of city employees would be paid today as usual but that he could make no prediction as to the ability of the city to meet forthcoming payrolls. He said that the payment of the payrolls, bonds and interest charges today would practically exhaust the city's resources, and this in view of the refusal of Boston bankers to sign city notes for an additional temporary loan in anticipation of taxes would leave him dependent upon collections alone to meet the expenses of the future.

Mayor Cahill attributes the refusal of the Boston bankers to loan Lawrence money to the interference of the local bankers who attempted some weeks ago to have the governor appoint a commission to take over the affairs of Lawrence. He contended that the city can legally borrow $175,000 and is much incensed over the dilemma, claiming that political opponents are trying to get him "in bad."

City Solicitor Daniel K. Murphy was out of town today and could not be consulted as to what course he would advise under the circumstances.

City officials, other than the mayor, see little hope of the city being able to do anything more than meet its tax notes and interest and payments the remainder of the year, leaving the monthly drafts and the weekly payrolls unpaid, as it is pointed out that if the city treasurer attempts to use the 1911 tax money for current expenses there is little doubt but that an injunction would be sought and obtained to prevent him from using it for any other purpose than the payment of the tax notes which were issued in anticipation of such collections.

Two monthly drafts amounting to over $100,000 have been held up for lack of funds already and another will be due September 12.

THE GRAND JURY LIST

Important Lowell Cases to be Considered Next Tuesday

The session of the grand jury will open at the local court house in Gorham street next Tuesday. There are thirteen cases to be brought to the attention of the jurors by the Lowell authorities.

One of the most important is that of Dr. Sumner P. Smith, charged with having performed a criminal operation which resulted in the death of a young woman. There are two cases of felonious assault to be heard together with cases of breaking and entering and larceny, assault and battery and the case of Eben W. Sears, of Lynn, who is charged with blackmail.

The list of cases is as follows: Matthew Brindell and Arthur Sidney, larceny.

Felix Pilot and Frank Malik, assault and battery; (two counts).

James L. Headlote, larceny.

Nicholas J. Zacharias, larceny.

Anthony Riley, breaking and entering and larceny.

Sumner P. Smith, criminal operation.

Parochial School Will Reopen on Tuesday

The Sacred Heart Parochial school will begin the new term on Tuesday, Sept. 5th. On Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock all the children of the school and their parents and teachers will assist at the Mass of the Holy Ghost to be sung in the church, to invoke the blessing of God on the new year's work.

Since the opening of the splendid new and modern equipped school building the attendance has greatly increased and interest in the school work has doubled. Last year there were six hundred and fifty children registered in the primary and grammar departments. Thirty-nine pupils in the grammar grades received penmanship diplomas and awards from the A. N. Palmer School of Boston and twenty-eight finished the grammar school course successfully.

This year, the Sisters of St. Mary, who are in charge, are preparing for a much larger attendance and there is every indication of even more successful work than last year.

Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I. is preaching the annual retreat at the Oblate house of studies at Tewksbury.

Rev. Sister Anastasia, a former pupil of the Sacred Heart school, after a short visit to the convent of the Sisters of St. Mary, has returned to the convent where she is stationed in Buffalo, N. Y.

THE LOOMFIXERS

OPENED NATIONAL CONVENTION IN BOSTON TODAY

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The National Loomfixers' Association of America met here today for its 21st international convention. President Samuel McCauley, presiding. It was voted to confer with the American Federation of Labor with a view of securing a charter for the association. A resolution was passed requesting every local to insist that the same pay be given the loomfixers under the 51 hour a week schedule as they are now receiving, the new law going into effect Jan. 1. The new law was one of the important matters before the delegates today.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty wedding took place this morning when Mr. George Boisvert, of the park department and Miss Alice Collins of Kenwood, Dracut, were united in the bonds of matrimony at St. Louis church. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock by Rev. J. N. Jacques, pastor of the parish.

There was a large attendance at church and the couple's witnesses were their fathers, Messrs. John Boisvert and William Collins. After the ceremony the party repaired to the home of the bride's parents in Kenwood, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives of the contracting couple. A reception will be held tonight at the same place.

Program of Observance--Sports and Open Air Meeting on Common

One of the biggest labor demonstrations in the history of the city is scheduled to take place next Monday and according to the program planned by the hustling committee it bids fair to be a grand success. The only thing possible to mar the success the demonstration will be unfavorable weather which is very improbable.

The feature of the day will be the monster parade which will start at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon there will be an excellent program of sports carried out on the South common and in the evening there will be an open air meeting on the South common and many prominent speakers will deliver addresses. It is expected that there will be about 2500 people in line and a number of floats. Already merchants on the principal streets are starting to decorate their buildings and by Monday all of the principal buildings along the route of parade will be decorated. This will be the first Labor Day parade held in this city since 1904 and the members of the various unions are very enthusiastic over the coming demonstration.

The officers of the day are: General manager, John J. Mahoney, Typographical union; assistant general manager, Timothy Bourke, Bootlers' union; treasurer, Mrs. Annie Odel, Cotton Weavers' union; chief marshal of parade, Charles E. Anderson, Iron Molders' union; chief of staff, Thomas J. Reagan, Cotton Weavers' union; adjutant, Joseph P. Convery, Carpenters' union; marshal of Trades & Labor council, Murthey Lyons, Bootlers' union; marshal of second division, Carroll Carney, Building Laborers' union; marshal of third division, Dennis Healey, Leather Workers' union.

The following will act as aides to the chief marshal:

John Ducey, building laborers; Chas. Davis, teamsters 72; Edward O'Brien, street railway men 551; William H. Lester, carpenters 49; Philip Roy, carpenters 1610; William H. Mulcahey, theatrical stage employees; Sandy Dunn, brewery teamsters; Joseph Kennedy, cotton weavers; Stanislaw Wozniak, international brotherhood of stationary firemen, local 11; James E. Anderson, barbers; Carl Heldreich, brewery workers; Thomas McKenna, cigar makers; James A. Burns, clerks; Joseph P. Fiske, representing citizens; Fred Latendresse, leather workers; Michael Larkin, international molders 85; Hugh Maguire, bartenders; William D. Hennessy, street railway men 260; Frank Warnock, plasterers; Joseph Preston, painters; Fred Robey, electrical workers; William McElroy, steam engineers; Maise Daigle, loomfixers.

Division Roster

The roster of the divisions is as follows:

First division—Allied Printing Trades council; Barbers, Cigarmakers, City Teamsters, Cotton Weavers, International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, Stationary Engineers, Local 14, Plasterers, Street Railway Men 280, Street Railway Men 551, Tailors.

Second division—Building Laborers, Molders, Painters, Carpenters 49 and 1610, Electrical Workers.

Third division—Leather Workers, Loomfixers, Brewery Workers, Teamsters 72, Bartenders.

Route of Parade

The formation and route of the parade will be as follows:

The first division will form on Middle street, right resting on Central street. The second division will form on Market street, right resting on Central street. The third division will form on Jackson street, right resting on Central street.

At 9:30 o'clock sharp the parade will move over the following route: Middle street to Bridge, to Middlesex, to Thordike, to Fletcher, to Adams, to Cabot, to Merrimack (to be reviewed at city hall by members of city government), to Bridge, to Sixth, counter-march to Prescott, to Central, to Charles, to Sumner, to South common where it will be reviewed by the Chief Marshal and staff and dismissed.

The Prizes

As an incentive for the unions to turn out in full numbers and present features in the parade, the committee has offered $30 in prizes. Twenty dollars has been offered as the first prize for the feature and $10 for second prize; largest number of men in line, first prize $10, second prize $5; best appearing union, first prize $20, second prize $10; best motto, first prize $5, second prize $2.

MURTHEY LYONS
Marshal Trades and Labor Council

NO WOMAN CAN MARRY COLONEL GREEN. WHEN TIME COMES HE'LL DO THE MARRYING

COLONEL GREEN'S MOTHER, BROTHER-IN-LAW AND SISTER.

COLONEL E. H. R. GREEN.

WILL Society, with a capital S, please slumber down over the Astor-France and Geraghty-France affairs and listen to the sayings of Colonel Edward Howard Robinson, Green of Texas, the millionaire son of the multi-millionaire widow, Mrs. Healy Green, in reference to marriage?

His remarks in really cryptic utterance, "When I marry I'll marry a woman, not a clothesline."

The colonel, who is forty-three years old, big and handsome, but bothered somewhat by an artificial leg, says that he will marry soon, just as soon, in fact, as his promise to his mother not to marry for twenty years wears out.

That will be the coming November, and the publishing of that interesting fact has brought him nearly 2,000 letters, some with photographs, but all scintillatingly propounding the question.

This embarrasses the colonel, for his ideal is business, and he is certainly busy enough in managing his own and his mother's affairs.

Here is a sample letter:

Dear Colonel—Don't think me a little beggar. I feel sure if you would have a talk with me you would believe me to be worthy of becoming your wife. I will dine at the Waldorf on Saturday evening at 7:30. I am very much like the enclosed photograph. I shall wear the same black dress and one red rose. I shall dine in the big dining room on the fifth avenue side. After having had a peep at me I am sure you will like me, because I am not a giddy girl. I am very serious, though this letter may seem giddy to you. Don't please be afraid to approach me. If you like me, I hope we'll get to be fast friends. Lovingly,

DAISY.

"Well," said Colonel Green to some sympathetic friends, "I went down to the dining room, just being curious. She was there, and with the red rose. Yes, a veritable beauty she was. But she didn't see me. No, indeed! Believe me, I'm a sensible man."

And here is another, from Alabama:

My Dearest Colonel Green—Having read much about you in the Birmingham paper, I judge you are awfully lonely, living without a wife. I, too, am very lonely and believe we could make each other happy. Believe me, Mr. Green, I am sincere. You are the only man on this great earth that I should be content to call "hubby." If you are desirous of a quiet, kind and affectionate and also lovable girl for a wife write quick to—NORA.

"But," said the colonel, "I'm primitive man enough to go out and look for the girl I want to marry. When I find her I'll make good honest love to her, and if she'll have me I'll be the traditional happiest man in the whole world."

"I shall not answer any of these too willing damsels who are hurrying love messages on, I might say, missives, at me, so I hope they will save themselves any future expense in stationery and postage."

"As the Irishman said when he was called to go to work, 'When I get ready I'll take my pick.'"

Colonel Green has relinquished daily work on his business interests in Texas to aid his mother in the management of her properties, on which more than $1,000,000 a year comes in for reinvestment.

He plans to start in New York a trust company as a clearing house for the interests of the great fortune. It will not be a competitor with established companies for New York business.

"My family hopes to be of real benefit to the whole country," says Colonel Green. "Actual experience has shown me that the best use for inherited wealth is that which will create the greatest number of life jobs rather than satisfy the hunger of a day."

When he referred to his family Green meant only his mother, his sister, Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, formerly Sylvia Green, and himself.

"The financial affairs in which our family is interested here and all over the country will be conducted from a main headquarters in New York."

"The establishment of this company will have no effect on our present connections with bankers anywhere, but it will be the medium through which we will handle our business outside New York. In fact, it will be a center in the east where we will concentrate our western and southwestern interests. The suggestion was made that we take over one of the old trust companies, but I favored starting with a clean slate, with no taint of some one else's past. That course practically has been decided on."

Colonel Green added that he is assisting his mother in the management of all the family properties, including real estate in Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, Boston and Toledo; paper mills in Bellows Falls, Vt.; cotton mills in New Bedford, Mass.; gold mines in California; stocks and bonds in many important railroads of the country and the Texas properties.

Colonel Green's mother is now in her seventy-sixth year. His father died in New York in 1881.

Mrs. Green's wealth is estimated at upward of $70,000,000. Colonel Green says that he intends to make this fortune a positive source of good for the whole country. He does not believe in endowing charities or bestowing millions upon various philanthropies. "Inherited wealth," says Colonel Green, "is put to its best use when it creates the greatest possible number of life jobs rather than when it satisfies the hunger of a day."

who have not been present of late will find a big improvement in the course. President William H. Wilson of the club has presented the club a cup as a trophy to be contested for by the members. This cup will be known as the President's cup, and a series of tournaments will be held with the cup as a prize for the winner. The tournaments will be held on Saturdays, Sept. 9, 16, 23 and 30. The best net and the best gross scores will qualify, and the eight winners will play off at a date to be set by the tournament committee. The weekly tournaments open at 1 p. m. and the entry list closes at 3:30 p. m.

October tournaments are to be arranged if the interest warrants them, and this undoubtedly means that they will be held, for there has been considerable playing already on the new links, and the players find them very attractive.

LOWELL SPLIT EVEN

Meldon Wolfgang Won His 25th Victory Yesterday

LAWRENCE, Sept. 1.—Lawrence and Lowell broke even at Riverside park yesterday afternoon. Lowell took the first game, 10 to 3, while Lawrence won the second, 2 to 1. The second game went only seven innings by agreement. The first game was Wolfgang's 25th victory this season, while the second game was Lawrence's first win from Lowell on the Riverside grounds. A crowd of 2000 paid admissions, witnessed the fun and many of that number came down from Lowell. The games developed the fact that there is much rivalry existing between the two clubs.

In the first game, Kolseth was sent against Wolfgang. It was a pretty even thing until the sixth, Lowell was leading up to that time 2 to 1, and Lawrence had passed up chances to tie up the score. In the sixth, however, after Moulton was passed, the up-river batters fell on Kolseth for six hits including two doubles and the game was no longer in doubt. Barrows got a homer in the first, while Kennedy made a circuit of the bases in the sixth and Phoenix in the ninth inning. Lowell played poorly in the field, but made up for it with heavy sticking in the sixth inning.

In the eighth inning Fluharty hit down to Crisham and Kolseth went over to take the throw. Fluharty unintentionally collided with Kolseth, and the sabbie was stretched out on the ground. He was able to resume, however, but he showed thereafter the effects of the collision.

Fluharty really started the first game. He was five times at bat. He made three hits and scored three runs. Lowell scored enough runs on clean hitting to win any ordinary game.

The second game was a much even conflict. Yount was on the slab for Lowell and Dick Howard did the flinging for Lawrence. The local boy had Moulton, Barrows and Magee standing on their heads. Magee got a hit, but it was his last time up. Pat Crisham was there with a beautiful hit in the third inning that sent the score over the plan. Lowell tied the score in the next inning, but the locals got confused on a play and Lowell had no right to the tally.

The star of the second game was Carlstrom. In the fourth inning, with Briggs on third and two out, Carlstrom drove out the hit that won the game. In the seventh inning, after Cooney and Magee had hit safely, Fluharty came close to making a blunder that would have tied up the score. Carlstrom squeezed the ball for an out and then touched second for the double. That play saved the game for Lawrence and ended the game.

First Game
In the first with one out, Barrows dropped the ball over the center field fence. The next two were outs. Hagan led off for Lawrence by drawing a base on ball. Crisham hit into a double play. Kennedy hit safe to right but Luyster hit to Fluharty.

In the second, Fluharty hit, took second on a sacrifice, and third on a passed ball. He scored on Boutles' out to Briggs. Huston struck out. For Lawrence, Briggs, Phoenix and Carlstrom struck out.

In the third, Lowell did not reach. Lawrence got one run in the last half. Ulrich walked and took second on an out. Hagan hit to right and Ulrich went to third. Ulrich scored on a passed ball and Hagan went to second. Hagan took third on an out. Kennedy fled to Magee.

In the fourth, it was one, two, three for both sides.

In the fifth, with one out, Boutles walked. He was out in the last half. Huston walked. Wolfgang popped to Carlstrom. For Lawrence, Carlstrom was safe on Boutles' bad throw, taking ing second on Ulrich's sacrifice. Kolseth was safe on Moulton's wide throw but Carlstrom was out trying to score. Hagan fled out to Magee.

In the sixth, Moulton got a base on balls and took third on Barrows' bunt. Cooney hit to left and Moulton scored. Barrows and Cooney advanced on Magee's sacrifice. Fluharty doubled to right and two runs scored. Wright hit to center and Fluharty scored. Wright went to second on the throw-in. Boutles doubled and Wright scored. Huston popped to Phoenix. Wolfgang hit to left and Boutles scored. Wolfgang was out trying to make second. For Lawrence, with one out, Kennedy lifted the ball over the center field fence. Luyster hit to left and was forced at second on Briggs' grounder. Briggs took second on a wild pitch. Phoenix was the third out on a grounder to Boutles.

In the seventh, Lowell did not reach. For Lawrence, with two out, Kolseth was safe on Cooney's poor throw. Wolfgang's throw got Kolseth out trying to make second.

In the eighth, with one out, Fluharty got a hit. Kolseth was knocked by a collision. He resumed playing, however. Fluharty stole. Wright walked. Boutles hit to left and Fluharty scored. Boutles went to second. The next two were outs. For Lawrence, with one out, Crisham doubled. Kennedy fanned. Luyster's hit was too hot for Wolfgang. Briggs fled to Barrows.

In the ninth, Moulton beat out a hit to Carlstrom, going to third on Crisham's sacrifice and scoring on Crisham's poor throw to Hagan. Magee hit to center. Fluharty hit to Crisham and was out. For Lawrence, Phoenix got a homer over the left field fence. Carlstrom hit to center. Ulrich was thrown out by Boutles. Moulton threw Kolseth out. Hagan fled to Fluharty. The score:

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Jerome D. Travers, metropolitan and New Jersey state champion; H. H. Hilton, champion of Great Britain, and other noted golfers are training every day for the national amateur championship, which will be decided at Apawamis Sept. 11-15. In his first game on American soil Hilton did a seven-ty-five at Garden City, and he will soon start his practice work at Apawamis. Travers, who has twice won the American amateur championship, will begin his practice rounds at Apawamis on Sept. 5. In the accompanying pictures, which were taken a few days ago at the Upper Montclair Country club, which he will represent in the championship, Travers' form in driving and putting and in getting out of trouble is shown. Travers has already "come back" by winning two important events this year, and golfers are wondering whether he can "come back" sufficiently to win the national championship for the third time.

do city, expecting Lowell to take both.

Kolseth was knocked out in the eighth inning of the first game, when Fluharty collided with the pitcher. He picked up resuming playing.

Three homers in the first. Barrows got his in the opening session. Kennedy was there in the sixth and Billy Phoenix came across in the ninth.

Boutles played splendid ball in the second game. His play of Hagan's grounder in the fifth inning was really the fielding feature of the afternoon.

Jimmy Magee was kept busy in the left garden. He got Luyster twice and both times on hard drives.

It was the first game that Lawrence has taken from Lowell on the home grounds this season.

LAWRENCE MANAGER PROVES A

HARD LOSER

The Lawrence Eagle today says: Manager James J. Gray of the Lowell team brought along a lot of correspondence between him and the Chicago club and other officials yesterday when he came to the local grounds.

He brought them along to convince Manager Louis P. Pieper of the Lawrence team that Lowell owned Player Roland Barrows.

Manager Gray failed to produce the most important bit of documentary evidence, however. That was to show how, when and under what conditions Chicago secured the option on Barrows of the present year. Until that is produced the rest of the correspondence does not amount to a row of pins.

Manager Pieper is basing his protest on what the national commission has decided and that is, that Barrows went back to Chicago by reason of the fact that Chicago held an optional agreement on the player. In other words, that Chicago is now only merely calling Barrows back—that the club never surrendered its rights to him even when Barrows was shipped to Lincoln, later coming to Lowell.

Manager Gray maintains that the national commission made a mistake when it declared Barrows an "optional agreement" player. Until such time as that body does rectify the supposed mistake, then we must assume that it was right. And if it was right, Lowell had no right to play Barrows this season.

THE BARK DISEASE

Threatens the Shade

Trees and Forests

The shade trees and forests of Massachusetts, already threatened by insect pests which are yearly making greater ravages, are facing a new menace.

This is the chestnut bark disease which affects not only Massachusetts but all of New England. The bark disease is a fungus that attacks the chestnuts and Supt. Whittier of the park department says that the disease has reached Lowell. When the fungus once encircles the trunk the tree dies.

All summer Professor Arthur Graves of the Yale Forestry school has been making an investigation of the infection, and his report, just received by the department of agriculture, shows Massachusetts will have to provide a once money enough to pay for chopping down every tree affected. If this is not done, according to the report, not a chestnut tree will be left in the state in a few years.

The disease is first noticeable underneath the bark and in a short time works around the tree. The fungus grows rapidly, taking all the life out of the tree and leaving it shorn of its foliage.

State Forester F. W. Rane says: "The central and western parts of the state are where the disease has become very noticeable, but the infection has scattered all over the state."

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1910 was 15,976

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

The price of sugar is reported higher than at any time since 1905. The trust is probably trying to recoup itself for the expenses of its recent prosecution by the federal government on a variety of charges criminal and otherwise.

Mr. J. L. Chalifoux made many good points in his address on the new charter before the Citizens Americans the other night, but one of the best showed that as a democrat in a republican ward he might as well be disfranchised as vote for any member of the common council or school committee. The same is true of the republicans in the democratic wards. Moreover where either party has a majority in the common council the other might almost as well send no representatives there. All this will be changed under the new charter, where every vote will count in the general contest for the elective offices.

The Standard Oil trust as such has dissolved and gone out of existence in accordance with the decision of the United States supreme court; but the business will be conducted by the same people, by the same interests and with the same monopolistic power. The decision has simply shown this trust how to do a trust business and at the same time evade the anti-trust law. As now conducted the operations of this trust although fully as effective as before in stamping out competition cannot be charged with unreasonable restraint of trade. The highest court in the land has so legislated.

THE SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS

The public playgrounds this year were conducted in a highly successful manner. The supervisors, Messrs. H. A. Bruce, R. E. Guilloe, E. J. Shulte, James A. Rooney and Thomas Maloney, are all deserving of praise for their enthusiastic labors. The lady assistants also deserve commendation as having done a very important part of the work. The children were benefited from the discipline, the fraternal spirit inculcated and the physical training. The supervised playground is a pronounced success and its usefulness will grow from year to year if the park board cooperates with the good ladies who have been kind enough to start the work. It has filled a great void in the lives of the children who are at a loss for something to occupy their attention during the summer vacation. Parents too have felt relief at knowing that their children were engaged at the public playgrounds rather than running after wagons, going to the rivers to bathe or to the country to forage for fruit.

PUBLIC MARKET WOULD LOWER PRICES

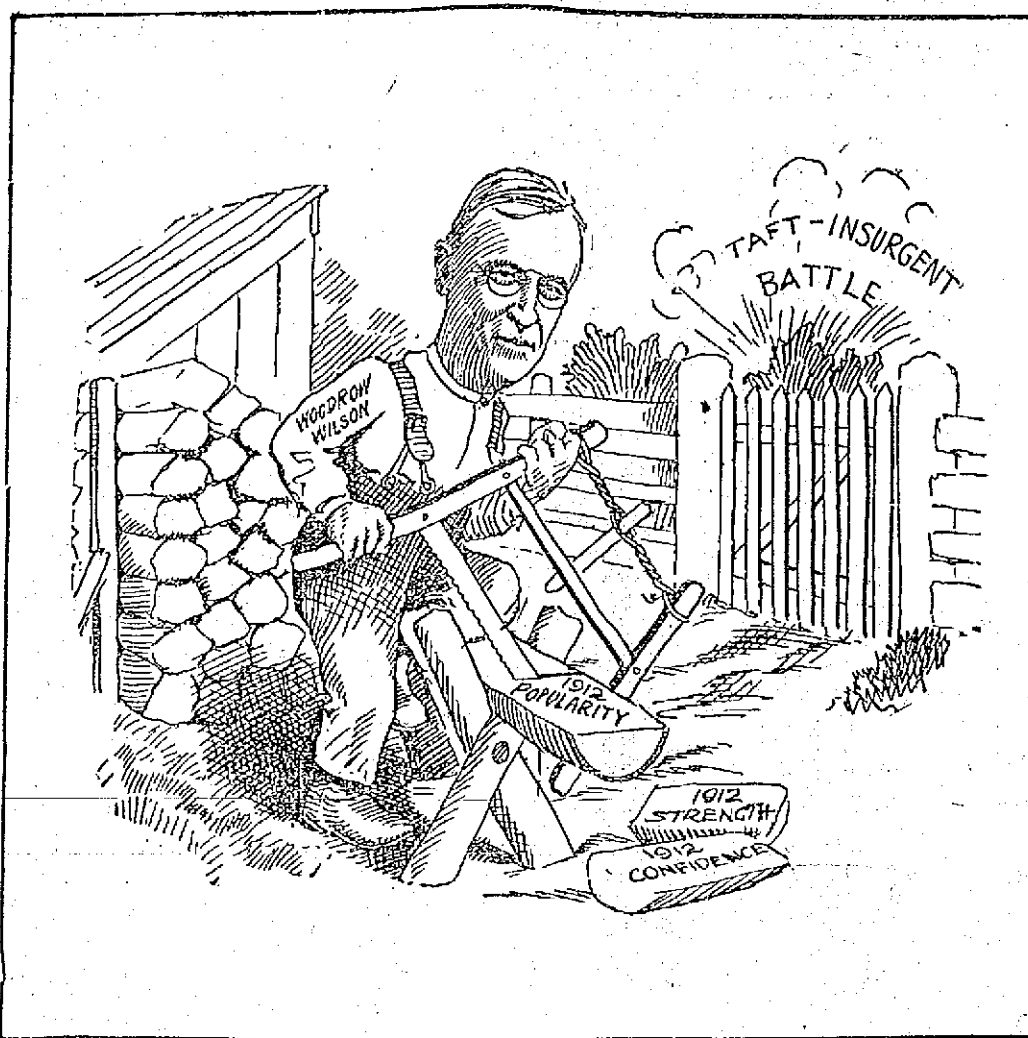

Parisians have begun an agitation against the high cost of living, their demands being emphasized in street parades. A demonstration somewhat similar was recently started in Des Moines, Ia., the city made famous for originating the more complete form of commission city charter. The mayor of the city, as he was bound to do, took action at once upon the demands of the people. To ascertain whether the retailers were responsible for the high prices of household necessities, he invited all the hucksters, peddlars and small dealers to use the municipal grounds fronting city hall on which to sell their commodities. The result brought relief on a great many articles sold in the markets. As a result prices were lowered in the markets, showing that the retailers or the middlemen had been demanding excessive profits.

By this experiment the mayor of Des Moines demonstrated the great advantage of a public market in every city in the land. It is now several years since The Sun started an agitation for a public market in this city. For a time the idea of having such a market in connection with a public hall was favored, but owing to a number of causes, chief of which were the inertia of our city government and the lack of funds, the whole project has been dropped as hopeless until we attain the new order of things that will follow the adoption of the Des Moines charter soon to be passed upon by the voters of our city. There is not a doubt that a great deal can be done to help the people in many ways by a prompt response to popular demands such as we see in Des Moines and such as we hope to see in our own city after we shall have adopted the Des Moines system of city government.

LABOR DAY

Labor Day, which this year will be celebrated on a very large scale in this city, has come to be recognized as labor's holiday throughout the country. The origin of this holiday dates back to 1883 when the Knights of Labor held a great parade in New York on the first Monday in September. On the same day the following year another parade and meeting occurred at which Mr. George Lloyd offered a resolution providing that the first Monday in September should be known as Labor Day and observed as such by organized labor throughout the country. The state of Colorado is said to have been the first to make the day a legal holiday in 1887, and all the other states, together with the district of Columbia, soon followed. The day is utilized not only as a day of rest and recreation but for the purpose of holding public parades and demonstrations in favor of the demands of organized labor. In this respect the observance of the day has tended greatly to extend the influence and power of organized labor.

Some states authorize cities and towns to appropriate money for the observance of Labor Day. The statutes of Massachusetts, section 23, chapter 26, of the revised laws provide that the city council of any city may by a ye and nay vote of two-thirds of the members of each branch thereof present and voting, appropriate money for the celebration of holidays and for other public purposes to an amount not exceeding in any one year one-fiftieth of one per cent. of its valuation for such year. This year the city council appropriated $1000 to assist the labor organizations in the celebration of the day, the money to be spent under the direction of the mayor and a committee of the city council. It will be a great gala day for the laboring people, and it is the hope of everybody that they will enjoy it to the utmost.

SAWING WOOD

SEEN AND HEARD

An orderly arrangement of working hours is a desirable and time-saving thing, but when one reads the plan of the day made by a colored parson he cannot help wondering where the good man's family life came in and if the system held any possibility of relaxation. The record, quoted by William Root Bliss in "Side Glances from the Colonial Meeting House," is taken from the diary of Thomas Prince, a minister of the Old South church, Boston.

1719, Oct. 30th. I marry. Nov. 10. We begin to keep house. My proposed order is: At 6 get up and go to study. Pray and read in original Bible till 8, and then call up the family. At 8 1/2 go to Family Prayers and only the Porridge of Chocolate for Breakfast till 7. Go into my study till 12 1/2 then do something about the House till 1 to dinner, except on Thursday study till 1 1/2 then Dress and 11 Lecture. At 12 Dress and go abroad till Can. Delight. Except Wednesdays, after Dinner do something about the House and Saturday afternoons visit at Dr. Sewall's till 2 1/2 then Home and study till Candlelight. Study till 9 1/2. At 9 1/2 go to Family Prayers and go to bed. N. B. I eat no supper. One consolation, the poor parson could say: "Nothing to do till tomorrow."

"The other night," says a correspondent, "I was coming in from Chelmsford Centre, and as the car had quite a wait on a turnout I had a chance to see how the crews while away the time."

The conductor stepped from the car and was followed by the motorman and they each picked up a handful of small stones and they began to throw at a trolley post about 250 feet away, and by the time the outward bound car hove in sight they had probably thrown 25 or 30 stones each, and it was surprising how often they hit the mark. But the conductor had it all over his running mate. When the street railway men are making up a ball team they should not overlook "1431" as a pitcher.

PRETTY PEGGY When Peggy gets a marketing, Desires and prim and neat, I would I were the dusty road To sing beneath her feet; I would I were the basket on Her soft brown dimpled arm, Then life would be a market day Unending in its charm.

When Peggy trips the minuet With any gallant beau, Her dainty feet flash in and out Like satin stars that glow; Her laughter wears the sweetest tune That ever lone heart heard, The murmur of a break that wakes The love note of a bird.

When Peggy trends her way to church My heart must follow, too, And wish it were those violets Misnamed "her eyes of blue," And wish it were the book of prayer That smiles up in her face, 'Twould ask no fairer heaven above Nor truer meed of grace.

Sweet Peggy, life's a queer old chap Who must delight in pain To drop your glances in my heart Like pearls of silver rain, To weave a white and gold romance Of dreams that fade away, For you have slept a hundred years And I'm a song today.

THE MODERN SONG In days of old when lovers held Fond wooed their ladies fair, With opposition of a kind Parental in the air, One came unto the lady's bower; And horses there brought in, The while he whispered soft and low, "My love, come fly with me."

Then they would fly on marriage bent Upon their gallant steeds; For flying always meant a goal To meet their nuptial needs, But different is all this today, No lover must he be, Who says unto a maid these times, "Come, will you fly with me?"

He merely means in friendly way "That he is kindly fair," To give her a delightful ride In his new aeroplane. But maidens must prefer old ways, And rather do they sigh Than with an aviator bold, A lover true to fly.

Superfluous Hair Disappears Like Magic Lady Will Send Free to Any Sufferer The Secret Which Cured Her.

From childhood I was distressed and humiliated by an unwelcome growth of hair on my face and arms. I tried all the depilatories, powders, liquids, creams and other rub-on preparations I ever heard of, only to make it worse. I suffered the torture of the electric needle without being rid of my blemish. I spent a great deal of money on various things in vain, until a friend recommended a simple, soluble, liquid preparation which succeeded for me where all else failed, and has won great praise from many others as well.

This simple remedy enabled me permanently to find entire relief from all trace of unwanted hair, and forever rid me of embarrassment. It is simple, safe and sure and can be used privately at home, without fear of pain or blemish. It makes the electric needle entirely unnecessary. It is absolutely hairless and your own doctor would endorse it. (I will tell in detail full particulars, quite without charge, to enable any other sufferer to achieve the same happy results as did I. All I ask is a two-cent stamp for reply.) Address: Caroline Osgood, Apartment 873 H, 118 East 25th street, New York City.

was the famous Mary Queen of Scots, and the most romantic and fascinating figure in the whole history of the olden days. Then there was Mary Tudor, Henrietta Maria became the ill-fated wife of Charles I. Mary of Modena was the second wife of James II. Mary, the daughter of James II by his first wife, by her marriage with William of Orange invested their joint reign with a glory which is even now undiminished. Since then we have had several princesses named Mary, one the daughter of George II, another of George III, while the mother of our late queen was Mary Louise Victoria. But the most essentially English of all Marys in the history of the country is our present beloved queen, says the London Globe.

It was in the hotel of a western mining town that the New England guest, registering in the office, heard a succession of wild yells.

"What in the world is that—a murder going on upstairs?" he demanded. "No," said the clerk as he slammed the book and lounged toward the stairs. "It's the spring bed up in No. 5. That tenderfoot up there don't set the hang of it, and every few days he gets one of the spiral springs screwed into him like a shirt stud. I guess I'll have to go up, if there ain't anything more I can do for you for a few minutes."

HENRY HUDSON'S QUEST Out from the harbor of Amsterdam The Half Moon turned her prow to sea; The coast of Norway dropped behind, Yet northward still kept she Through the drifting fog and the driving snow, Where never before man dared to go. "O, pilot, shall he lead the strait that leads to the eastern sea?" "A waste of ice before us lies—we must turn back," said he.

Westward they steered their tiny bark; Westward through weary weeks they sped, Till the cold grey strand of a stranger-land Loomed through the mist ahead. League after league they hugged the coast, And their captain never left his post. "O, pilot, see you yet the strait that leads to the eastern sea?" "I see but the rocks and the barren shore, no strait's there quoth he.

They sailed to the north, they sailed to the south, And at last they rounded an arm of sand Which held the sea from a harbor's mouth— The loveliest in the land, They kept their course across the bay, And the shore before them fell away. "O, pilot, see you not the strait that leads to the eastern sea?" "Hold the rudder true! Praised Christ Jesu! the strait is here," said he.

Onward they glided, with wind and tide, Past marshes grey, and crags sun-kissed; They skirted the silks of green-clad hills, And meadows white with mist— But alas! the hope and the brave, For rock and shallow bar the stream. "O, pilot, can this be the strait that leads to the eastern sea?" "Nay, captain, nay; 'tis not the way; turn back we must," said he.

Full sad was Hudson's heart as he turned The Half Moon's prow to the south once more; He saw no beauty in crag or hill, No beauty in curving shore; For they shut him away from that fabled main He sought his whole life long, in vain. "O, pilot, say, can there be a strait that leads to the eastern sea?" "God's cry is sealed, 'Twill stand revealed in His own good time," quoth he.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Fall River Globe: That globe-trotting French newspaper reporter who has accomplished the feat of kireling around the earth inside of his 40 days limit, has performed a stunt that even the birdmen will not be able to beat for a long time to come.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S VETOES New York Times: The Underwood revision of the wool schedule Mr. Taft found to be unacceptable because it had been prepared without information as to cost differences and other factors which the tariff board is engaged in studying. The general opinion of the country, we are sure, is that, in signing a bill which reduces the run of duties on woolen fabrics from 95 per cent. to 45 per cent, he would have run no great risk of sanctioning duties too low to meet the "reasonable profit" to American manufacturers. However, he was of a different opinion, and vetoed the bill. Now, suppose the report of the tariff board should be of such a nature as to justify rates below those fixed in the Underwood bill. That would show that Mr. Taft had entirely misjudged the result and had done injustice to its authors in imputing haste and recklessness to them in preparing new rates. On the other hand, suppose the board's report should indicate the necessity of duties considerably higher than those fixed by the Underwood bill. Does the president suppose, do the woolen manufacturers or the friends of protection generally, imagine for a moment, that the country would accept such a report as a fair and impartial presentation of facts fit to serve as a basis for the revision of that schedule? Would it not, on the contrary, be said everywhere that the president's tariff board was but a part of the great protectionist organization, co-operating with the republican party and with the president himself to maintain the "undefensible" duties of Schedule K? It seems to us that embarrassments which might easily have been avoided by signing the wool bill have been deliberately invited by the veto.

Lawrence Man Wants Franchise for Portland

Ed. L. Arundel, formerly of the Lawrence club, was at the league meeting and was admitted, says the Lawrence Eagle. He informally presented the cause of Portland, where a body of influential business men interested in booming the city want to furnish backing for a New England league club in that city. It is believed that that fine summer city is about ready for league baseball once more. Mr. Arundel stated that he had no personal interest in the proposition and didn't want to be connected with it in any way.

TO CONTEST WILL

Relatives of Miss Skinner Engage Counsel

The heirs-at-law of the late Miss Arabella Skinner, whose will drawn January, 1905 was recently filed for probate at East Cambridge, have engaged Messrs. F. W. and S. E. Qua to contest the will under the conditions of which Miss Skinner left all her property, estimated at $16,000 to Mrs. Ella L. Butterfield and her daughter Pearl. Miss Skinner's only relatives are cousins.

The deceased was a sister of the late A. C. Skinner who for many years was in business in Merrimack street. Her brother's death preceded hers by several years and she was over 80 years of age at the time of her death.

How the Election of a Pontiff to the Papal Throne Is Accomplished by the College of Cardinals

BY GEORGE WAUGH ARNOLD
When the illness of a pope of Rome becomes so serious that his death is regarded as imminent all the civilized world takes a keen interest in the manner of the election for his successor.

The pope is elected for life—once a pope a pope till death—and even when dead the cardinals are to the church what the senate of old Rome was to the people and what the senate of this country is to the United States. The administration of the church during the interregnum belongs to the cardinals. The dean of the sacred college is their president. They can undertake no important change in the affairs of the church. The duty that devolves upon them is to elect the next successor to St. Peter.

Every Cardinal in World Is Called

The dean of the sacred college at the pope's death summons every cardinal throughout the world to take part in the election.

In the first session of the conclave each of the cardinals takes a solemn oath on the gospels to observe the canons that refer to the election in the conclave. The bulls of the nine popes who legislated on the mode of procedure in the election of the pope by ballot in the conclave are read aloud to them. The fisherman's ring, being part of the insignia of the holy father, is now unscrewed by the master of ceremonies, and the first session of the conclave comes to a close.

On the second day the various officers of the pontifical states come to pay their respects to the cardinals, and the next three days are spent in elections to the different offices that are to be filled in the conclave.

Busy First Five Days

On the sixth day the cards that each cardinal is to occupy are allotted to him, where both the cardinal and his secretary are to dwell during the whole time of the conclave.

The Vatican contains 1,100 rooms, and there is a very spacious hall set apart and fitted up for the special purpose of the election.

Each cardinal is allowed two rooms, called cells, one for himself and one for his secretary.

When the cardinals assemble in the chapel the bulls are once again read, and again they take the oath to conscientiously observe the canons regulating the election. An address is delivered by the cardinal dean as an exhortation to do their duty conscientiously.

Shot Out From All the World

Then at the stroke of midnight the master of ceremonies rings a silver bell, and all who are not of the conclave retire. The doors are finally and solemnly closed, and no one is allowed to pass in or out except the cardinals who, perchance, may be late in coming from foreign countries. Each cardinal is allowed to have two members of his household in personal attendance upon him. These are called conclavists. A number of other attendants are also allowed inside the conclave—viz., a carpenter, a mason, a sacristan, a friar or monk to hear confessions, a number of barbers, eight or ten porters and several other domestics to do common service to the whole body of cardinals. The word "conclave" comes from the fact of closing the door with a key. "Clavis" in Latin means a key. The word conclave refers to the seclusion as well as to the body of cardinals in session. All secular influence ceases for good so as to leave the cardinals untrammelled in their work of choosing a successor to the papal throne.

1.—Pope Pius leaving Venice for Rome. 2.—The Vatican and obelisk. 3.—Cardinal S. Vannutelli. 4.—Cardinal Rampolla. 5.—Cardinal Agliardi. 6.—Cardinal Oreglia. 7.—Cardinal Merry Del Val. 8.—Cardinal Cavallari. 9.—Cardinal Martinielli. 10.—Cardinal Ferrari.

The cells in which the cardinals dwell during elections are twenty feet square and twenty feet high.

Door Locked on Both Sides

There is only one door to the conclave, and this is locked with a double key, one on the outside and one on the inside. The governor, who is a cardinal appointed by the sacred college, holds one key on the inside, and the marshal, who is a lay official, on the outside, is the custodian of the other key.

There are four apertures in the walls, called gates, through which all meals are passed and anything else that is absolutely required. All this is to avoid any communication with the outer world and to prevent fraud or political influence being used on the cardinals in the casting of their votes. The outside walls are also locked, and the cardinal camerlingo keeps these keys. Papal troops are drawn up in attendance and are in charge of one of the princes of the house of Orsini, who also takes charge of some of the outer keys and guards the conclave from violence.

The most extraordinary precautions are taken to shut out intrigues and political influence.

The voting in the conclave takes place in the chapel twice a day, morning and evening. Each cardinal has a desk decorated with his coat of arms assigned to him. Immediately before the election begins an Augustinian monk celebrates mass. When the mass is concluded all the attendants withdraw, leaving the cardinals severely alone. They then prepare to cast their first ballot. Two-thirds of the votes by ballot is validly elect.

When the ballots are counted and no one has received a two-thirds vote the voting papers are taken to a fireplace and burned.

Crowds Watch Smoke of Ballots

The smoke ascending through a certain chimney is a sign to an immense concourse of people assembled outside for news of the election and to obtain the new holy father's blessing that the cardinals have not yet decided on any one name. When they see the smoke they return to their homes, to come again in the evening or the morning, as the case may be. Then the cardinals retire to their apartments to await the next ballot. This is repeated each day till a pope is elected.

When two-thirds of the ballots are given to any one person he is declared pope and the conclave is over. The youngest cardinal then rings a bell and calls all the cardinals around the newly elected.

Elected One May Refuse

The cardinal dean asks him if he accepts the canonical election to the supreme pontificate. If he says he accepts, forthwith he becomes pope, head of the church, bishop of Rome, father of Christians, vicar of Christ and sovereign pontiff.

Should he refuse, the chair is still vacant and another election is in order. Should he hesitate he is asked three times. On his acceptance the cardinal dean genuflects before him, asking him by what name he shall be known to Christendom in the future, and by this name he is known ever after.

THE LOCAL CANDIDATES

May Hear From John Golden Labor Day Night

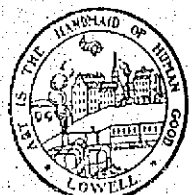

It is understood that John Golden, of Fall River, one of the best known labor men in America in his speech on the South common on the evening of Labor Day will deal with labor legislation and incidentally the records of local members of the legislature relative to labor measures. Mr. Golden keeps in close touch with all labor legislation and is one of the best informed men on this subject in the country.

NO WONDER BABY IS CROSS

No comfortable baby is ever cross, but when its tender skin is chafed or broken out with prickly heat or other rash any baby is sure to be fretful.

A trained nurse would look it over carefully and dust on Comfort Powder whenever she saw the least bit of irritation. She would use Comfort Powder because she knows it is the best healing powder for chafing, scalding, sores and eczema eruptions. It stops the itching at once and is harmless. The signature E. S. Sykes is on every box.

STERN OF SCHOONER DISCOVERED

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 2.—The stern of the schooner Margaret May of Philadelphia, which left Charleston August 23 for Philadelphia, commanded by Captain Jarvis, was discovered on Cole island near here today. No word has been received from her crew of seven and it is believed they are lost. The vessel evidently was caught in the recent hurricane and wrecked.

THEATRICAL MAN FATALLY INJURED

READING, Pa., Sept. 2.—Lewis Simmons, a theatrical man of Allentown, was struck by a motor truck today and died in a few minutes. He was dragged about 50 feet. Simmons was at one time a member of the minstrel firm of Simmons & Sloan.

McNAMARA DEFENSE FUND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The design of a new McNamara defense fund stamp submitted to the postoffice department by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, has been approved by Third Assistant Postmaster General Britt. The new stamp differs materially from the original McNamara stamp. The word "stamp" is eliminated, the coloring is lighter and it is octagonal instead of oblong in form. Under the regulations of the postoffice department even the new stamp may not be placed on the address side of an envelope or package but can be placed on the reverse side. If the stamp should be placed on the address side the letter would be sent to the dead letter office as unavailable.

HORSE WAS STOLEN

Charlie Morse Reported Case to Police

Charles Morse, former superintendent of streets, this morning reported to the police the loss of his horse and carriage, the outfit, it is claimed, having been stolen from Middle street between the hours of 10.30 and 11.30. Mr. Morse went into the fire station in Middle street at 10.30 o'clock this forenoon, and when he came out at 11.30 the horse and wagon were gone. Mr. Morse felt keenly the loss of his steed, having owned it for the past nine years. The animal is a well known figure in town, having driven his master around the streets of Lowell when the latter was superintendent of streets up to the present time. The owner expects to recover the stolen rig, but he fears that the horse will be

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

LYNN, Sept. 2.—Jumping from a biplane at a height of about 20 feet, a local aviator named Schumaker escaped today with slight bruises but the machine, which was owned by Guy Foss, son of Governor Foss, was demolished. Schumaker ascended at Franklin field, Saugus, intending to try to fly to Atlantic. The aeroplane had gone but a short distance at an altitude of about 20 feet when a gust of wind caught it and almost overturned it. Schumaker, seeing a fall imminent, jumped to the ground. The biplane went about a dozen feet farther, then fell, striking with such force that it was smashed to pieces.

DEATHS

MURPHY—Miss Bernice P. Murphy died at Winthrop, Mass., September 1, after an illness of three days aged 18 years, 11 months and 6 days. For the past few years, Miss Murphy had attended school in Lowell and made her home with her uncle and aunt. Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Conant of Marlborough street. During her residence and frequent visits to Lowell, she had endeared herself to a wide circle of friends to whom the sad news of her untimely death came as a shock, and their sympathy goes out to her mother and other relatives in their bereavement.

The funeral will be from Mr. Conant's residence, 43 Marlborough street, Monday morning, with services at St. Margaret's church, Stevens St., at 10 o'clock.

FUNERALS

FINNOCAN—All that was mortal of the late James Francis Finnegan was tenderly consigned to its last resting place this morning in the presence of a very large concourse of relatives and friends, who by their presence showed the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The funeral cortege left the home, 41 Floyd street, at 8.30 o'clock and proceeded to St. Peter's church, where at 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. John Burns. The choir rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory Miss Mary E. Whiteley sang "Pie Jesu." After the elevation Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered "Jesu Salvator Mundi," and as the body was being borne from the church the choir rendered "In Paradisum." Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presiding at the organ.

There was a delegation present from County General Shields, P. of A., of which deceased was a member, as follows: James Lane, James Fife, David Sica and Vincent Marotta. There was a wealth of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings as follows:

Cross and pillow inscribed "Good-bye" from the family; basket, Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Brien and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Clark and family; mammoth wreath on base, employees of the waste room of the U. S. Printing; basket, Mrs. Mary O'Hare and family; spray, Mrs. A. M. Smith; sprays, Miss Mary Flynn, Miss Jennie McCarthy, Mrs. Mary Delehanty, Miss Harriett McGuire, Miss Mary McKenna, Mrs. Jennie Dwyer.

There were friends present from Boston, Dorchester, Mass. and Concord, N. H.

The bearers were John Harrison, Patrick and Thomas Kane, Edward Sica, Michael O'Hare and Frank Sullivan. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Rev. John Burns reading the committal prayers at the grave. Undertaker John J. O'Connell had charge of the funeral arrangements.

THE GOTCH-HACKENSCHMIDT MATCH

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The principals in the international wrestling match which is scheduled to take place at the White Sox baseball park next Monday afternoon began early today the last of their training for the contest.

Frank Gotch, the champion, went from his hotel to the Chicago Athletic club, where during the day he will wrestle with his training partners and do some light gymnasium work.

Hackenschmidt, the Russian challenger, was up early at his camp on the North side and went for a walk along the lake shore.

"I am going to wrestle carefully, and all these stories about me making a rushing bout are false," said Gotch. "If I allow Hack to get hold of me at the start he is likely to break some of my bones with his mighty strength. I believe it will simply simmer down to a case of condition. The man with the greatest endurance will win. I intend to do a little work today which will consist mostly of wrestling with my trainers."

About $50,000 has been taken in at the box office to date and before Monday it is expected the receipts will reach $75,000.

WANT CHEAPER FOOD

DUNKIRK, Department of Nord, France, Sept. 2.—Agitators of the movement for cheaper food completely dominate this vicinity. Three hundred women marched through the streets today as a demonstration to the government that it ought to do something looking to the reduction of high prices. All the roughs of the city have joined in looting the shops, frightening the dealers into barring their store windows and doors. Troops have been requisitioned to restore order.

THE KING ESTATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The estate in realty and personal holdings of James T. King, who died this week, has been certified to the probate court as worth about $700,000. Considerable property is also shown to belong to the estate elsewhere, especially in New Mexico. Mr. King was a close friend of John D. Rockefeller. The immediate heirs are the widow and Mrs. Sheldon Tolles of Cleveland, O., a daughter.

Hermingill Leblanc took place this morning from his late home in Haverhill street, Duncat. The large cortege left the house at 8.30 o'clock and wended its way to St. Louis' church, where at 9 o'clock Rev. R. A. Fortier sang high mass of requiem. The choir under the direction of Mr. Oller rendered the Gregorian chant, Miss Ida Monaghan presiding at the organ. The bearers were: Dostho Genereau, Andre, Samuel and Alexander Leblanc, Philippe Boutin and Cornelius O'Connell. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Undertaker Amedeo Archambault in charge.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

LONDON'S LARGEST FIRE
 SEPTEMBER 2.—London was just about to take a badly needed rest after its battle with the plague in 1605, when on September 2 a fire started in the house of a baker named Purvis. Nothing strange about a fire in a baker's shop, but this one did not stop there. It leaped to the next house and the next, and before long it had reached the City Hall, one of the great fires of history was on the rampage. For three days and three nights the fire raged driven by the wind in one direction and then another till a district two miles long and one mile wide was converted into ashes. The people were panic-stricken, and with-out adequate means of fighting the flames; people who had spent their days in the lap of luxury were converted into paupers without a rag to cover their backs. The Thames was filled with all kinds of goods that the people were trying to save. The fields were crowded with homeless people who had to live in hovels and tents. A change in the wind caused the fire to die out and when the people daily took inventory they found they had lost two-thirds of their city, including thousands of homes, the Royal Exchange, the Cathedral, all their public buildings and over 100 churches.

Griffiths, The Florist

R. A. Griffiths, the well known Central street florist, who for nearly a quarter of a century, has done business in the same location, owing to the improvements to be made by the purchasers of the Hamilton Company's property, has been obliged to vacate his well known place of business owing to the building of the new block. He has been fortunate enough to secure a location in the Keith theatre building, No. 31 Bridge street, and the person who has been doing business with the public for nearly a quarter of a century must certainly have gained the confidence of the public for honesty and fair dealings. Mr. Griffiths will make a special effort to better than ever supply the wants of the public with goods in his line for weddings, receptions, parties and funerals, both in quality, price and prompt delivery. Today the doors of his new establishment will be open to the public, and he wishes to thank all patrons for past favors, and hopes for a continuance of the same, and respectfully invites the public to call and look over his up-to-date floral establishment. DOMESTIC TROUBLES

Aired in Court Before Judge Hadley

Mrs. Ellen J. De Carteret appeared in police court this morning as the complainant against her husband in a case of threat. Mrs. De Carteret claimed that her husband was in the habit of becoming intoxicated and threatening her. De Carteret had little to say, his principle remark being that he would plead guilty to anything his wife said. The court found the defendant guilty and ordered him placed under bonds of $100 to keep the peace for six months. Arthur De Carteret, a brother of the defendant, went bail for the man and the court instructed the brother to stand and keep a good watch on the defendant or else civil proceedings might follow in case there was a breach of the conditions of the order to keep the peace.

Case Will Be Settled

Michael J. Reynolds who appeared before the court yesterday morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $2.35 the property of John McManus and whose case was continued until this morning for disposition, was called. It appears that Mr. McManus loaned the defendant money the latter stating that he would give an order for his pay which was due at city hall yesterday. When McManus went to collect the money it was found that there was a lien on the pay, and he immediately swore out a warrant against Reynolds. Yesterday an agreement was reached between Reynolds and McManus whereby the former was to pay the money back within a limited time and under that condition the case was continued for two weeks.

Case Continued

Michael Hoey, who it is alleged threw his wife down an embankment in the vicinity of Perry street, was brought before the court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery. Inasmuch as his wife is confined to the hospital the case was continued until next Saturday morning.

Commissioners' Sale at Public Auction of the W. E. Somes' Estate

CONSISTING OF THREE-STORY BLOCK OF TWO TENEMENTS AND BAKERY AT NOS. 163-165 EAST MERRIMACK STREET AND 108 FAYETTE STREET, THREE-TENEMENT BLOCK AND TWO STORES AT 173-175 EAST MERRIMACK STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE IN REAR OF 175 EAST MERRIMACK ST. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 110 AND 112 FAYETTE STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 120-122 FAYETTE STREET. TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AT 126-128 FAYETTE STREET, STABLE AND ABOUT 12,732 SQUARE FEET OF LAND.

ON SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1911, AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

I will sell by order of the superior court at the advertised time, to whomsoever will bid the most at absolute auction sale, this extraordinary and extremely well situated estate. The property comprises 13 tenements, three stores and a large stable. On the corner of East Merrimack street and Fayette street is a block of three stories, containing two tenements, one of eight rooms, bath, pantry, gas, city water, etc.; and another of five rooms with cold, gas, etc.; a bakery with large work room in rear, two ovens built in the whole yielding an income of $62 per month. Adjoining at 173 and 175, on East Merrimack street, is a two and a half story block of three tenements, two of four rooms each and one five rooms, also two stores, paying a rental of $35.17 per month. In the rear of the above is a two-tenement house one of three rooms and one of four rooms, with separate toilets recently put in, renting for $15.00 per week each. At Nos. 110 and 112 Fayette street is a two and a half story, two-tenement house of seven rooms each, separate water closets, renting for $25.00 per week each. Adjoining at 120 and 122, another two-tenement house of five rooms each, toilet, etc. renting for $25.00 and $25.00 respectively, per week. At 126 and 128, a two-tenement house of five rooms each, renting for $25.00 and $25.00 per week, respectively. Also stable with two stalls and carriage room, rented at $5 per month.

Now, for the investor in speculator, this sale presents a most unusual opportunity. First, it is to be sold for the highest bona fide bid; secondly its condition is exceptionally good, only recently a considerable amount of money was expended upon it. Again, its location, within five minutes' walk of Merrimack square, also in the very center of the very largest of Lowell's manufacturing industries, assures one of a steady income, as the tenements will always be in demand. The property is situated all in one lot, thereby making it a pleasant and profitable investment, as one is wasting no time in looking after his interests. The entire property rents for $178 per month making a total of $2136 per year. There are 12,732 square feet of land, with a frontage of 60 feet on East Merrimack street and 162 feet on Fayette street.

Attend this sale, as down-town property with the income yielding quality that will pay the revenue on the money invested that this property shows, is very seldom offered at public auction.

Terms: $500 must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off. Other terms made known at sale.

STANLEY E. QUA, Commissioner.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

I will sell to the highest bidder on Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1911, at four o'clock in the afternoon, on the premises, a tract of land containing about 22 acres, together with buildings thereon, situated at Brown's Corner in Billerica, Mass., between North Billerica and Billerica Centre and between the Old Boston road and the Concord river. The property is ideally situated to be sub-divided into camp lots. On the land is a new seven-room cottage ready to be plastered with a bath and front house.

Charles Shea, who it is alleged is a trouble maker when he is under the influence of liquor, was also charged with being drunk and he was ordered to pay a fine of $5.

James F. Connors was sentenced to four months in jail and Michael Martin will spend the next three months at the same place.

James McDonald, Thomas F. Maloney, John J. Dolan and Michael J. Tye were fined $5 each. There was one first offender who was fined $2.

THE 20th ANNIVERSARY

Of Marriage Observed by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricard

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricard are today observing the 20th anniversary of their marriage, but on account of it being a business day, the celebration will take place tomorrow afternoon, when a reception will be held at their home, 120 Fletcher street, the happy event to be continued Monday afternoon and evening.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ricard are favorably known in this city, where they count a host of friends, a number of whom have already tendered their congratulations over the event.

Mr. Ricard was born at Yarmouth, Que., March 22, 1870, and he is now the owner of the old homestead which he purchased four years ago, using the same as a summer resort for his family. At the age of nine he came to this city with his father, the late Andre Ricard, and immediately secured employment in one of the local mills.

the labor law not being so strict at that time. Although working in the mills, Mr. Ricard attended school in the old school formerly at the corner of Race and Merrimack streets where the new fire station is being erected, later going to the Green school, graduating therefrom.

On Sept. 2, 1891, he was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Melanie Lanthier, daughter of the late Joseph Lanthier of St. Jean, Que., the ceremony being performed at St. Joseph's church by Rev. Fr. Amyot, O. M. I., now pastor of St. Marle's church, South Lowell. From this union seven children were born, six of whom are living. They are: Eugene, Leo, Wilmer, Rodolick, Raymond and George.

In 1895, Mr. Ricard who had some knowledge of the jewelry business opened a small watch repairing shop his wife is four months younger. They

11 HOUSE LOTS IN KENWOOD, DRACUT, MASS.

On the several premises, regardless of the weather, I shall offer the above lots four of them being located on Percy street, four on Huron street, and three on Pickney street. The lots all join one another on the different streets. There are several nice little homes on Percy street. The three lots on Pickney street are on very high land and command a good view of the surrounding country. There has been a very nice cement house just completed within 50 yards of the lots on Huron street. The above three streets, located in Kenwood, are opened up from the car line on First street to the Lawrence road. It is a five-cent car fare to Lowell and within five minutes' walk of the new school house. Now, if you are interested in this district, you should attend this sale, as every lot must be sold for just what it will bring. Deposit of $10 will be required on each lot when struck off. For further particulars, call at the office of the auctioneer, where plans can be seen.

C. F. KEYES.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9, AT 3.15 O'CLOCK, IN TWO SEPARATE PARCELS

A two tenement house and about 4000 square feet of land at 93 London street. A cottage house and about 1900 square feet of land at 32 Autumn street. On their respective premises regardless of weather I shall offer for sale, the above two parcels.

FIRST PARCEL—Is a two tenement, 2 1-2 story house and about 4000 square feet of land. There are five rooms and pantry with each tenement; they are lighted by gas are in very good condition, are occupied by good tenants and rents for $16 a month. The lot which is a corner one has good frontages on London and Autumn streets, is high and dry and all fenced in.

SECOND PARCEL—3.30 o'clock—An eight room cottage house and about 1200 square feet of land at 32 Autumn street. There are five rooms and pantry on first floor and three good chambers on the next, lighted by gas, in good condition inside and out and always rented at $11 a month. The lot is well elevated from the street and has a stone wall along the entire frontage. It is well graded, has concrete walks and is all fenced in.

Here is a grand opportunity for someone of moderate means to make a safe and sound investment, for property always rents well in this locality. I think it will be to your advantage to look this property over before the sale.

Terms—$250 on the first parcel and $150 on second, as soon as struck off. A liberal mortgage can remain at 5 per cent. C. F. KEYES in charge.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9th, AT 4.15 O'CLOCK

A 2 1-2 story house and about 6000 square feet of land at 21 Osgood street. On the premises I shall offer at absolute sale the above property. The house consists of nine rooms and bath, steam heat, hot and cold water, set tubs and cemented cellar. It is unoccupied at the present time, as the owner has moved out of the state. For a small amount expended it would make a very nice home for some one who would like to locate in that part of the city. The lot has a good frontage on Osgood street, with an area of 6000 square feet. There is plenty of room in the rear for a nice garden. The electric pass the door and is very convenient to schools and churches, and is 20 minutes' walk to postoffice.

Terms: $300 to be paid as soon as struck off. The house can be seen at any time by calling at the office of the auctioneer.

C. F. KEYES in charge.

JUDGE WATSON THREATENED GREAT SENSATION

Was Sprung at the Beattie Murder Trial Today

CHESTERFIELD COURTHOUSE, Va., Sept. 2.—Before sundown today in this historic little courthouse Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., indicted for the murder of his wife on Middlebury turnpike probably will complete his explanation of the tragedy to a jury that for eight days has heard a variety of circumstantial evidence against him.

The prisoner was expected to take the stand shortly after noon in direct examination to be followed by a vigorous cross examination which it was said possibly might continue into the evening. Today at any rate the defense was prepared to rest its case and to fortify itself over Sunday against the forthcoming rebuttal of the prosecution on Monday.

Upon the kind of story told by the prisoner today many things are dependent. It already has been demonstrated by the defense that the accused would cling minutely to his story at the coroner's inquest concerning the alleged highwayman and would continue to discredit Paul Beattie, both with respect to the purchase of the fatal shotgun and the alleged confession which Paul says he heard from the lips of the accused the night after the tragedy. Importance will attach to the explanation of the prisoner as to his relations with Beulah Blinford, the victim of the crime.

Beattie, though summoned by the prosecution to put on the stand and as he goes on at all it will be in the rebuttal, which is to begin Monday. If the prisoner admits his relationship with the girl in the same way he did at the coroner's inquest the prosecution may not ask the girl to testify, as it is an open secret that her numerous statements and chatter about the case was demonstrated to both sides a certain risk in allowing her to take the stand.

One report today was that the defense might, before the trial was concluded point to Beulah as an accessory before the fact and the prosecution it is understood, has been working on information concerning a girl who is reported to have been told by Beulah that she knew of the planning of the murder.

Only in corroborating the testimony of Paul Beattie, who says he carried certain messages from Henry to Beulah just a few days prior to the murder, it is probable that the prosecution will use her testimony. Such corroboration will not be of much importance as the defense already has by numerous witnesses attacked the veracity of Paul as to other points in his story.

The prosecution, however, stands ready to support Paul's testimony, the most vital assault on which was made by the defense two days ago when H. Noblit testified that he saw Paul standing in a doorway with a gun at the bridge where he works just a day after Paul was supposed to have delivered the weapon to Henry. A man who also saw Paul that day will testify for the prosecution that he saw Paul in the same doorway and it was a stick and not a gun which he held. Furthermore, the prosecution will advise that from the point in the road where Noblit says he split Paul a passerby could not see the doorway on account of an intervening mass of scaffolding. Court was not scheduled to reconvene today until noon on the deposition of a sick witness was to be taken first.

Mrs. M. C. Steger is the witness and she claims that a tramp who came to her home fitted somewhat the description of the alleged highwayman.

Charles Kestleberg of Richmond, the mysterious witness whose discovery yesterday caused counsel for the defense in the Beattie trial to interrupt its examination of witnesses came forward today with the declaration that it was he who was motoring on the Middlebury turnpike on the night of the murder and stopped his machine to get some water while the woman with him stood on the running board.

The testimony of Kestleberg, if accepted as fact, neutralizes the evidence offered by the prosecution in many important respects because the commonwealth has held that it was Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who was crouching in front of a machine on the turnpike while his wife was standing on the running board and was shot, her fall causing the big bloodspot on the road.

"It was I," said Kestleberg, who is a wholesale butcher, to an Associated Press representative before court opened today, "who was on the Middlebury turnpike that night. I saw the crowd of boys pass and they offered me help which I said was unnecessary. I have hesitated to give my information about the case to anybody although I read in the papers that the testimony of the boys indicated that it was Henry Beattie and his wife stopped and that it was Mrs. Beattie standing on the running board. I will tell you frankly that I don't know who the woman was who was with me. I met her on the road and gave her a ride for part of the way. Being a married man I did not wish to volunteer testimony that would put me in a bad light socially, but I told my wife and several intimate friends and I guess it leaked out to the defense, who summoned me today."

Did you see any other cars on the road that night? he was asked.

Several threatening letters came in Judge Watson's mail today. One told him that if Henry C. Beattie, Jr., was convicted and sent to the chair his own years would be numbered. Another from New England, one declared that the gun with which Mrs. Beattie was murdered was not in Virginia now and that Paul Beattie never saw it. Still another signed "Eye-witness" said that neither Henry nor Paul had committed the crime, and made threats against the judge and jury in the event of conviction of the prisoner. All were anonymous. Judge Watson smiled as he handed them to the reporters. One came from New Orleans to Prosecutor Wendenburg and said: "Prosecute Paul Beattie; he's guilty."

The deposition of Mrs. Steger, who is alleged to have seen a highwayman on the road near her home, was not taken, as counsel for the defense admitted that what she knew was of little account.

Charles Kestleberg was a witness today. The prisoner's face was wreathed in smiles as the man entered the room.

Kestleberg told the same story he had given to the reporters before entering the courtroom.

"Who was the lady?" he was asked.

"I don't know but I have been trying to find out ever since."

"Why?"

"I thought you would want her to substantiate what I would say."

"You were drinking that night, weren't you?"

"A few beers."

"How was the woman dressed?"

"In white. She had on one of those mushroom hats."

bership," Eugene Gilmore, Wisconsin. General discussion by legal lights from all sections of the country followed the reading of these reports. There were also reports from Secretary Harry Shout of Chicago, Treasurer Winthrop of New York, Robert Gault of Chicago, and Managing Director Frederick Crossley of Chicago.

ARSON IS CHARGED

Former Worcester Man
Wanted by Police

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 2.—Emery A. Lawrence, formerly engaged in the manufacture of slippers in Worcester, Mass., is wanted here on a charge of setting fire to his home.

Lawrence came to Joliet in 1909, and formed the Buchanan Lawrence company, insole makers. For a home he rented Goodspeed Manor's city mansion. He said he needed a big house to store the great number of curlers he had collected in foreign countries. He moved in the best society.

A fire March 3, which Lawrence said was started by a piece of kindling weed flying and hitting a lamp in the basement, destroyed the home. Nothing was saved, and he collected $10,000 insurance.

An investigation disclosed the fact that the curlers had been removed before the fire and stored in a private barn.

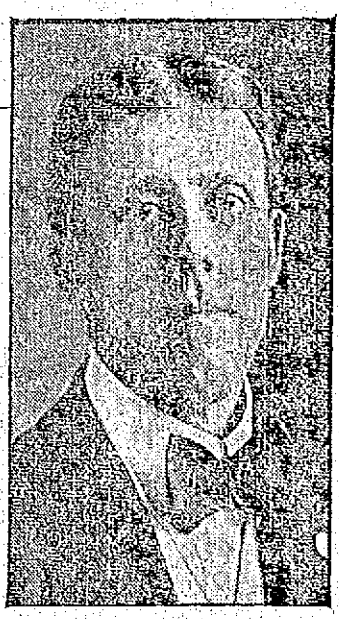

The state's attorney had Pinkerton's agency work up the case.

Lawrence fled Thursday, and it is believed he is hiding in Chicago. Because of a search Saturday Lawrence was forced out of the Buchanan Lawrence company, which was at once incorporated.

NEGRO WENT CRAZY BECAUSE HE HAPPENED TO HOLD FOUR ACES

OWENSBORO, Ky., Sept. 2.—Four aces proved too much for Claude Lyons, a negro, who is being held for malicious shooting and wounding, and will probably be sent to an insane asylum.

In company with four other prisoners Lyons was playing poker in the corridor of the jail here two days ago. The game grew hot and Lyons drew three cards to a pair of aces. He caught the other pair and the betting began. Pennies, matches, tobacco and everything the players could get the others to accept were heaped up on the table, and in the excitement Lyons lost his mind.

Program of Observance--Sports and Open Air Meeting on Common

One of the biggest labor demonstrations in the history of the city is scheduled to take place next Monday and according to the program planned by the hustling committee it bids fair to be a grand success. The only thing possible to mar the success the demonstration will be unfavorable weather, which is very improbable.

The feature of the day will be the monster parade which will start at 9.30 o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon there will be an excellent program of sports carried out on the South common and in the evening there will be an open air meeting on the South common and many prominent speakers will deliver addresses.

It is expected that there will be about 2500 people in line and a number of floats. Already merchants on the principal streets are starting to decorate their buildings and by Monday all of the principal buildings along the route of parade will be decorated.

This will be the first Labor Day parade held in this city since 1904 and the members of the various unions are very enthusiastic over the coming demonstration.

The officers of the day are: General manager, John J. Mahoney, Typographical union; assistant general manager, Timothy Rourke, Butchers' union; treasurer, Mrs. Annie Odel, Cotton Weavers' union; chief marshal of parade, Charles E. Anderson, Iron Molders' union; chief of staff, Thomas J. Reagan, Cotton Weavers' union; adjutant, Joseph P. Convery, Carpenters' union; marshal of Trades & Labor council, Murthey Lyons, Booters' union; marshal of second division, Patrick Carney, Building Laborers' union; marshal of third division, Dennis Healey, Leather Workers' union.

The following will act as aides to the chief marshal:

John Buey, building laborers; Chas. Davis, teamsters 72; Edward O'Brien, street railway men 55; William H. Lester, carpenters 49; Philip Roy, car-penters 1610; William H. Mulcahey, theatrical stage employees; Sandy Dunn, brewery teamsters; Joseph Kennedy, brewery bottlers; Stanislaw Wozniak, cotton weavers; John W. Downing, International brotherhood of stationary firemen, local 11; James E. Anderson, barbers; Carl Heidenreich, brewery workers; Thomas McKenna, cigar makers; James A. Burns, clerks; Joseph P. Fiske, representing citizens; Fred Latendresse, leather workers; Michael Larkin, international molders 55; Hugh Maguire, bartenders; William D. Raygan, printing pressmen; Frank Kierce, city teamsters; Harvey B. Greene, federation of churches; Fred A. Hennessy, street railway men 280; Frank Warner, plasterers; Joseph Preston, painters; Fred Robey, electrical workers; William McElroy, steam engineers; Moses Daigle, loom-fixers.

Second division—Building Laborers, Molders, Painters, Carpenters 49 and 1810, Electrical Workers.

Third division—Leather Workers, Locomotives, Brewery Workers, Teamsters 72, Bartenders.

Route of Parade

The formation and route of the parade will be as follows:

The first division will form on Middle street, right resting on Central street. The second division will form on Market street, right resting on Central street. The third division will form on Jackson street, right resting on Central street.

At 9.30 o'clock sharp the parade will move over the following route: Middle street to Central, to Middlesex, to Thorndike to Fletcher, to Adams, to Cabot, to Merrimack (to be reviewed at city hall by members of city government), to Bridge, to Sixth, counter-march to Prescott, to Central, to Charles, to Summer, to South common where it will be reviewed by the Chief Marshal and staff and dismissed.

The Prizes

As an incentive for the unions to turn out in full numbers and present features in the parade the committee has offered $90 in prizes. Twenty dollars has been offered as the first prize for the feature and $10 for second prize. Largest number of men in line, first prize, $10; second prize, $5; best appearing union, first prize, $20, second prize, $10; best motto, first prize, $3, second prize $2.

Loyal Integrity Lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U., History and Officers

Loyal Integrity lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U., was instituted on the seventeenth day of July, 1884, in a hall at 78 Middle street, by Prov. Grand Master Thos. Fyans of Taunton, Mass. The charter members were, K. J. MacKenzie, John G. Gordon, Roderick MacKenzie, George Cochran, John W. Southerland, William Powell, John M. Strachan, Edwin C. Phillips, Edmund E. MacLean, Levi J. Foster.

For three years the lodge held its meetings in Barrister's hall at the corner of Central and Merrimack streets. In 1887 it moved to Bay State hall, Central street, and from there it again moved to Manchester Unity hall, 128 Central street. E. K.'s hall in Middle street, is the present meeting place and has been for some years past.

At first, the progress was slow and for a long time, little was done to bring it to public notice. It lived a quiet, honest life, doing all the good it could and making no great fuss about it.

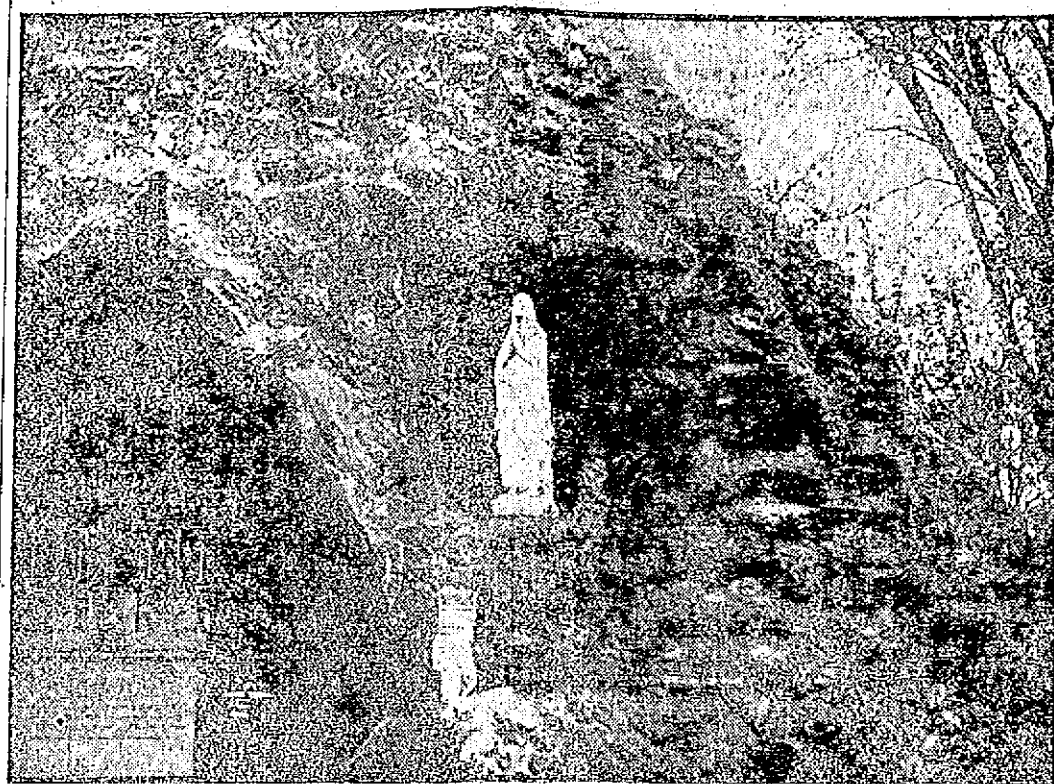

The past grounds of the lodge are:

The present officers are: N. Grand, John Osborn, vice grand, Walter McGrath; elective secretary, J. Alfred Hudson; treasurer, Wm. T. Hutton; chaplain, Chas. J. Grand; R. S. to N. G., Chas. E. Sargent; L. S. to N. G., John McClean; R. S. to V. G., Wm. De Long; L. S. to V. G., James McArde; Warden, G. L. Curtis; inside guard, J. E. Williams. Thomas Chadwick was elected permanent secretary, July 1, 1910, and has retained that position for eleven consecutive years. During this period, there has been a gain of 194 members, also a net financial gain of $2611.24. Integrity Lodge has paid to its members, for sick and funeral expenses, the sum of $8947.41. At present, the balance in local banks is $3481.52.

The good works of Integrity lodge are known to few save those who were the grateful recipients of its beneficent actions, and we can safely say that no Odd Fellow or Odd Fellow's widow will suffer while it is within our power to help them.

GROTTO OF OUR LADY OF LOURDES ON GROUNDS OF FRENCH-AMERICAN ORPHANAGE

Monster French Parade to be Held Monday Afternoon

All is now in readiness for the big celebration to be held Monday afternoon and evening in connection with the blessing of the grotto to Our Lady of Lourdes, erected on the grounds of the French American orphanage in Pawtucket street, and according to plans the affair will be one of the most elaborate ever held in this city by the French speaking people. It will consist of a monster parade in which 10,000 men are expected to turn out with 12 floats of a religious nature, escorted by the second regiment of the French American Volunteer Brigade of New England, followed by the blessing of the grotto in the afternoon and a torch light parade in the evening in which the several religious societies of St. Joseph's parish will take part. A sermon will be preached by Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., and the exercises will close with the benediction of the blessed sacrament.

The afternoon parade will start at 2 o'clock sharp, and the signal to start will be one stroke of the fire bells. The roster of the parade and its points of formation will be as follows:

Chief marshal, Xavier Delisle; chief of staff, Joseph L. Lamoureux; chief aid, Frank Ricard; bugler, Ellis Belleville.

The marshal's staff composed of delegates from the different societies and guards will form in Pawtucket street opposite the Lowell hospital, and will be in command of Joseph L. Lamoureux.

First division, Colonel Albert Bergeron of the French American Volunteer Brigade in command; Independent band, Garde Frontenac, Garde Jacques-Cartier, Garde Hussards Canadiens de Lawrence, Garde Wilfrid Laurier of Lawrence, Garde d'Honneur of Fitchburg, Garde d'Honneur Armee corps, Garde Nationale of Haverhill, Garde St. George of Manchester, Garde Rochambeau of Nashua, Garde St. Louis of Newburyport, Garde St. Jean Baptiste of Manchester. This division will form on Mt. Washington street, right resting on Pawtucket.

Second Division

Cavalcade, West Cambridge band, Out-of-town Catholico Foresters, Court St. Antoine, float, "Faith, Hope and Charity," Court St. Paul, float, "Jacques-Cartier planting the first cross in Canada," Out-of-town French American Foresters, L'Union Samuel de Champlain, float, "Champlain consecrating Quebec to the Virgin," Out-of-town councils of L'Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, Carillon council, float, "Lafayette and Washington," Out-of-town Artisans Canadiens Francais, Branch St. Andre. This division will form in Fletcher street, right resting in Pawtucket.

Third Division

Pawtucketville division, color, red. Pennant bearer, George Rivard, Jr.; marshal, Fred Giroux; chief of staff, George Rivard, Sr.; chief aid, G. M. Bourgeois.

Cavalcade, Cadet band, float, "15 Mysteries of the Rosary," citizens of Pawtucketville, James St. Hilaire in command of the married section, float, "Jeanne Mance," young men of Pawtucketville, Thomas Matte in command, officers. This division will form in Moody street opposite the Pawtucketville Social club at 1:30 o'clock.

Fourth Division

Color, blue. Marshal, Joseph Payette; chief of staff, J. P. Marchand; chief aid, Maxime Cornille.

Cavalcade, Lowell City band, Association "Catholique," float, "Five Prominent Men of Canada," St. Joseph society, St. Jean Baptiste society, 2nd, "France and Canada," prepared by Notre Dame de Bon Secours society, Anges Gardiens sodality, float proper-

Holy Family sodality, float prepared by Notre Dame de Lourdes sodality; parishioners, float prepared by Rev. Sister St. Leontine; two floats bearing the orphans, Co. B of the A. G. Cadets, float bearing the statue of Notre Dame de Lourdes which is to be placed in the grotto. On the right of the float, Co. A. A. G. Cadets, left, Garde d'Honneur, Garde Sacre-Coeur of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish. This division will form in Salem street, right resting in Pawtucket.

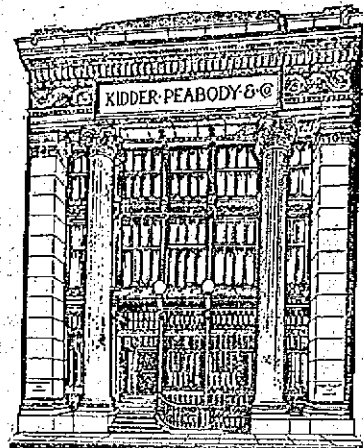

The parade will start from in front of the C. M. A. C. club house in Pawtucket street, the said building to be the headquarters for the day. The route of the parade will be as follows: Pawtucket, Merrimack around Monument square, Moody over the bridge in Pawtucketville, Fourth avenue, Mammoth road, Pawtucket and into the orphanage grounds, where the blessing of the grotto will be performed by Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., who will also deliver a short address.

The customs to be worn on the marshal's staff is as follows: Silk hat, Prince Albert coat, white gloves, black leggings, white duck pants, black shoes, and each delegate will wear the insignia of the society he is representing. The military delegates will wear their regular guard uniform.

All along the route of the parade the residences and places of business have been richly decorated, and the red, white and blue bunting as well as the American and French flags present a beautiful sight.

At 8 o'clock in the evening a short attention will be given in honor of Our Lady of Lourdes. This will be followed by the recitation of the rosary. After the parade a torchlight parade will be held by the religious societies of the parish, headed by the orphans, the Children of Mary and the Notre Dame de Lourdes sodalities. The procession will be around the grounds and return to the grotto where a sermon will be preached by Rev.

We have on hand at all times lists of standard bonds and stocks suitable for investors. These are at your disposal. We respectfully solicit your patronage and will be pleased to correspond or send a representative to call on you.

FUNERAL OF JUDGE RICHARDSON

ORFORD, N. H., Sept. 2.—In the Congregational church in this village where Judge Henry Richardson always attended services while at his summer home simple funeral services were held this afternoon for the late Massachusetts jurist.

Associates on the bench, leading members of the Massachusetts bar, Dartmouth classmates and local friends of Judge Richardson filled the church. Prayers, scripture reading, the singing of a few hymns and an appreciation of the life of the late justice composed the services. Rev. Henry Wentworth, pastor of the church, read selections from the Bible and offered prayer. The eulogy was delivered by Rev. Henry Cushman of the Tufts Divinity school, a lifelong friend of Judge Richardson. Burial was in the family lot in the Orford cemetery.

Chief Justice Aiken of the Massachusetts superior court headed the list of honorary pallbearers, the others being Associate Justice Sherman of the same court, former Judge John C. Hale of Ohio, a classmate of Judge Richardson at Dartmouth college; Edwin B. Hale, a former law partner of the justice; President Emeritus William Tucker of Dartmouth, and former Judge Jesse Johnson, an intimate friend of Judge Richardson. The active bearers included Frank Dickerman, a former law partner of the justice, and Charles Dolan, messenger of the Massachusetts superior court. The bar association of Middlesex county sent the following delegation to attend the services: Edwin A. Hale, Charles Lilley, Hollis R. Bailey, Frank E. Dunbar, Larkin Trull, George Travis and Winfield Slocum.

THE FIRST ACCIDENT In the Great Harvard-Boston Aviation Meet

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The first accident in the two years of aviation at Squantum took place early this afternoon when Joseph Cummings fell 300 feet in a Blériot monoplane into Dorchester bay but managed to drag himself out and swim ashore. He was badly bruised but expects to resume flying next week.

Cummings is a Boston man but went to France about a year ago, where he took aviation lessons at the Blériot school. He had not figured in the three days flying at Squantum as his machine lacked several important parts.

When he started up today the sun was halfway to the zenith and the wind was light. He made a circle of the field and then started over the water. He said afterward that the sun got in his eyes and before he realized it the monoplane was diving for the water. Several saw him make the plunge and one of the mechanicians, who was taking a morning swim, started out to help. A whale-boat also pushed out from the revet in the two years of aviation at Squantum took place early this afternoon when Joseph Cummings fell 300 feet in a Blériot monoplane into Dorchester bay but managed to drag himself out and swim ashore. He was badly bruised but expects to resume flying next week.

THE CANNING SEASON

Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., pastor of the parish and promoter of the grotto movement.

The grotto which is of cement was built by Contractor J. B. Morin, and is an artistic piece of work, erected exactly on the same plan as the original grotto at Lourdes, France, with the exception of the basilica on its summit. Two pieces of the rock on which the Virgin appeared in the apparition to Bernadette at Lourdes, France, were imbedded in the grotto. There is also a marble altar to be used when services are held at the grotto.

After Monday the grotto will be public and whoever wishes to visit it can do so providing they follow the route as directed on the grounds, but Monday an admission fee of 10 cents will be asked of every one except those taking part in the parade. This is done in order to keep out the rowdies.

Messrs. D. A. Lambert, J. E. Lambert and the Rev. Bro. Ephrem, the latter of Montreal, Que., attended the aeroplane meet at Squantum, Mass., yesterday.

Mr. Severin Hebert of West Sixth street, left yesterday for Manchester, N. H., where he was called to the bedside of his father who is critically ill.

Edgar Lambert, W. Drapeau and D. Lussier, the latter of Sorel, Que., are today attending the aeroplane meet at Squantum, Mass.

Parochial School Will Reopen on Tuesday

The Sacred Heart Parochial school will begin the new term on Tuesday, Sept. 5th. On Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock all the children of the school, their parents and teachers will assist at the Mass of the Holy Ghost to be sung in the church, to invoke the blessing of God on the new year's work.

Since the opening of the splendid new and modern equipped school building the attendance has greatly increased and interest in the school work has doubled. Last year there were six hundred and fifty children registered in the primary and grammar departments. Thirty-nine pupils in the grammar grades received penmanship diplomas and awards from the A. N. Palmer School of Boston and twenty-eight finished the grammar school course successfully.

This year, the Sisters of St. Mary, who are in charge, are preparing for a much larger attendance and there is every indication of even more successful work than last year.

Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., is preaching the annual retreat at the Oblate house of studies at Tewksbury.

Rev. Sister Anastasia, a former pupil of the Sacred Heart school, after a short visit to the convent of the Sisters of St. Mary, has returned to the convent at which she is station in Buffalo, N. Y.

CONG. CARTER

SAYS THAT CLERKS INSULTED HIS DAUGHTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Congressman Charles D. Carter of Ardmore, Oklahoma, created a sensation in the heart of the smart shopping center here yesterday by assaulting four clerks, one of whom it is alleged, insulted his 18-year-old daughter, Miss Italy Carter, who was with her father on a shopping expedition.

Representative Carter assailed the first clerk, Joseph Josephson, with his fists, and when three of the young man's companions came to their friend's aid the Oklahoma congressman brought his walking stick into play and wielded it vigorously until he was master of the field. According to Mr. Carter, his daughter described to Josephson a certain kind of coat which she wished to purchase. He declares the clerk thought Miss Carter was unattended and sought to engage her in conversation.

"Continuing his advances," which were followed by repulses," said Mr. Carter, "the young man became insulting. When I politely asked the clerk the cause of the trouble he became infuriated and said uncomplimentary things about my daughter. I told her to accompany me from the store, and as we reached the door he called me several names."

The fight was brief but exciting until the clerks were vanquished. Meanwhile Miss Carter stood in tears on the sidewalk outside the store until her father reached her side and took her from the scene.

CITY OF LAWRENCE

May Not be Able to Pay the City Employees

LAWRENCE, Sept. 2.—City Treasurer William A. Kelleher announced this forenoon that the wages of city employees would be paid today as usual but that he could make no prediction as to the ability of the city to meet forthcoming payrolls. He said that the payment of the payrolls, bonds and interest charges today would practically exhaust the city's resources, and this in view of the refusal of Boston bankers to sign city notes for an additional temporary loan in anticipation of taxes would leave him dependent upon collections alone to meet the expenses of the future.

Mayor Cahill attributes the refusal of the Boston bankers to loan Lawrence money to the interference of the local bankers who attempted some weeks ago to have the governor appoint a commission to take over the affairs of Lawrence. He contended that the city can legally borrow $175,000 and is much incensed over the dilemma, claiming that political opponents are trying to get him "in bad."

City Solicitor Daniel K. Murphy was out of town today and could not be consulted as to what course he would advise under the circumstances.

City officials, other than the mayor, see little hope of the city being able to do anything more than meet its tax notes and interest and payments the remainder of the year, leaving the monthly drafts and the weekly payrolls unpaid, as it is pointed out that if the city treasurer attempts to use the 1911 tax money for current expenses there is little doubt but that an injunction would be sought and obtained to prevent him from using it for any other purpose than the payment of the tax notes which were issued in anticipation of such collections.

Two monthly drafts amounting to over $100,000 have been held up for lack of funds already and another will be due September 12.

"SCHOOL OF CRIME"

Lawyers Criticise Conditions at Deer Island

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—"A school of crime, antiquated, antediluvian, semi-barbaric," were some of the terms used by the members of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology after their visit to the Deer Island house of correction yesterday afternoon.

President Nathan W. MacChesney of the Institute, a leading member of the Chicago bar, and an expert on the subject of criminology were particularly free-spoken in their criticism of the institution.

"The congregation of the casual offenders and the habitual criminals, as is the condition here," he declared, "is unworthy of Massachusetts. This system is years and years behind the best methods of treating criminals; here the whole idea of reformatory, namely, an attempt to reform those who have merely committed misdemeanors, is entirely lost sight of."

The trip to Deer Island was taken after the morning meeting of the institute in the Walker building by a score or so of the members. While often expressing their admiration for the location and for portions of the equipment, particularly the women's building, the criminologists were almost unanimous in their condemnation of the administration of a reformatory which permitted continual association between young men and women committed for their first offence, often some trivial violation of police regulations, and old and hardened criminals. Incarcerated for some serious felony.

Conditions Antediluvian

"Conditions here are positively antediluvian," one of the experts declared. "No account is taken of the progress which has been made in the theory of treating criminals during the last half century."

"The whole idea in the handling of criminal cases," said President MacChesney, "is the separation of habitual criminals who have served a number of terms in prison and the first offender who is detained for some slight misdemeanor. This whole idea is lost sight of here, apparently no attempt at classification is made; the old hardened offender and the casual prisoner are placed side by side and allowed to associate with one another continually. This institution is a veritable breeding place for criminals."

The men's dormitories at the institution were also the object of severe criticism. The men's cells, constructed before the civil war, with no sanitary arrangements at all, were termed barbaric, and, as one member said, "ought to be dynamited."

"It has long been an accepted principle in the study of crime," one of the visiting experts said, "that criminal instincts in a man are accentuated by weakening his physical condition. Those antiquated, ill-ventilated, unspa-

FUNERAL NOTICE

LARKIN—The funeral of the late John J. Larkin, Sr., will take place from his home in Highland avenue tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The best net and the best gross score will qualify, and the eight winners will play off at a date to be set by the tournament committee. The weekly tournaments open at 1 p. m. and the entry list closes at 3:30 p. m.

October tournaments are to be arranged if the interest warrants that, and this undoubtedly means that they will be held, for there has been considerable playing already on the new links, and the players find them very attractive.

BURNED TO DEATH

Officer Was Making an Aeroplane Flight

TROYES, France, Sept. 2.—Lieut. DeGrally of the Eighth Cuirassiers, while making an aeroplane flight from this city today was burned to death in mid-air.

The disaster probably was caused by the explosion of the fuel tank, the burning fluid being scattered all over the machine. The blazing aeroplane fell with its pilot at Rigny-La-Normandie, about 25 miles from this city, and was completely incinerated.

TO ENTER COLLEGE

LOWELL BOYS AND GIRLS TO LEAVE NEXT WEEK

Vacation time is nearly over and next week a large number of Lowell boys and girls will leave to resume their studies in the convents and colleges of Canada, while several boys are going to Buffalo, N. Y., with the intention of joining the Oblate order. Those who will go next week are as follows:

Monday: Bernadette Albert, St. Anne Academy, Marlboro, Mass.; Joseph Albert, St. Joseph college, Berthierville, Que.; Blanche Albert, St. Felix de Valois convent.

Tuesday: Maximo Corneli, Gaston Achin, Eugene Bolduc, Lucien Brassard, Ubaldo Dubois and Joseph Leclerc, Holy Angels college, Buffalo, N. Y. This group will be accompanied by Rev. Edouard Chaput, O. M. I., of Tewksbury, who recently was appointed assistant director of the Buffalo diocese.

Antonio Vincent and Willie Drapeau, St. Charles Borromeo college, Sherbrooke, Que.; Estelle Brassard, Marguerite and Estelle Toupin, Blanche Theriault and Antoinette Breault, convent of Nicolet, Que.; Oscar Vincent, college of Nicolet, Que.; Joseph Savignac, college of Joliette, Que.

ALL DAY TOURNEY

At the Mt. Pleasant Golf Club

An all day open handicap tournament has been arranged for Labor day at the Mount Pleasant golf club at the end of the Westford street electric car line, and the club is in hopes that all of the members will be present, during some part of the day and participate in the contest. A cordial invitation is extended to the friends of the members to be present, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Those who wish to take part in the tournament can do so, but if they don't they can go and play just the same.

Considerable work has been done on the links this month, and members who have not been present of late will find a big improvement in the course. President William H. Wilson of the club has presented the club a cup as a prize for the winner. The tournament will be held on Saturdays, Sept. 9, 16, 23 and 30. The best net and the best gross score will qualify, and the eight winners will play off at a date to be set by the tournament committee. The weekly tournaments open at 1 p. m. and the entry list closes at 3:30 p. m.

October tournaments are to be arranged if the interest warrants that, and this undoubtedly means that they will be held, for there has been considerable playing already on the new links, and the players find them very attractive.

The price of sugar is reported higher than at any time since 1905. The trust is probably trying to recoup itself for the expenses of its recent prosecution by the federal government on a variety of charges criminal and otherwise.

Mr. J. L. Chalfoux made many good points in his address on the new charter before the Citizens Americans the other night, but one of the best showed that as a democrat in a republican ward he might as well be disfranchised as vote for any member of the common council or school committee. The same is true of the republicans in the democratic wards. Moreover where either party has a majority in the common council the other might almost as well send no representatives there. All this will be changed under the new charter, where every vote will count in the general contest for the elective offices.

The Standard Oil trust as such has dissolved and gone out of existence in accordance with the decision of the United States supreme court; but the business will be conducted by the same people, by the same interests and with the same monopolistic power. The decision has simply shown this trust how to do a trust business and at the same time evade the anti-trust law. As now conducted the operations of this trust although fully as effective as before in stamping out competition cannot be charged with unreasonable restraint of trade. The highest court in the land has so legislated.

THE SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS

The public playgrounds this year were conducted in a highly successful manner. The supervisors, Messrs. H. A. Bruce, R. E. Guillo, E. J. Shulte, James A. Rooney and Thomas Maloney, are all deserving of praise for their enthusiastic labors. The lady assistants also deserve commendation as having done a very important part of the work. The children were benefited from the discipline, the fraternal spirit inculcated and the physical training. The supervised playground is a pronounced success and its usefulness will grow from year to year if the park board cooperates with the good ladies who have been kind enough to start the work. It has filled a great void in the lives of the children who are at a loss for something to occupy their attention during the summer vacation. Parents too have felt relief at knowing that their children were engaged at the public playgrounds rather than running after wagons, going to the rivers to bathe or to the country to forage for fruit.

PUBLIC MARKET WOULD LOWER PRICES

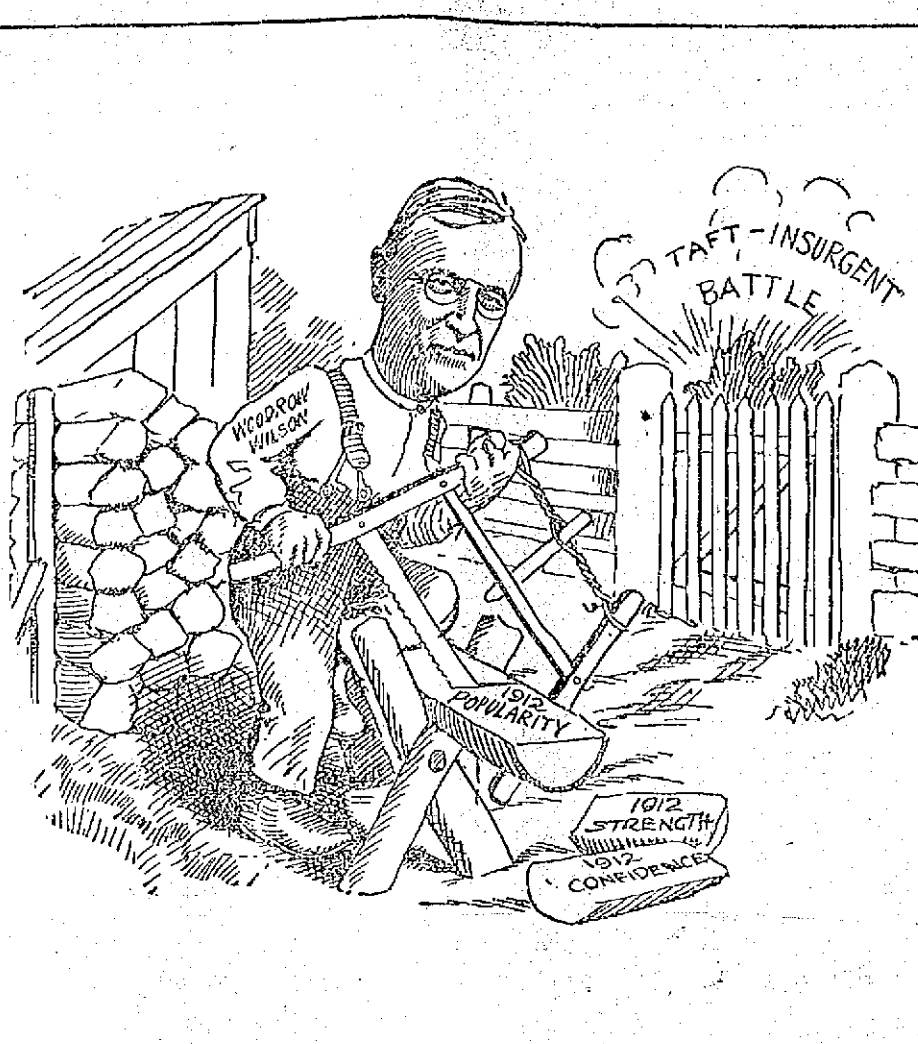

Parisians have begun an agitation against the high cost of living, their demands being emphasized in street parades. A demonstration somewhat similar was recently started in Des Moines, Ia., the city made famous for originating the more complete form of commission city charter. The mayor of the city, as he was bound to do, took action at once upon the demands of the people. To ascertain whether the retailers were responsible for the high prices of household necessities, he invited all the hawksters, peddlers and small dealers to use the municipal grounds fronting city hall on which to sell their commodities. The result brought relief on a great many articles sold in the markets. As a result prices were lowered in the markets, showing that the retailers or the middlemen had been demanding excessive profits.

By this experiment the mayor of Des Moines demonstrated the great advantage of a public market in every city in the land. It is now several years since The Sun started an agitation for a public market in this city. For a time the idea of having such a market in connection with a public hall was favored, but owing to a number of causes, chief of which were the inertia of our city government and the lack of funds, the whole project has been dropped as hopeless until we attain the new order of things that will follow the adoption of the Des Moines charter soon to be passed upon by the voters of our city. There is not a doubt that a great deal can be done to help the people in many ways by a prompt response to popular demands such as we see in Des Moines and such as we hope to see in our own city after we shall have adopted the Des Moines system of city government.

LABOR DAY

Labor Day, which this year will be celebrated on a very large scale in this city, has come to be recognized as labor's holiday throughout the country. The origin of this holiday dates back to 1883 when the Knights of Labor held a great parade in New York on the first Monday in September. On the same day the following year another parade and meeting occurred at which Mr. George Lloyd offered a resolution providing that the first Monday in September should be known as Labor Day and observed as such by organized labor throughout the country. The state of Colorado is said to have been the first to make the day a legal holiday in 1887, and all the other states, together with the district of Columbia, soon followed. The day is utilized not only as a day of rest and recreation but for the purpose of holding public parades and demonstrations in favor of the demands of organized labor. In this respect the observance of the day has tended greatly to extend the influence and power of organized labor.

Some states authorize cities and towns to appropriate money for the observance of Labor Day. The statutes of Massachusetts, section 28, chapter 26, of the revised laws provide that the city council of any city may by a vote of two-thirds of the members of each branch thereof present and voting, appropriate money for the celebration of holidays and for other public purposes to an amount not exceeding in any one year one-fifth of one per cent. of its valuation for such year. This year the city council appropriated $1000 to assist the labor organizations in the celebration of the day, the money to be spent under the direction of the mayor and a committee of the city council. It will be a great gala day for the laboring people, and it is the hope of everybody that they will enjoy it to the utmost.

SEEN AND HEARD

An orderly arrangement of working hours is a desirable and time-saving thing, but when one reads the plan of the day made by a colored parson he cannot help wondering where the good man's family life came in and if the system held any possibility of relaxation. The record, quoted by William Root Bliss in "Side Glances from the Colonial Meeting House," is taken from the diary of Thomas Prince, a minister of the Old South church, Boston.

1113. Oct. 30th. 1 marry.
Nov. 10. We begin to keep house.
My proposed order is:
At 5 get up and go into study. Pray and read in original Bible till 6, and then call up the family.
At 8½ go to Family Prayers and only the Porridge of Chocolate for Breakfast till 7. I go into my study till 12½ then do something about the House till 1 to dinner, except on Thursday study till 10½ then Dress and 11 Lecture.
At 2 Dress and go abroad till Candlelight. Except Wednesdays after dinner do something about the House and Saturday afternoons visit at Dr. Sewell's till 2½ then Home and study till Candlelight. Study till 8½.
At 9½ go to Family Prayers and go to bed.
N. B. I eat no supper.
One consolation, the poor parson could say: "Nothing to do till tomorrow."

"The other night," says a correspondent, "I was coming in from Chelmsford Centre, and as the car had quite a wait on a turnout I had a chance to see how the crews while away the time."

time. The conductor stepped from the car and was followed by the motorman and they each picked up a handful of small stones and they began to throw at a trolley past about 250 feet away, and by the time the outward bound car hove in sight they had probably thrown 25 or 30 stones each, and it was surprising how often they hit the mark. But the conductor had it all over his running mate. When the street railway men are making up a ball team they should not overlook "1431" as a pitcher.

PRETTY PEGGY
When Peggy goes a-marketing,
Denure and prim and neat,
I would I were the dusty road
To sing beneath her feet;
I would I were the basket on
Her soft brown dimpled arm,
Then life would be a market day
Unending in its charm.

When Peggy trips the minut
With any gallant beau,
Her dainty feet flash in and out
Like satin stars that glow;
Her laughter weaves the sweetest tune
That ever lone heart heard,
The murmur of a brook that wakes
The love note of a bird.

When Peggy leads her way to church
My heart must follow, too,
And wish it were those violets
Mismannered "her eyes of blue,"
And wish it were the book of prayer
That smiles up in her face,
"Twould ask no fairer heaven above
Nor truer need of grace.

Sweet Peggy, life's a queer old chap
Who must delight in pain
To drop your glances in my heart
Like pearls of silver rain,
To weave a white and gold romance
Of dreams that fade away,
For you have slept a hundred years
And I'm a song today.

—Gordon Johnstone.

THE MODERN SONG
In days of old when lovers fond Pond wooed their ladies fair,
With opposition of a kind
Parental in the air,
One came unto the lady's bower;
And horses fleet brought her,
The while he whispered soft and low,
"My love, come fly with me."

Then they would fly on marriage bent
Upon their gallant steeds;
For flying always meant a goal
To meet their nuptial needs.
But different is all this today,
No lover must he be
Who says unto a maid these times,
"Come, will you fly with me?"

He merely means in friendly way
That he is kindly fair
To give her a delightful ride
In his new aeroplane;
But maidens must prefer old ways,
And rather do they sigh
Than with an aviator bold,
A lover true to fly.

The name of Mary has played an important part in history. In Scotland the first royal Mary was the daughter of Duke Arnold of Guelders, who married James II and afterward became queen regent. Then we have Mary of Lorraine, who married James V after refusing Henry VIII. Their daughter was the famous Mary Queen of Scots, and the most romantic and fascinating figure in the whole history of the olden Marys. Then there was Mary Tudor, Henrietta Maria became the ill-fated wife of Charles I. Mary of Modena was the second wife of James II. Mary, the daughter of James II by his first wife, by her marriage with William of Orange invested their joint reign with a glory which is even now undiminished. Since then we have had several princesses named Mary, one the daughter of George II, another of George III, while the mother of our late queen was Mary Louise Victoria. But the most essentially English of all Marys in the history of the country is our present beloved queen, says the London Globe.

It was in the hotel of a western mining town that the New England guest, registering in the office, heard a succession of wild yells.

"What in the world is that—a murder going on upstairs?" he demanded. "No," said the clerk as he slammed the book and lounged toward the stairs, "it's the spring bed up in No. 5. That tenderfoot up there don't get the hang of it, and every few days he gets one of the spiral springs screwed into him like a shirt stud. I guess I'll have to go up, if there ain't anything more I can do for you for a few minutes."

HENRY HUDSON'S QUEST
Out from the harbor of Amsterdam
The Half Moon turned her prow to
The coast of Norway dropped behind;
Yet northward still kept she
Through the drifting fog and the driving snow,
Where never before man dared to go.
"O, pilot, shall we find the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"A waste of ice before us lies—we must turn back," said he.

Westward they steered their tiny bark;
Westward through weary weeks they sped,
Till the cold grey strand of a stranger-land
Loomed through the mist ahead.
League after league they hugged the coast,
And their captain never left his post.
"O, pilot, see you yet the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"I see but the rocks and the barren shore, no strait is there," quoth he.

They sailed to the north, they sailed to the south,
And at last they rounded an arm of sand
Which held the sea from a harbor's mouth.
The loveliest in the land,
They kept their course across the bay,
And the shore before them fell away.
"O, pilot, see you not the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"Hold the rudder true! Praise Christ Jesus! the strait is here," said he.

Onward they glide with wind and tide,
Past marches grey and crags sun-kissed;
They skirt the silks of green-cold hills,
And meadows white with mist—
But alas! the hope and the brave, brave dream;
For rock and shadow bar the stream.
"O, pilot, can this be the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"Nay, captain, nay; 'tis not the way; turn back we must," said he.

Full sad was Hudson's heart as he turned
The Half Moon's prow to the south once more;
He saw no beauty in crag or hill,
No beauty in curving shore;
For they shut him away from that fair main
He sought his whole life long, in vain.
"O, pilot, say, can there be a strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"God's cry is sealed. 'Twill stand revealed in his own good time," quoth he.

EDITORIAL COMMENT
Fall River Globe: That globe-trotting French newspaper reporter who has accomplished the feat of circling around the earth inside of his 40 days' limit, has performed a stunt that even the birdmen will not be able to beat for a long time to come.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S VETOES
New York Times: The Underwood revision of the wool schedule Mr. Taft found to be unacceptable because it had been prepared without information as to cost differences and other factors which the tariff board is engaged in studying. The general opinion of the country, we are sure, is that in signing a bill which reduces the run of duties on woolen fabrics from 35 per cent. to 45 per cent, he would have run no great risk of sanctioning duties too low to meet the "reasonable profit" to American manufacturers. However, he was of a different opinion and vetoed the bill.

Now, suppose the report of the tariff board should be of such a nature as to justify rates below those fixed in the Underwood bill. That would show that Mr. Taft had entirely misjudged the result and had done injustice to its authors in imputing haste and recklessness to them in preparing new rates. On the other hand, suppose the board's report should indicate the necessity of duties considerably higher than those fixed by the Underwood bill. Does the president suppose, do the wool manufacturers or the friends of protection generally, imagine for a moment, that the country would accept such a report as a fair and impartial presentation of facts fit to serve as a basis for the revision of that schedule? Would it not, on the contrary, he said everywhere that the president's tariff bill was but a part of the great protectionist organization, co-operating with the republican party and with the president himself to maintain the "Indefensible" duties of Schedule K? It seems to us that embarrassments which might easily have been avoided by signing the wool bill have been deliberately invited by the veto.

How the Election of a Pontiff to the Papal Throne Is Accomplished by the College of Cardinals

BY GEORGE WAUGH ARNOLD

When the illness of a pope of Rome becomes so serious that his death is regarded as imminent all the civilized world takes a keen interest in the manner of the election of his successor.

The pope is elected for life—once a pope a pope till death—and even when dead, the cardinals are to the church what the senate of old Rome was to the people and what the senate of this country is to the United States. The administration of the church during the interregnum belongs to the cardinals. The dean of the sacred college is their president. They can undertake no important change in the affairs of the church. The duty that devolves upon them is to elect the next successor to St. Peter.

The dean of the sacred college at the pope's death summons every cardinal throughout the whole world to take part in the election.

In the first session of the conclave each of the cardinals takes a solemn oath on the gospels to observe the canons that refer to the election in the conclave. The bulls of the nine popes who legislated on the mode of procedure in the election of the pope by ballot in the conclave are read aloud to them. The fisherman's ring, being part of the insignia of the holy father, is now unscrewed by the master of ceremonies, and the first session of the conclave comes to a close.

On the second day the various officers of the pontifical states come to pay their respects to the cardinals, and the next three days are spent in elections to the different offices that are to be filled in the conclave.

Busy First Five Days

On the sixth day the cells that each cardinal is to occupy are allotted to him, where both the cardinal and his secretary are to dwell during the whole time of the conclave.

The Vatican contains 1,100 rooms, and there is a very spacious hall set apart and fitted up for the special purpose of the election.

Each cardinal is allowed two rooms, called cells, one for himself and one for his secretary.

When the cardinals assemble in the chapel the bulls are once again read, and again they take the oath to conscientiously observe the canons regulating the election. An address is delivered by the cardinal dean as an exhortation to do their duty conscientiously.

Shut Out From All the World

Then at the stroke of midnight the master of ceremonies rings a silver bell, and all who are not of the conclave retire. The doors are finally and solemnly closed, and no one is allowed to pass in or out except the cardinals who, perchance, may be late in coming from foreign countries. Each cardinal is allowed to have two members of his household in personal attendance upon him. These are called conclavists. A number of other attendants are also allowed inside the conclave—viz., a carpenter, a mason, a sacristan, a friar or monk to hear confessions, a number of barbers, eight or ten porters and several other domestics to do common service to the whole body of cardinals.

The word "conclave" comes from the fact of closing the door with a key. "Clavis" in Latin means a key. The word conclave refers to the seclusion as well as to the body of cardinals in session. All secular influence ceases for good so as to leave the cardinals untrammelled in their work of choosing a successor to the papal throne.

1.—Pope Pius leaving Venice for Rome. 2.—The Vatican and obelisk. 3.—Cardinal S. Vannutelli. 4.—Cardinal Rampolla. 5.—Cardinal Agliardi. 6.—Cardinal Oreglia. 7.—Cardinal Merry Del Val. 8.—Cardinal Cavallari. 9.—Cardinal Martinelli. 10.—Cardinal Ferrari.

The cells in which the cardinals dwell during elections are twenty feet square and twenty feet high.

Door Locked on Both Sides
There is only one door to the conclave, and this is locked with a double key, one on the outside and one on the inside. The governor, who is a cardinal appointed by the sacred college, holds one key on the inside, and the marshal, who is a lay official, on the outside, is the custodian of the other key.

There are four apertures in the walls, called gates, through which all meals are passed and anything else that is absolutely required. All this is to avoid any communication with the outer world and to prevent fraud or political influence being used on the cardinals in the casting of their votes. The outside halls are also locked, and the cardinal camerlingo keeps these keys. Papal troops are drawn up in attendance and are in charge of one of the princes of the house of Chigi, who also takes charge of some of the outer keys and guards the conclave from violence.

The most extraordinary precautions are taken to shut out intrigues and political influence. The voting in the conclave takes place in the chapel twice a day, morning and evening. Each cardinal has a desk decorated with his coat of arms assigned to him. Immediately before the election begins an Augustinian monk celebrates mass. When the mass is concluded, all the attendants withdraw, leaving the cardinals severely alone. They then prepare to cast their first ballot. Two-thirds of the votes by ballot to validly elect.

When the ballots are counted and no one has received a two-thirds vote the voting papers are taken to a fireplace and burned.

Crowds Watch Smoke of Ballots
The smoke ascending through a certain chimney is a sign to an immense concourse of people assembled outside for news of the election and to obtain the new holy father's blessing that the cardinals have not yet decided on any one pope. When they see the smoke they return to their homes, to come again in the evening or the morning, as the case may be. Then the cardinals retire to their apartments to await the next ballot. This is repeated each day till a pope is elected.

When two-thirds of the ballots are given to any one person he is declared pope and the conclave is over. The youngest cardinal then rings a bell and calls all the cardinals around the newly elected.

Elected One May Refuse

The cardinal dean asks him if he accepts the canonical election to the supreme pontificate. If he says he accepts, forthwith he becomes pope, head of the church, bishop of Rome, father of Christendom, vicar of Christ and sovereign pontiff.

Should he refuse, the chair is still vacant and another election is in order. Should he hesitate he is asked three times. On his acceptance the cardinal dean genuflects before him, asking him by what name he shall be known to Christendom in the future, and by this name he is known ever after.

May Hear From John Golden Labor Day Night

It is understood that John Golden of Fall River, one of the best known labor men in America, in his speech on the South common on the evening of Labor Day will deal with labor legislation and incidentally the records of local members of the legislature relative to labor measures. Mr. Golden keeps in close touch with all labor legislation and is one of the best informed men on this subject in the country.

NO WONDER BABY IS CROSS

No comfortable baby is ever cross, but when its tender skin is chafed or broken out with prickly heat or other rash any baby is sure to be fretful.

A trained nurse would look it over carefully and dust on Comfort Powder whenever she saw the least bit of irritation. She would use Comfort Powder because she knows it is the best healing powder for chafing, scalding, sores and sealy eruptions. It stops the itching at once and is harmless. The signature B. S. Sykes is on every box.

THE T. AND S. MILLS

The Tremont & Suffolk mills will reopen on Tuesday after an illness of one week, making two weeks' vacation that the operatives of these mills have had during the summer. The original intention was to have a vacation of two weeks at a stretch, but an accident to the power plant about two weeks ago rendered it necessary to take a week's vacation at that time and arrange the second week to include Labor day.

MOTOR BOAT RACE

TO BE HELD ON MERRIMACK LABOR DAY
Owners of motor boats and motor boat enthusiasts are displaying considerable interest in the races to be held on the river Labor day. In addition to the two prizes already offered two more cups have been donated, one by George H. Wood and another by Charles Goulding and George E. Lath.

One cup is up for the speed race between F. A. Brooks and Leon Flint. In the open race the entries are coming in fast, 20 or more being entered with a prospect of many more before the race is called. The race being a handicap affair, it gives every boat of any description an equal chance.

On Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the preliminary trials will be held on the river to be used in the handicapping of the entries, and all entrants and prospective ones are requested to be on hand early.

STERN OF SCHOONER DISCOVERED

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 2.—The stern of the schooner Margaret May of Philadelphia, which left Charleston August 23 for Philadelphia, commanded by Captain Jarvis, was discovered on Cole island near here today. No word has been received from her crew of seven and it is believed they are lost. The vessel evidently was caught in the recent hurricane and wrecked.

THEATRICAL MAN FATALLY INJURED

READING, Pa., Sept. 2.—Lewis Simmons, a theatrical man of Allentown, was struck by a motor truck today and died in a few minutes. He was dragged about 50 feet. Simmons was at one time a member of the minstrel firm of Simmons & Slocumb.

McNAMARA DEFENSE FUND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The design of a new McNamara defense fund stamp submitted to the postoffice department by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, has been approved by Third Assistant Postmaster General Britt. The new stamp differs materially from the original McNamara stamp. The word "stamp" is eliminated, the coloring is lighter and it is octagonal instead of oblong in form. Under the regulations of the postoffice department even the new stamp may not be placed on the address side of an envelope or package but can be placed on the reverse side. If the stamp should be placed on the address side the letter would be sent to the dead letter office as unmailable.

Charlie Morse Reported Case to Police

Charles Morse, former superintendent of streets, this morning reported to the police the loss of his horse and carriage, the outfit, it is claimed, having been stolen from Middle street between the hours of 10:30 and 11:30. Mr. Morse went into the fire station in Middle street at 10:30 o'clock this forenoon, and when he came out at 11:30 the horse and wagon were gone. Mr. Morse feels keenly the loss of his steed, having owned it for the past nine years. The animal is a well known figure in town, having driven its master around the streets of Lowell when the latter was superintendent of streets up to the present time. The owner expects to recover the stolen rig, but he fears that the horse will be overdriven, as it is a high spirited horse and may overcome itself. The description as given to the police is as follows: Bay horse, 350 pounds, breast plate, rubber trimmed harness, open plain box rug, newly painted black body and red running gears with steel tires.

DEATHS

MURPHY—Miss Bernice F. Murphy died at Winthrop, Mass., September 1, after an illness of three days aged 18 years, 11 months and 6 days. For the past few years, Miss Murphy had attended school in Lowell and made her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Conaton of Marlborough street. During her residence and frequent visits to Lowell she had endeared herself to a wide circle of friends to whom the sad news of her untimely death came as a shock, and their sympathy goes out to her mother and other relatives in their bereavement.

The funeral will be from Mr. Conaton's residence, 33 Marlborough street, Monday morning, with services at St. Margaret's church, Stevens St., at 10 o'clock.

FUNERALS

PINNUCAN—At that was mortal of the late James Francis Pinnucan was tenderly consigned to his last resting place this morning in the presence of a very large concourse of relatives and friends, who by their presence showed the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The funeral cortege left the home, 41 Floyd street, at 8:30 o'clock and proceeded to St. Peter's church, where at 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. John Burns. The choir rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory Miss Mary E. Whitley sang "Pie Jesu." After the elevation Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered "Jesu Salvator Mundi," and as the body was being borne from the church the choir rendered "In Paradisum." Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presiding at the organ.

There was a delegation present from Court General Shields, E. of A., of which deceased was a member, as follows: James Lane, James E. E. David, Sicaud and Vincent Marotta. There was a wealth of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings as follows:

Cross and pillow inscribed "Good-bye" from the family; basket, Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Brien and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Clark and family; mammoth wreath on base, employees of the weave room of the T. S. Duntling; basket, Mrs. Mary O'Hare and family; spray, Mrs. A. M. Smith; sprays, Miss Mary Flynn, Miss Jennie McCarthy, Mrs. Mary Deleahanty, Miss Harriett McGuire, Miss Mary McKenna, Mrs. Jennie Dwyer.

There were friends present from Boston, Dorchester, Mass. and Concord, N. H.

The bearers were John Harigan, Patrick and Thomas Kane, Edward Sica, Michael O'Hare and Frank Silva. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Rev. John Burns reading the committal prayers at the grave. Undertaker John J. O'Connell had charge of the funeral arrangements.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

LYNN, Sept. 2.—Jumping from a biplane at a height of about 20 feet, a local aviator named Schumaker escaped today with slight bruises but the machine, which was owned by Guy Foss, son of Governor Foss, was demolished. Schumaker ascended at Franklin field, Saugus, intending to try to fly to Atlantic. The aeroplane had gone but a short distance at an altitude of about 20 feet when a gust of wind caught it and almost overturned it. Schumaker, seeing a fall imminent, jumped to the ground. The biplane went about a dozen feet farther, then fell, striking with such force that it was smashed to pieces.

THE GOTCH-HACKENSCHMIDT MATCH

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The principals in the international wrestling match which is scheduled to take place at the White Sox baseball park next Monday afternoon began early today the last of their training for the contest.

Frank Gotch, the champion, went from his hotel to the Chicago Athletic club, where during the day he will wrestle with his training partners and do some light gymnasium work.

Hackenschmidt, the Russian challenger, was up early at his camp on the North side and went for a walk along the lake shore.

"I am going to wrestle carefully, and all these stories about me making a rushing bout are false," said Gotch. "If I allow Hack to get hold of me at the start he is likely to break some of my bones with his mighty strength. I believe it will simply simmer down to a case of condition. The man with the greatest endurance will win. I intend to do a little work today which will consist mostly of wrestling with my trainers."

About $50,000 has been taken in at the box office to date and before Monday it is expected the receipts will reach $75,000.

WANT CHEAPER FOOD

DUNKIRK, Department of Nord, France, Sept. 2.—Agitators of the movement for cheaper food completely dominate this vicinity. Three hundred women marched through the streets today as a demonstration to the government that it ought to do something looking to the reduction of high prices. All the roughs of the city have joined in looting the shops, frightening the dealers into barring their store windows and doors. Troops have been requisitioned to restore order.

THE KING ESTATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The estate in realty and personal holdings of James T. King, who died this week, has been certified to the probate court as worth about $700,000. Considerable property is also shown to belong to the estate elsewhere, especially in New Mexico. Mr. King was a close friend of John D. Rockefeller. The immediate heirs are the widow and Mrs. Sheldon Tolles of Cleveland, O., a daughter.

Herminghild Leblanc took place this morning from his late home in Haverhill street, Braintree. The large cortege left the house at 8:30 o'clock and wended its way to St. Louis church, where at 9 o'clock Rev. R. A. Porter sang high mass of requiem. The choir under the direction of Mr. Oller

J. David rendered the Gregorian chant, Miss Ida Mongrain presiding at the organ. The bearers were: Dosthe Gendreau, Andre, Samuel and Alexander Leblanc, Philippe Boutin and Cornelius O'Connell. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Undertaker Amedeo Archambault in charge.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

LONDON'S LARGEST FIRE

SEPTEMBER 2.—London was first about to take a much needed rest after its battle with the plague in 1665, when on September 2 a fire started in the house of a baker named Farrer. Nothing strange about a fire in a baker's shop, but this one did not stop there. It leaped to the next house and the next, and before London realized its peril, one of the great fires of history was on the rampage. For three days and three nights the fire raged driven by the wind in one direction and then another till a district two miles long and one mile wide was converted into ashes. The people were panic-stricken, and without adequate means of fighting the flames, people who had spent their days in the lap of luxury were converted into paupers without any cover for their backs. The Thames was filled with all kinds of goods that the people were trying to save. The fields were crowded with homeless people who had to live in hovels and tents. A change in the wind caused the fire to die out and when the people sadly took inventory they found they had lost two-thirds of their city, including thousands of homes, the Royal Exchange, the Cathedral, all their public buildings and over 100 churches.

Domestic Troubles

Aired in Court Before Judge Hadley

Mrs. Ellen J. De Carteret appeared in police court this morning as the complainant against her husband in a case of threat. Mrs. De Carteret claimed that her husband was in the habit of becoming intoxicated and threatening her. De Carteret had little to say, his principle remark being that he would plead guilty to anything his wife said. The court found the defendant guilty and ordered him placed under bonds of $100 to keep the peace for six months. Arthur De Carteret, a brother of the defendant, went bail for the man and the court instructed the brother to be sure and keep a good watch on the defendant or else civil proceedings might follow in case there was a breach of the conditions of the order to keep the peace.

Case Will Be Settled

Michael J. Reynolds who appeared before the court yesterday morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $9.25 the property of John McManus and whose case was continued until this morning for disposition, was called. It appears that Mr. McManus loaned the defendant money the latter stating that he would give an order for his pay which was due at city hall yesterday. When McManus went to collect the money it was found that there was a lien on the pay, and he immediately swore out a warrant against Reynolds. Yesterday an agreement was reached between Reynolds and McManus whereby the former was to pay the money back within a limited time and under that condition the case was continued for two weeks.

Case Continued

Michael Hoey, who it is alleged threw his wife down an embankment in the vicinity of Berry street, was brought before the court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery. Inasmuch as his wife is confined to the hospital the case was continued until next Saturday morning.

Neglected His Wife

Joseph Arcand was charged with failing to provide proper support for his wife. Mrs. Arcand testified that her husband left her on the 12th of June and in order to support her two children it was necessary for her to work out with all of his belongings. He was repentant this morning and when he promised to pay the bill the court placed him on probation for five weeks.

Removed His Baggage

John Doran pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with unlawfully removing his baggage from the lodging house of Winifred Lester when the latter had a lien on the property. Doran admitted that he owed the Lester woman a board bill and moved out with all of his belongings. He was repentant this morning and when he promised to pay the bill the court placed him on probation for five weeks.

Another Neglect Case

William J. Lally was charged with failing to provide support for his wife, Elizabeth. He entered a plea of guilty. His wife explained that he went away and left her and that she found it very hard to secure sustenance. Inasmuch as the man had been before the court on a similar complaint before Judge Hadley sentenced the man to four months in jail.

Raised a Disturbance

Charles Shea, who it is alleged is a trouble maker when he is under the influence of liquor, was also charged with being drunk and he was ordered to pay a fine of $5.

James F. Connors was sentenced to four months in jail and Michael Martin will spend the next three months at the same place.

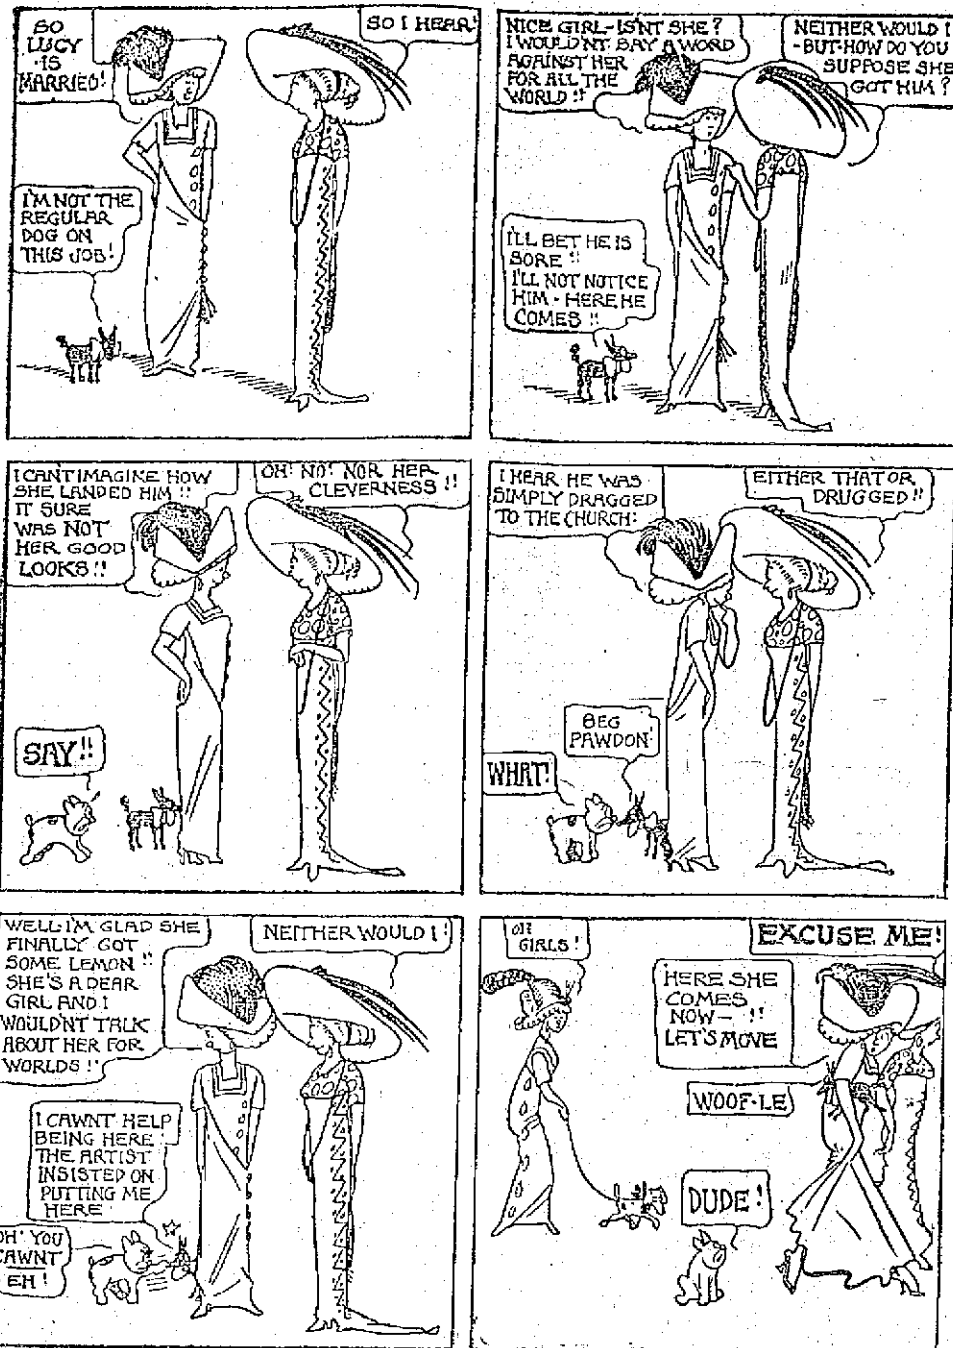

James McDonald, Thomas P. Maloney, John J. Dolan and Michael J. Tyle were fined $5 each. There was one first offender who was fined $2.

Griffiths, The Florist

R. A. Griffiths, the well known Central street florist, who for nearly a quarter of a century, has done business in the same location, owing to the improvements to be made by the purchasers of the Hamilton Company's property, has been obliged to vacate his well known place of business owing to the building of the new block. He has been fortunate enough to secure a location in the Keith theatre building, No. 31 Bridge street, and the person who has been doing business with the public for nearly a quarter of a century must certainly have gained the confidence of the public for honesty and fair dealing. Mr. Griffiths will make a special effort to better than ever supply the wants of the public with goods in his line for weddings, receptions, parties and funerals, both in quality, price and prompt delivery. Today the doors of his new establishment will be open to the public, and he wishes to thank all patrons for past favors, and hopes for a continuance of the same, and respectfully invites the public to call and look over his up-to-date floral establishment. Persons desiring, can telephone orders by calling up 1794. Griffiths, the florist, Edward Bushnell, clerk.

THE 20th ANNIVERSARY

Of Marriage Observed by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricard

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricard are today observing the 20th anniversary of their marriage, but on account of it being a business day, the celebration will take place tomorrow afternoon, when a reception will be held at their home, 320 Fletcher street, the happy event to be continued Monday afternoon and evening.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ricard are favorably known in this city, where they count a host of friends, a number of whom have already tendered their congratulations over the event.

Mr. Ricard was born at Yamachiche, Que., March 22, 1870, and he is now the owner of the old homestead which he purchased four years ago, using the same as a summer resort for his family. At the age of nine, he came to this city with his father, the late Andre Ricard, and immediately secured employment in one of the local mills.

Mr. Ricard is 41 years of age, while his wife is four months younger. They both enjoy the best of health and are held in high esteem by their many acquaintances. Mr. Ricard is a great society man, being a member of the following organizations: C. M. A. C., Carillon council, U. S. I. Bte. d'A., Branch St. Andre, A. C. F., Court St. Antoine, C. O. F., and Campeon council of which he is the president, being also the past chief ranger of Court St. Antoine. He is a director of the board of trade and an energetic member of the board of charity.

In 1895, Mr. Ricard who had some knowledge of the jewelry business opened a small watch repairing shop at 600 Merrimack street, and business was so good that a few years later he was forced to enlarge his place, and now he is the proprietor of one of the largest establishments of its sort in the city, to say nothing of his branch store in Broadway, Lawrence which is also prospering, and of the Up Town Shoe store next door to his store in Merrimack street, where under the management of his son Eugene, business is very prosperous.

VERY EXCITING SCENES

Women Parade in Protest Against High Cost of Living

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Scenes similar to those witnessed at Dunkirk, where women are being sacked by the rougher element and women are parading the streets in protest against the high cost of necessities, are being enacted today in half a hundred cities of northern France. Usually, however, the disturbances are not accompanied by personal injuries.

Premier Caillaux today issued instructions to the provincial prefects to repress energetically revolutionary agitation in connection with the food manifestations. The minister of justice, M. Cruppi, also sent a public letter to the prosecutors relative to the punishment of rioters.

At the same time an industrial commission composed of the ministers of commerce and agriculture, the director-general of customs and representatives of the wholesale food dealers was summoned to meet and devise measures for the lowering of the high cost of food. The commission was in session all day.

AVIATOR FELL 50 FEET

George Schmitt Had a Narrow Escape From Death

WATERVILLE, Me., Sept. 2.—George Schmitt of New York, the 19-year-old aviator who on Thursday made the longest and highest flight ever seen in the state of Maine, had a narrow escape from death yesterday in a 50-foot fall at the start of what was to have been his last flight of the Central Maine fair. Shortly before 4 o'clock his biplane was trundled out of the hangar to the eastern side of the field. The aviator sent the machine half way across the field before he attempted to rise. The ground was uneven and the machine rocked from side to side violently before the front elevator was elevated. The machine then rose gracefully and it looked as if the flight would be successful.

When the biplane reached a point directly over the race track it was seen to dip and turn toward the ground. The aviator raised his front elevator, however, and the machine again began to climb upward. Just as it was clearing the row of stables the aeroplane came in contact with a power wire and the machine was thrown toward the ground at an acute angle.

Mr. Schmitt was thrown violently forward when the machine struck the ground and slid along the straw-covered soil. He arose without difficulty and without assistance and began to survey the damage to his machine.

The damage to the biplane was serious. The framework was broken and twisted. The propeller blades had torn portions of the upper plane to ribbons, while the blades themselves were split and broken. The forward elevator was a mass of torn canvas and twisted wire, while the framework of the aviator's seat was twisted at right angles. The engine was only slightly damaged.

Schmitt's manager, N. Thor, came running up and fought his way through the crowd.

"Are you all right?" he asked of Mr. Schmitt. "Yes, can't you see me?" laughing. "I'm all right, but just look at that machine, will you?"

"You are sure you are not hurt?"

"Not a bit," said Schmitt, "but I got a bit hot at what a horseman said to me when I first came down. I tried to clear the crowd as well as I could and it pained me a little when he said: 'Hey, there, what do you mean by frightening my horse? But just now I'm seeing the funny side of it.' And Schmitt laughed again.

Questioned as to the cause of the accident Schmitt said:

"The Central Maine fair grounds are badly situated for aviation. A range of wooded hills circle to the westward, and this makes a hollow place for the whole field. As soon as the machine gets clear of the grounds a sort of a suction makes itself felt. I cleared the horse sheds and wires by only a few feet in the flight I made Thursday."

FATHER'S FINE

PAID WITH MONEY FROM HIS CHILD'S BANK

BUFFALO, Sept. 2.—Mrs. John Moos, wife of a railroad switchman, appeared in the city court yesterday afternoon with a child's saving bank, with the contents of which she proposed paying an installment on her husband's fine.

"This is my little boy's bank," said Mrs. Moos, "and I hate to use this money, but we can't get along unless the man is drawing wages."

Moos had been fined $50 for an assault. A woman swore he tried to choke her to death. He claimed it was a case of mistaken identity. Moos was able to produce $10 only, and was ordered to jail, but his wife was told that if she came with $25 more she could have her husband on probation. It took quite a while to count the contents of the kid's bank, as the money consisted entirely of pennies. When the clerk of the court had raked in the copper Moos was allowed to go with the understanding that he would pay the balance of $25 within a certain interval.

Lawrence	3	7	4

About 1000 fans, including a large number from the Spicket city, attended the game at Spalding park this afternoon and excitement ran high throughout. The visitors held the lead for a couple of innings at the start which caused the visiting rooters to acquire great confidence which was evidenced by their boisterous demonstration. When Lowell tied the score in the third the Lawrence bunch subsided. Lyster pitched for Lawrence and started out like a race horse. On the other hand Maybom was hit hard in the early stages of the game. The local fans were given the glad tip before the game that William Jackson of the rattiborn, Vt. team and Alfred Cobb, the star pitcher of the Waltham high, have been signed by Manager Gray to finish out the season.

The fans were looking for a chance at Manager Pieper who has been squalling over Barrows' playing for Lowell. Pieper kept on the bench and the fans didn't get to him. It was announced that the morning game in Lawrence will be called at 10 o'clock, while the afternoon game at Spalding park will be at 3.

Umpires Bannan and White officiated, the latter being a substitute from East Boston. The game was called at 3 with the following lineup:

Lowell	Lawrence
Lowell, 2b	2b, Hogan
Harrows, cf	1b, Crisam
Conroy, ss	1b, Kennedy
Magee, lf	1b, Lyster
Fluharty, rf	1b, Briggs
Wright, lb	2b, Phoenix
Phoebus, 3b	2b, Carlsson
Huston, c	c, Ulrich
Maybom, p	2b, Kolet

Lawrence scored one run in the first inning. Hagan started off with a strike out and Crisam hit to Boutles and was out at first. Kennedy made a two-bagger and scored on Lyster's three bagger. Briggs fled to Moulton.

In the latter half of the inning the home team got three men on base but failed to tally. Moulton drew a base on balls. Conroy bunted and when Lyster threw bad to third the bases were filled. Magee hit to Lyster who threw to the plate, getting Moulton and Ulrich, then sent the ball to first, getting Magee for a double play. Fluharty hit to Crisam and was out.

Second Inning

In the second inning Phoenix foul hit to Boutles. Carlsson followed with a single. Ulrich hit to Boutles.

AVIATORS OBJECTED

Did Not Want to Make Flight From Nashua to Worcester

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—One of the feature days of the Harvard-Boston aviation meet at Squantum was ushered in by brilliant sunshine and perfect weather this forenoon when preparations were completed for two cross-country contests, one of 33 miles around Boston Light and the other of about half that distance to the Blue Hills and return. This was the second race of the week on the Boston Light course. With other events considered of minor importance this program was offered as a result of the rainy weather earlier in the week.

A large proportion of the aviators signified their intention to enter the many events when the starting bombs were set off.

As some of the aviators entered objections to the course of the cross-country flight on Labor day to the field at Nashua, N. H., Worcester, Providence and return, the contest committee held a meeting this morning and, having heard the various men, decided to adhere to the original plans. Some of the aviators thought that the flight from Nashua to Worcester was unusually dangerous and wished to have the course changed so that they would not be obliged to fly to Worcester.

SOPWITH WON

WAS FIRST IN GREAT RACE TO BOSTON LIGHT

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Flying 1600 feet in the air while before the wind and nearly touching the waves of Boston harbor on his return journey, Tom Sopwith, the English aviator, yesterday set a new record in the flight from the Harvard aviation field at Squantum to Boston Light and return, covering the double circuit at the rate of more than a mile a minute. His official time for the 33 miles was 31 minutes 32 seconds. Graham-White's time last year was 31 minutes, 1.5 seconds.

To his fellow-countrymen, Claude Graham-White and his speedy Newport monoplane, theoretically and practically the master of any Blériot built in speed contests, falls the honor of making even faster time, although he was ruled out of the race because of his failure to make a circuit of the course before starting. Graham-White's time, taken unofficially, was 31 minutes, 5.5 seconds, 2.5 seconds faster than that of Sopwith.

Tom Sopwith is not lacking in records of the air was shown by the flying of Ovington, Beachey and Ely, the former of whom captured second prize with his motor throttled down, his time being 35 minutes, 12 seconds. Beachey mistook the Graves light for Boston light and went miles beyond his course, while Ely was compelled to descend, unharmed, because of a leak in a water tube.

It was a real race this year, not an exhibition flight against time such as Graham-White made last year, when there was no other machine as speedy as his Blériot within three seconds to the mile. Had it not been for his misunderstanding the rules of the race, which were given him in writing according to Chairman Gilden of the contest committee, he would have been returned the winner by the close margin of less than a second to the mile.

All eyes were turned to the aeroplanes lined up facing the wind when the bomb announced the starting of the big event of the day. The entries were Sopwith, Graham-White, Ovington and Beachey, Ely and Gill in the biplanes. Gill dropped out, for he only entered his slower Burgess-White biplane in case there should be only two other starters, while Stone did not get his engine working smoothly enough to suit him.

At the crack of the starter's pistol Boston 2, Brooklyn 4.

Graham-White's ugly-looking Newport shot off into the wind with its 70-horse-power Gnome motor hurling defiance to its fellows. Up to the 1000-foot level he shot and then turned toward the light after a long circle to the west.

Before he was out of sight, Sopwith's Blériot, similarly motored to the Newport, was on his way to the turn toward the light. The younger Briton remembered his instructions and rounded the five pylons before straightening his course for the light. Ovington and his Blériot, with the third 10-horse-power Gnome in the race, started at 4.31, 18 minutes after Graham-White and the monoplane were all on their way. Hardly a minute after Ovington had left the ground, Beachey jumped into his Curtiss with its 50-horsepower motor, followed by Ely in a similar machine, and all five machines were trailing each other to the light.

ARSON IS CHARGED

Former Worcester Man Wanted by Police

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 2.—Emery A. Lawrence, formerly engaged in the manufacture of slippers in Worcester, Mass., is wanted here on a charge of setting fire to his home.

Lawrence came to Joliet in 1909, and formed the Buchanan Lawrence company, inside makers. For a home he rented Goodspeed Manor's city mansion. He said he needed a big house to store the great number of curios he had collected in foreign countries. He moved in the best society.

A fire March 8, which Lawrence said was started by a piece of kindling wood flying and hitting a lamp in the basement, destroyed the house. Nothing was saved, and he collected $10,000 insurance.

An investigation disclosed the fact that the curios had been removed before the fire and stored in a private barn.

The state's attorney had Pinkerton's agency work up the case.

Lawrence fled Thursday, and it is believed he is hiding in Chicago. Because of a search Saturday, Lawrence was forced out of the Buchanan Lawrence company which was at once incorporated.

SEVEN MEN DROWNED

Launch Was Struck by a Freighter

TOLEDO, Sept. 2.—Seven men were drowned in the Maumee river on mile north of the Red Can buoy this morning, at 1.30, when the 35-foot launch Nemo, owned by Michael Mayer, was struck by the 500-foot freighter Philip Minch, in-bound. The drowned are: Harry Batch, city councilman; James Wister, superintendent of water works; Thomas Purcell, master mechanic at the water works plant; Fred Shane, secretary of the service director; Cowell; William Platt, water works inspector; William Carroll, bookkeeper at water works Yonker.

Representative Carter assailed the first clerk, Joseph Josephson, with his fists and when three of the young man's companions came to their friend's aid the Oklahoma congressman brought his walking stick into play and wielded it vigorously until he was master of the field. According to Mr. Carter, his daughter described to Josephson a certain kind of coat which she wished to purchase. He declares the clerk thought Miss Carter was unattractive and sought to engage her in conversation.

"Continuing his advances," which were followed by repulses, said Mr. Carter, "the young man became insulting. When I politely asked the clerk the cause of the trouble he became infuriated and said uncomplimentary things about my daughter. I told her to accompany me from the store, and as we reached the door he called me several names."

The fight was brief but exciting until the clerk was vanquished.

Meanwhile Miss Carter stood in tears on the sidewalk outside the store until her father reached her side and took her from the scene.

A little girl who works in the Merwin-Hughes factory at Atherton, lost her pay envelope on her way home through Rogers street Thursday. As she can ill afford to lose the money the finder will greatly oblige by returning same to 4 John's court.

CITY OF LAWRENCE

May Not be Able to Pay the City Employees

LAWRENCE, Sept. 2.—City Treasurer William A. Kelleher announced this forenoon that the wages of city employees would be paid today as usual but that he could make no prediction as to the ability of the city to meet forthcoming payrolls. He said that the payment of the payrolls, bonds and interest charges today would practically exhaust the city's resources, and this in view of the refusal of Boston bankers to sign city notes for an additional temporary loan in anticipation of taxes would leave him dependent upon collections alone to meet the expenses of the future.

Mayor Cahill attributes the refusal of the Boston bankers to loan Lawrence money to the interference of the local bankers who attempted some weeks ago to have the governor appoint a commission to take over the affairs of Lawrence. He contended that the city can legally borrow $175,000 and is much incensed over the dilemma, claiming that political opponents are trying to get him "in bad."

City Solicitor Daniel K. Murphy was out of town today and could not be consulted as to what course he would advise under the circumstances.

City officials, other than the mayor, see little hope of the city being able to do anything more than meet its tax notes and interest and payments the remainder of the year, leaving the monthly drafts and the weekly payrolls unpaid, as it is pointed out that if the city treasurer attempts to use the 1911 tax money for current expenses there is little doubt but that an injunction would be sought and obtained to prevent him from using it for any other purpose than the payment of the tax notes which were issued in anticipation of such collections.

Two monthly drafts amounting to over $100,000 have been held up for lack of funds already and another will be due September 12.

"SCHOOL OF CRIME"

Lawyers Criticise Conditions at Deer Island

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—A school of crime, antiquated, antediluvian, semi-barbaric, were some of the terms used by the members of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology after their visit to the Deer Island house of correction, yesterday afternoon.

President Nathan W. MacChesney of the institute, a leading member of the Chicago bar, and an expert on the subject of criminology, was particularly outspoken in his criticism of the institution.

"The congregation of the casual offenders and the habitual criminals, as is the condition here," he declared, "is unworthy of Massachusetts. This system is years and years behind the best methods of treating criminals; here the whole idea of reformatory, namely, an attempt to reform those who have merely committed misdemeanors, is entirely lost sight of."

The trip to Deer Island was taken after the morning meeting of the institute in the Walker building by a score or so of the members. While expressing their admiration for the location and for portions of the equipment, particularly the women's building, the criminologists were almost unanimous in their condemnation of the administration of a reformatory which permitted continual association between young men and women committed for their first offence, often some trivial violation of police regulatory dormitories cannot but weaken the inmates physically and thus increase their criminal propensities."

Case of One Girl

The new quarters for women in the house of correction were given unstinted praise. It was declared that there were none finer anywhere, but here, as in the men's quarters, the congregation of all classes of prisoners was the subject of severe criticism.

In passing through the women's dining hall, one young woman who could not have been over 17 years old, attracted the notice of several members of the party, and the recitation of her story made them particularly indignant. She said, and her story was substantially verified by one of the probation officers who was present, that she had been driven from her home by her brother one night and sent to Deer Island by a judge in a district municipal court.

It was practically admitted by the probation officers present that she would never have been sent to the house of correction if her case had come up in the Pemberton Square municipal court.

Several members of the institute were outspoken in their condemnation of a house of correction which compelled this girl to associate daily with women of several times her age, many of whom were hardened in crime.

FUNERAL NOTICE

LARKIN—The funeral of the late John J. Larkin, Sr., will take place from his home in Highland avenue tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be held in St. John's church, North Chelmsford, at 2:30 o'clock. Undertakers J. E. O'Donnell and Sons in charge.

Master John Courtney, Jr., of Pawtucket street, is the guest of his chum, Master Raymond O'Brien, son of D. S. O'Brien, of the Smart Clothes shop at Mr. O'Brien's summer home at Old Orchard beach.

BURNED TO DEATH

Officer Was Making an Aeroplane Flight

TROYES, France, Sept. 2.—Lieut. DeGrall of the Eighth Chasseurs, while making an aeroplane flight from this city today was burned to death in mid-air.

The disaster probably was caused by the explosion of the fuel tank, the burning fluid being scattered all over the machine. The blazing aeroplane fell with its pilot at Rigny-la-Nonneuse, about 25 miles from this city, and was completely incinerated.

TO ENTER COLLEGE

LOWELL BOYS AND GIRLS TO LEAVE NEXT WEEK

Vacation time is nearly over and next week a large number of Lowell boys and girls will leave to resume their studies in the convents and colleges of Canada, while several boys are going to Buffalo, N. Y., with the intention of joining the Oblate order. Those who will go next week are as follows:

Monday: Bernadette, Albert, St. Anne Academy, Marlboro, Mass.; Joseph Albert, Jr., St. Joseph college, Berthierville, Que.; Blanche Albert, St. Felix de Valois convent.

Tuesday: Maxime Cormier, Gaston Achin, Eugene Bolduc, Lucien Brassard, Ubaldo Dubois and Joseph Leclerc, Holy Angels college, Buffalo, N. Y. This group will be accompanied by Rev. Edouard Chabot, O. M. I., of Quebec, who recently was appointed assistant director of the Buffalo Juniorate.

Antonio Vigeant and Willis Drapeau, St. Charles Borromeo college, Sherbrooke, Que.; Estelle Brassard, Marguerite and Estelle Toupin, Blanche Theriault and Antoinette Breaud, convent of Nicolet, Que.; Oscar Vincent, college of Nicolet, Que.; Joseph Savigne, college of Joliette, Que.

ALL DAY TOURNEY

At the Mt. Pleasant Golf Club

An all day open handicap tournament has been arranged for Labor day at the Mount Pleasant Golf club at the end of the Westford street electric car line, and the club is in hopes that all of the members will be present during some part of the day and participate in the contest. A cordial invitation is extended to the friends of the members to be present, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Those who wish to take part in the tournament can do so, but if they don't they can go and play just the same.

President William H. Wilson of the club has presented the club a cup as a trophy to be contested for by the members. This cup will be known as the President's cup, and a series of tournaments will be held with the cup as a prize for the winner. The tournaments will be held on Saturdays, Sept. 5, 12, 19 and 26. The best net and the best gross scores will qualify, and the eight winners will play off at a date to be set by the tournament committee. The weekly tournaments open at 1 p. m. and the entry list closes at 3:30 p. m.

October tournaments are to be arranged if the interest warrants them, and this undoubtedly means that they will be held, for there has been considerable playing already on the new links, and the players find them very attractive.

THE READVILLE RACES

Miss Stokes Easily Won the Rich Futurity Yesterday

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Readville's grand circuit meeting, got under way yesterday afternoon, with Tuesday's three-postponed program serving as the card. Today the meeting will come to a close when the events originally scheduled for Wednesday—the $5000 Massachusetts for 2:12 trotters, the $3000 Blue Hill for 2:18 trotters and the 2:11 class race—will be raced off. From Readville the horses will move on, tomorrow night, by special train, to Hartford, where the Charter Oak meeting begins on Labor day, thereby making it impossible to carry any of the Readville events into next week.

Yesterday's attendance was something over 3000, which was considerably more than the management had anticipated in view of the doubt generally felt regarding the possibility of racing over a track that had been rained upon for six consecutive days. Considering the rain, the footing was surprisingly good, and it seems hardly possible that the track should have been so dry that the horses kicked up a dust. Nevertheless the fact remains that when the big field in the 2:16 class trot swept around the upper turn in the third heat of the race, the racers were almost hidden from view by the dust.

Among those who watched the races from the clubhouse veranda was "Tom" Cannon, former speaker of the house of representatives, who motored out to the track with Boston friends, and Gen. Nelson A. Miles, who never misses going to a Readville Grand Circuit meeting.

Yesterday's Winners

The big event yesterday afternoon was the $12,000 American Horse Breeders Futurity, raced off in three divisions, with the lion's share of the purse going to the three-year-old trotters. Lon McDonald came into his own in this division with the sensational colt trotter, Miss Stokes (2) 2:05½, and supplemented his win in that division by pulling down first money for the three-year-old futurity pacers, Miss DeForest being his nomination in the race for the side-wheelers.

The 2-year-old baby trotters comprised the other division, with Princess Todd, driven by Billy Wilkes, but owned by Miss Katherine L. Wilkes, as the best of the lot. The class race was won by the veteran Ed Geers, with his entry, Peter Red, that he started in grand-circuit company yesterday afternoon for the first time.

The get of Peter the Great, W. E. Stokes' premier stallion at his Patchen Wilkes farm, were very much in evidence yesterday afternoon. Miss Stokes, the 3-year-old futurity trotting winner, is by Peter the Great, and is still owned by Mr. Stokes, although an offer of $25,000 for her last winter was declined. Geers' Peter Red, winner in the 2:16 class lot, is a son of Peter the Great, while Eva Tanguay, with which Tommy Murphy won the first heat and second money in the same race, is another of the Peter the Great family, and the same is applicable to Peter Thompson, the world's champion 2-year-old trotting gelding that took down third in the 2-year-old futurity. Miss Stokes, Eva Tanguay and Peter Thompson, by the way, are of almost identical blood, lines for all in addition to being by the same stallion, are from Guy Wilkes mares. Miss Stokes is from Philie Thompson, Eva Tanguay from Madam Thompson, and Peter Thompson from Lydia Thompson, all bred by Guy Wilkes.

The track, while it had dried out amazingly well, and was absolutely safe to race over, was by no means fast. Beneath the surface it was soggy, and lacked that elasticity that is conducive to fast miles. And just for that reason the times, as a whole, hardly compared with those made in the same events elsewhere on the circuit.

Miss Stokes, notwithstanding that she was dead lame, was easily the best of the five trotters in the 3-year-old event. The decision of George W. Moore, owner of Justice Brooks (3) 2:05½, to ship that colt to Lexington, scratching him from the Breeders' Futurity here, removed one dangerous factor, while Peter Thompson, the entry of A. B. Cox, and believed by many as able to contest first place with the Peter the Great filly, was by no means up to his Cleveland form, when he stepped into a new world's record for 3-year-old trotting geldings of 2:03¾.

Miss Stokes was in command of the situation all the time. She scored down on the outside in the opening heat, but had swung over to the pole at the turn and from then on she was always in front. The Allen Farm's Box that had trailed in 2:12 at Douglassville was second, but could not quite reach the filly, who seems to forget her lameness whenever she gets mixed up in a colt race.

Box was second each time, and behind him came Peter Thompson, twice third, and Lottie Lee, the Walnut Hill filly that brought $6000, if memory serves correctly, as an unbroken yearling was fourth.

The time of Miss Stokes' winning heats were 2:14½ and 2:12½, as against her 3-year-old record of 2:08¾, made when she won the Horseman's Futurity at Detroit. In the second heat McDonald kept her going all the way down the home stretch, although lengths ahead of everything else, evidently not intending to run any risk of being beaten out of $5000 first money by a hurricane finish on the part of John Young.

Where the Money Went

The Allen farm is an even $1000 richer by virtue of Box's win of second money. Peter Thompson secured $350 and Lottie Lee $150.

Miss Stokes has been in the racing game ever since she was a yearling, when Ed Willis, the colored superintendent of Mr. Stokes' farm, drove her in 2:10½, establishing thereby a new world's record for yearling trotters. Last year she stepped the fastest 2-year-old heat of the year, beating Justice Brooks in 2:09¾.

During the winter, after D. M. Look of New York, who owned Emily Ellen, Lon McDonald's Futurity candidate of 1910, had failed to purchase Miss Stokes, the filly was turned over to McDonald. She had several bad little track tricks when she came to him, but he has eradicated all of them, and she certainly raced well yesterday, especially when one considers her lameness.

Her only other start this year was in the Horseman's Futurity at Detroit a month ago, when she beat Justice Brooks and a field of highly touted colt trotters. She can hardly be expected to approach the world's 3-year-old trotting record of 2:04¾, set up by Colorado B. a year ago, but she does look to have a chance to equal Native Belle's world's 3-year-old filly record of 2:08¾, if McDonald can keep her up until she gets to Lexington.

Ed Geers is rarely seen in a futurity race, but he drove Ploeta Americus in the 3-year-old pace yesterday. But even the master hand of Geers could not land Sterling R. Holt's little pacer ahead of her Indiana sister, Miss DeForest.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—It is believed by experts that the new solidified gasoline, which has just been placed on the London market will revolutionize methods of motor traction, particularly in the case of automobiles. By the new process the gasoline is made into

THE OPERA HOUSE

Ward & Vokes will come to the Opera House today, matinee and night in the second edition of the new musical production entitled the "Trouble Makers." From past experiences we know that these two stars would have nothing without the stars of the public approval and this has been placed on the "Trouble Makers" since its first performance last season. It is said to contain better material than most plays of this nature and throughout its two acts there is a fund of excellent ideas in dances and ensembles which could not be improved upon, so clever and original are they in their conception. The piece is said to have a plot which in the general excitement, is not lost sight of, and which possesses an entertaining story, as well as developed and prettily sustained counterplot.

The play runs smoothly and shows to an advantage its clever stars who have parts just suited to their ability and of which they will surely make much. With a company that has been carefully selected and with up-to-date surroundings, costumes rich in coloring, taste in design and beautiful blending in harmonious effects, and with comedy that is said to convince the audience with laughter during the entire show, Ward & Vokes will again bid for public favor.

"THE THIEF"

The greatest event of the present theatrical season is the forthcoming appearance in this city of the New York Lyceum theatre sensation, "The Thief," that wonderful play by Bernstein which stirred all Europe and held all America in its gripping grip. "The Thief" touches the deepest wells of human emotion with a story as intense and gripping as it is powerful and overwhelming, as compelling as it is truthful.

A woman is so deeply in love with her husband that, to please his eye, she becomes a thief, stealing the money with which she buys clothes to make herself attractive. The scene where she is forced to account for her costly wardrobe has never in the history of the stage, been excelled or even equalled in the writing. It fairly sweeps the audience from its feet.

"The Thief" will be seen here for matinee and night, Monday, Sept. 4th.—Adv.

A GREAT ATTRACTION

"At the Old Cross Roads" will be presented at the Opera House Sept. 7, 8, 9 by Arthur C. Alston's excellent company of players. It is extremely doubtful if any other portion of our own country lends itself more readily to the purposes of the dramatist than the remote and hazy past. The story that it reveals is highly dramatic, the situations extreme, but the whole is so happily blended with unctuous comedy scenes and incidents that it charms all. Manager Alston is credited with furnishing a complete and elaborate production, and, best of all, has been fortunate in securing an excellent company of ladies and gentlemen of established reputations. In fact, the company this year is conceded to be the best ever sent out in the play and will number twenty-five people. Including a troupe of real southern negro singers and dancers. Matinees will be given Friday and Saturday with a street parade Thursday at noon.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The Donald Meek Stock company opened Hathaway theatre last evening with a decidedly fine performance of William Collier's great comedy success, "Caught in the Rain," and the event was one of the most successful opening nights in local theatre history. Nearly every seat in the theatre had been ordered in advance and the hall filled with the standing room. A number of Boston friends of the popular comedian were present while it was a representative audience throughout many of Lowell's best known families being represented.

The play was presented by the following competent cast:

Bryce Forrester, Mr. Reckless Fellowes
Bob Livingston, Mr. William Walsh
James Maxwell, Mr. Charles Stevens
Mr. Mason, Mr. R. A. Roberts
George Thompson, Mr. J. L. Guthrie
David Bartram, Mr. William R. Healy
Jake, Mr. Dan McCabe
George Washington White.

Pollerman, Mr. Charles Crymble
Muriel Mason, Miss Marie Horton
Violet Mason, Miss Jessie Graham
Dick Gardner, Miss Louise Langdon
Mrs. Morton, Miss Elizabeth Hall
Dick Crawford, Mr. Donald Meek
Shopkeepers, Citizens, Messengers, Newsboys, Business Men and Women.

"Caught in the Rain" is in three acts replete with the wittiest kind of dialogue and without the suspicion of coarseness or horse play.

The comedy is all furnished through the dialogue and situations ingeniously devised by the playwright. The play deals with the amorous vicissitudes of Dick Crawford, an eligible young mine owner with a natural aversion to the fair sex, born of shyness and in an exclusively masculine environment. On one cloudy day of fate, as he is about to enter his club in Denver he is overtaken by a rain storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, and he seeks refuge under the shelter of a store awning. Simultaneously Miss Muriel Mason, a charming young miss, is similarly caught, and dashed for protection under the same awning, and as the thunder roars and the lightning flashes she implores Dick not to leave her, embracing him in her fright, to his utter consternation. As they are thus situated a real live rain storm develops upon the stage, which was a genuine surprise to most of the audience, who hardly looked for such realism from a stock company production. Crawford finds that he has fallen in love with Muriel, but through a misunderstanding he believes her to be some one other than she is, while his impression of Miss Mason is that she is another lady whom he abhors. The marital difficulties with Crawford's partner, an unscrupulous speculator who prides himself on the fact that "any I want to get, I get." He wants to get a mine that Miss Mason's father is supposed to own and that the father has assigned to his daughter, until she is 21 or married. Then the partner insists that Crawford shall marry Miss Mason and thus secure the mine, but Crawford, believing Miss Mason to be somebody else, turns down the proposition. Miss Mason is agreeable to the marriage proposition with Crawford, but upon learning that he has turned her down for spite, she has turned the mistaken identity he is beside himself, but after a few further complications matters from themselves out happily, and Crawford and Miss Mason are betrothed.

Mr. Meek in the character of Dick Crawford has at his best and he kept the audience in roars of laughter throughout the play. Confidently with his never failing wit and humor, Mr. Meek could resist the temptation at times to improve on the original lines with some of his own sparkling flashes, which most of the audience thought were in the manuscript, and which he employed largely. Mr. Meek's supporting company stood up excellently. The opening performance was no dress rehearsal, not by means, for a smoother first night's production was never presented. Miss Marie Horton, in the role of Muriel Mason made a most favorable impression and promises to become a big favorite. She possesses a most attractive and graceful stage presence and most pleasing voice and stage manner. Miss Elizabeth Horton, in the character part of Mrs. Morton, the gossip who is always "butting in" on the younger people, was one of the big hits of the play. Her work in the third act in which she is supposed to be suffering with hay fever was particularly well done. Miss Louise Langdon as "Nellie Gardner" and Miss Jessie Graham as "Violent Mason" were fair to behold and made the most of the parts assigned them. Mr. Clifford Fellows as "Bryce Forrester," an English duke but a good sport without as to the manner born while William Walsh, a Lowell boy came up to the fondest anticipations of his friends in the character of "Bob Livingston." The other members of the company were adequate to the parts assigned them. The play was excellently staged. Mr. Meek was remembered by friends with a huge standing floral horse shoe with ribbon on which were inscribed the words "Good Luck." Miss Horton, Miss Langdon and Mr. Walsh also received floral pieces. The Hathaway theatre orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Arthur J. Muriel gave a delightful program between the acts which was appreciated by the audience as was evidenced by their applause.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Patrons of the Merrimack Square Theatre are reminded of the fact that to insure themselves of their favorite seat from week to week, they should fill out a subscription card. It costs no more and at the same time provides more convenience, both for themselves and the management. Call at the box office and ask for one, or telephone and have your name placed on the list. The number is 2653.

Kendall Weston and the other members of the Stock company will again provide one of the feature numbers on the bill for the coming week. They are to appear in E. F. Payne's masterpiece, "A Forgotten Melody," a one-act play in which Mr. Weston will be found in a most congenial part. The piece is of most interesting story and to interpret it properly demands the endeavors of such finished artists as Kendall Weston and the other members who have been engaged. Miss Phelps and Mr. Bryce, Jr., are especially fitted for the parts to which they are assigned and should assist Mr. Weston in making one of the biggest hits of seasons. The staging of the piece is to cost many hundreds of dollars and will be an added feature in connection with the presentation.

The other members for the week consist of The Original Cowboy Quartet of young men whose act has everywhere been received with favor. They were formerly with The Four Musketeers. McCoy and Brooks are said to be two of the funniest com-

THEATRE VOYONS

Tomorrow the Theatre Voyons will present an excellent Sunday concert program full to the brim with the best and the newest pictures. Every care is taken with the Sunday programs that they not only comply with the law, but that they fit the tastes of the public. New pictures never before seen in Lowell are always a feature of these programs, and they are the very best procurable. Tomorrow the feature picture will be "The Rebellious Blossom," a rollicking comedy, with Albert McGovern, his wife, Alfred Johnson and Florence Lawrence in the four leading roles.—Adv.

MARDI GRAS FESTIVAL

The season at Revere Beach is to be wound up in a blaze of glory, Labor day week with a Mardi Gras festival which is to be patterned along the lines of the famous events of this kind in New Orleans and in the big cities of the Pacific coast.

In view of the magnitude of the plans which will attract hundreds of thousands from all over eastern Massachusetts, the Bay State Street Railway company will run from Lowell some special excursions to the beach in addition to those which have run regularly through the summer.

Excursions will be run Tuesday and Thursday, leaving Merrimack Square at 8:15 a. m. and 1:15 p. m. Return trips will be made from the beach leaving there at 5:30 and 7:30 p. m.

The program at the beach is very elaborate including a number of glittering pageants, illuminations, parades and numerous special features contributed by fraternalists, militia, veteran French and other bodies from Boston and neighboring cities and towns. There will be no idle moments.

VICTOR PIGEON'S TOURING CAR

CAUGHT FIRE

A 1908 model K Maxwell touring car owned by Victor Pigeon of 8 Grove street was badly damaged by fire in the vicinity of the Mount Pleasant golf club near the end of the Westford street electric car line about 10 o'clock last night. The cause was traced by a back-fire and the occupants of the machine had a narrow escape from being burned.

Mr. Pigeon was returning to his home and in climbing the hill near the end of the car line there was a sudden back-fire and the flames burst through the door boards. He immediately stopped the machine and rushed to a nearby house summoning assistance and subsequently an alarm from box 185 was pulled in.

Mr. Pigeon tried to extinguish the flames by throwing sand on the burning parts but the fire continued to gain headway and even after the fire apparatus arrived on the scene the firemen had considerable difficulty in extinguishing the blaze.

edians on the stage, and Miss Eva Weston will be the week's soloist. Edward Graybe, known as The Tall Tale Teller, has a fund of jokes and stories that are told in a most amusing manner. The photo-plays will include some of the best dramatic and comedy offerings produced.

For the second concert Sunday the management has again succeeded in gathering together some of the best and most refined entertainment to be had. The program includes "The Serenaders," a quartet consisting of Martie McGuire, Ed McNulty, and Misses Eva and Anna McMahon. This act is being put on by Prof. Fred Bond and the music has been arranged by Phil M. Lohmeyer, leader of the Merrimack Concert orchestra. The others are Little Mary Green in new songs, The Church Four, Ed Dawson, Pesco and Anna McMahon. The photo-plays are the kind that are approved by the state.—Adv.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

The finishing touches are being put upon Keith's new Lowell theatre, the stagings are being removed and one week hence, September 11, the theatre-going public of this city will be invited to visit the prettiest vaudeville house in all New England. Lowell will be particularly proud of Keith's new theatre because of the fact that it is "Lowell made" as it were, C. H. Conant and company of this city being the contractors, and a fine job they did. Already demands have been made for seats for the opening performances but the Keith policy of treating all alike will be carried out in this city as well as elsewhere and no seats will be sold to anyone until Thursday morning next at 10 o'clock when the box office will open and the first come first served rule carried out. In justice to the public also no telephone orders for tickets will be taken until Thursday noon. After that time, seats may be ordered in advance by telephone. The same rule will apply to the subscription list, all Keith houses. The subscription list will open on Thursday with the opening of the box office. Manager Stevens offers a particularly strong and popular bill for the opening week, a mere glance at which will convince the skeptics that the real Keith shows are to be presented in this city.

For a cyclone of laughter the bill starts off with the very funny and hilarious act entitled "Paris Night," a grand scenic display including sensational dancing, sidesplitting comedy and a company of 15 comedians and dancers. This act is one of the up-to-date novelties of vaudeville.

All Lowell will turn out to welcome the Cycling Burnetts, Lowell boys who have gone to the front in vaudeville. Their act is new and original and the fact that it is on the Keith bill is a guarantee that it is of the highest quality.

Two Lowell favorites will be heard in grand opera in J. K. Murray and Clara Lane who appeared here a few years ago at the head of an English Opera company.

Flanagan and Edwards in an act entitled "On and Off" picture life in front and behind the footlights.

Gordon and Keys are two famous fun-makers who will assist in the laugh-making quite extensively.

Col. Sam Goodworth, the oldest professional tenor in the world, is back from a tour of the Orient and will appear during the opening week.

The Frey twins in "Pastimes of the Palestine" give a novel and most interesting wrestling act.

Remember the dates. Box office opens Thursday at 10 and the first performance will be given on Monday, September 11.

MAYOR J. F. MEEHAN

Writes Letter to President Sullivan

ABOUT COMFORT STATION IN MERRIMACK SQUARE

Says Street Railway Company Should Pay Its Share—Cook Wells Relieve Water Shortage in Highlands—Board of Registrars Had Busy Session

The following letter from Mayor Meehan to President Sullivan of the Bay State St. Railway Co. relative to the very urgent need of a comfort station in Merrimack square, is self explanatory:

Lowell, Mass. Sept. 2nd, 1911.

Mr. Patrick F. Sullivan,
Pres. Bay State Street Railway Co., Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: The City of Lowell contemplates the erection of a comfort station in the vicinity of Merrimack Square and as mayor, I am desirous of knowing the attitude of your company in this matter.

I am fully cognizant of the law relating to the erection and maintenance of such stations but I feel that the Bay State Street Railway company as a public service corporation should be more solicitous for the needs and comforts of its patrons in this regard.

The convenience of the public must not be made subservient to the payment of dividends and your corporation must be held strictly accountable for the matter of all proper and reasonable efforts to give the public the character of service to which it is entitled.

Your cars deposit thousands daily in Merrimack Square without proper regard for their accommodation and I believe if the Bay State Street Railway company, works in harmony with the city this trouble will be greatly alleviated.

In conclusion, I would like to know how much your company is willing to contribute to bring about this vital need.

Respectfully yours,
John F. Meehan, Mayor.

Cook Wells Open

The Cook wells have been called into service again and the people who receive this water, especially those in the Highlands district, are rejoicing over the very desirable change from the boulevard to the Cook wells. The Cook wells will be kept in constant use for a month or so and it is expected that at the end of that time the boulevard wells will have received sufficient rest to render them available to the occasion of providing a full supply for the city.

The boulevard wells have received a very severe test during the drought, and the test was made all the more severe when the Cook wells were shut off. It looked at one time during the summer as if the water takers would have to go light on their supply and the rain arrived just in time to save what might have been an undesirable and somewhat embarrassing situation. Now that new wells are to be installed the effect of a drought such as has been experienced year after year for the last four or five years will be reduced to a minimum; for it will be a case of one set of wells relieving the other and it will not be necessary to force or work any of the wells overtime as has been the case with the boulevard wells.

Board of Registrars

The board of registrars of voters was kept pretty busy Friday afternoon and evening. The total registration for both sessions was 41 and by wards as follows: Ward one, 3; two, 11; three, 7; four, 7; five, 6; six, 2; seven, 2; eight, 1 and nine 3.

Building Permits

The following permits to build and make alterations have been issued at the office of the inspector of buildings since the last were published:

S. D. Brown, 227 Gibson street, two-apartment dwelling, $3500.
Charles Witham, 53 Hawthorne street, one apartment dwelling, $2500.
Burnham & Davis, general repairs at 114 and 116 Tucker street, $500.
Jennie Johnson, 119 Methuen street, one apartment dwelling, $2000.
John G. Sargent, 72 Wedge street, one family dwelling, $2200.
A. S. Gauthier, 300 Allen street, additions to bricksmith shop, $125.
A. E. Bennett, Cheever and Coolidge streets, repairs and additions, $1200.
Strauss and Dewar, Merrimack street, changes in Empire theatre, two stores on first floor, nine offices on second, $3500.
Plans for N. E. Tel. & Tel. Exchange building at office of buildings and City Hall Notes.

There were some sad looking clerks at city hall today and the cause of it was contained in the fact that they had to work this afternoon. The Saturday half-holiday ceased last Saturday and we all know how hard it is to give up a real good thing.

Five cases of infantile paralysis were reported at the office of the board of health during the month of August and one today. Only one case was reported in June and none in July.

LOWELL PEOPLE

TO ATTEND CONVENTION AT BIDDEFORD, ME.

The annual convention of the treasurers of the Artisans Canadian Franchises of Montreal, which has branches in Canada and the United States, will be held Sunday at Biddeford, Me. This convention is generally very interesting and instructive to the delegates. The Lowell people who will attend this meeting are Elphège J. Beaudette of Branch St. Louis; Tamerlane Blanchette of Branch St. Joseph; Joseph A. Plants of Branch St. Marie and Edmond Berner of Branch St. Andre. They will leave here tomorrow evening at 8 a. m. for Biddeford. In three days the opening of the convention which will take place at High Mass at the French Catholic church of that city.

CHARLES TUPPER

Aged Man Decides to Fight Reciprocity

OTTAWA, Canada, Sept. 2.—Conservative leaders here are rejoicing over the news that Sir Charles Tupper, formerly premier of Canada and now in his ninety-first year, has signified his intention to sail at once from England, where he has been sojourning.

ing, and plunge into the thick of the fight against American reciprocity as soon as he lands. The aged ex-premier still has much of his old time fighting spirit and vigor, and it is expected by the opposition that his voice and influence will do much toward defeating the Taff-Laurier policy. Sir Charles, it is understood, will make several speeches in constituencies considered doubtful. He represented his native county in Nova Scotia for thirty-one years in the Canadian parliament and after leaving the premiership in 1896 was opposition leader until he retired in favor of R. L. Borden, the present leader.

LOCAL ITALIANS

Take Steps for Erection of a Church

The Italians of this city are proposing to erect a Catholic church of their own in the near future and for this purpose, they will be addressed by Rev. Francesco Palombizio of the Franciscan order of Boston, on Labor day at a solemn high mass celebrated at St. Peter's church.

There are in this city over 500 Italians, the majority of whom are Catholics. They mostly all live in the vicinity of Gorham, Summer and Winter streets and they attend mass at St. Peter's church, but a number of them are not acquainted with the English language and they do not understand the sermons. Accordingly a movement is on foot to build a church and have a priest of their own nationality.

At 10 o'clock Monday morning a solemn high mass will be sung at St. Peter's church by Rev. Francesco Palombizio of Boston, assisted by two priests from St. Peter's church. The Italian missionary will, after the mass, address the congregation on the question of an Italian church in this city, and if the plan seems favorable, he will immediately name a committee to go along with the work of collecting funds, and a site will be at once looked for, and it is probable that within a year, the Italians of Lowell will listen to sermons in their mother tongue.

This church movement was started by Vincent Marotta, one of the most popular Italians of this city, and he feels confident that the proposed plan will be a success.

At the mass Monday morning the Italians will receive holy communion in a body and it is expected that they will all be present. The regular St. Peter's church choir will furnish an elaborate program of sacred music, and the sermon will be given after the mass.

THE "HYPNOTIC EYE" WORKETH NOT ON BENJIE!

Meldon Wolfgang Won His 25th Victory Yesterday

LAWRENCE, Sept. 1.—Lawrence and Lowell broke even at Riverside park yesterday afternoon. Lowell took the first game, 10 to 3, while Lawrence nosed out in the second clash by the score of 2 to 1. The second game went only seven innings by agreement. The first game was Wolfgang's 25th victory this season, while the second game was Lawrence's first win from Lowell on the Riverside grounds. A crowd of 2000 paid admissions, witnessed the fun and many of that number came down from Lowell. The games developed the fact that there is much rivalry existing between the two clubs.

In the first game, Kolseth was sent against Wolfgang. It was a pretty even thing until the sixth. Lowell was leading up to that time 2 to 1, and up the score. In the sixth, however, after Moulton was passed, the up-river batters fell on Kolseth for six hits including two doubles and the game was no longer in doubt. Barrows got a homer in the first, while Kennedy made a circuit of the bases in the sixth and Phoenix in the ninth inning. Lowell played poorly in the field, but made up for it with heavy sticking in the sixth inning.

In the eighth inning, Fluharty hit down to Crisam and Kolseth went over to take the throw. Fluharty unintentionally collided with Kolseth and the sblable was stretched out on the ground. He was able to resume, however, but he showed thereafter the effects of the collision.

Fluharty really started the first game. He was five times at bat. He made three hits and scored three runs. Lowell scored enough runs on clean hitting to win any ordinary game. The second game was a much even conflict. Yount was on the slab for Lowell and Dick Howard did the flinging for Lawrence. The local boy had Moulton, Barrows and Magee standing on their heads. Magee got a hit, but it was his last time up. Pat Crisam was there with a beautiful hit in the third inning that sent the first run over the pan. Lowell tied the score in the next inning, but the locals got confused on a play and Lowell had no right to the tally.

The star of the second game was Carlstrom. In the fourth inning, with Briggs on third and two out, Carlstrom drove out the hit that won the game. In the seventh inning, after Cooney and Magee had hit safely, Fluharty came close to making a bingo that would have tied up the score. Carlstrom squeezed the ball for an out, and then touched second for the double. That play saved the game for Lawrence and ended the game.

First Game
In the first with one out, Barrows dropped the ball over the centre field fence. The next two were outs. Hagan led off for Lawrence by drawing a base on balls. Crisam hit into a double play. Kennedy hit safe to right but Luyster fled to Fluharty.
In the second, Fluharty hit, took second on a sacrifice and third on a passed ball. His score on Boules' out to Briggs. Huston struck out. For Lawrence, Briggs, Phoenix and Carlstrom struck out.
In the third, Lowell did not reach. Lawrence got one run in the last half. Ulrich walked and took second on an out. Hagan hit to right and Ulrich went to third. Ulrich scored on a passed ball and Hagan went to second. Hagan took third on an out. Kennedy fled to Magee.
In the fourth, it was one, two, three for both sides.
In the fifth, with one out, Boules walked. He was out trying to steal. Huston walked. Wolfgang popped to Carlstrom. For Lawrence, Carlstrom was safe on Boules' had throw, taking second on Ulrich's sacrifice. Kolseth was safe on Moulton's wide throw but Carlstrom was out trying to score. Hagan fled out to Magee.

In the sixth, Moulton got a base on balls and took third on Barrows' bunt. Cooney hit to left and Moulton scored. Barrows and Cooney advanced on Magee's sacrifice. Fluharty doubled to right and two runs scored. Wright hit to centre and Fluharty scored. Wright went to second on the throw-in. Boules doubled and Wright scored. Huston popped to Phoenix. Wolfgang hit to left and Boules scored. Wolfgang was out trying to make second. For Lawrence, with one out, Kennedy lifted the ball over the centre field fence. Luyster hit to left and was forced at second on Briggs' grounder. Briggs took second on a wild pitch. Phoenix was the third out on a grounder to Boules.

In the seventh, Lowell did not reach. For Lawrence, with two out, Kolseth was safe on Cooney's poor throw. Wolfgang's throw got Kolseth out trying to make second.
In the eighth, with one out, Fluharty got a hit. Kolseth was knocked by a collision. He resumed playing, however. Fluharty stole. Wright walked. Boules hit to left and Fluharty scored. Boules went to second. For Lawrence, with one out, Crisam doubled. Kennedy fanned. Luyster's hit was not hot for Wolfgang. Briggs fled to Barrows.

In the ninth, Moulton beat out a hit to Carlstrom, going to third on Barrows' sacrifice and scoring on Carlstrom's poor throw to Hagan. Magee hit to centre. Fluharty hit to Crisam and was out at first. For Lawrence, Phoenix got a home over the left field fence. Carlstrom hit to centre. Ulrich was thrown out by Boules. Moulton threw Kolseth out. Hagan fled to Fluharty. The score:

FORMER CHAMPION TRAVERS TRAINING FOR THE AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Jerome D. Travers, metropolitan and New Jersey state champion; H. H. Hilton, champion of Great Britain, and other noted golfers are training every day for the national amateur championship, which will be decided at Apawamis Sept. 11-15. In his first game on American soil Hilton did a seven-five at Garden City, and he will soon start his practice work at Apawamis. Travers, who has twice won the American amateur championship, will begin his practice rounds at Apawamis on Sept. 5. In the accompanying pictures, which were taken a few days ago at the Upper Montclair Country club, which he will represent in the championship, Travers' form in driving and putting and in getting out of trouble is shown. Travers has already "come back" by winning two important events this year, and golfers are wondering whether he can "come back" sufficiently to win the national championship for the third time.

Kolseth was knocked out in the eighth inning of the first game, when Fluharty collided with the pitcher. He pluckily resumed playing.
Three homers in the first. Barrows got his in the opening session. Kennedy was there in the sixth and Billy Phoenix came across in the ninth.
Boules played splendid ball in the second game. His play of Hagan's grounder in the fifth inning was really the fielding feat of the afternoon.
Jimmy Magee was kept busy in the left garden. He got Luyster twice and both times on hard drives.
It was the first game that Lawrence has taken from Lowell on the home grounds this season.

THE SECOND GAME
In the first inning Lowell did not reach. Hagan walked and he was out trying to steal. The next two were outs.
In the second, with two out, Wright hit to left. Boules hit to right and Wright went to third. Boules went to second on the throw to third. Breyer dropped Lavigne's pop. Yount fanned.
For Lawrence, Luyster hit to left. Briggs hit to Boules and Cooney pivoted a double play. Phoenix was thrown out by Boules.
In the third, with two out, Phoenix fumbled Cooney's grounder and then pulled Pat off the big with a high throw. Magee was thrown out by Phoenix. For Lawrence, with one out, Breyer hit to right. Howard hit to Moulton and Breyer was forced at second. Hagan walked. Crisam went to second on the throw-in. Kennedy was retired by Boules.
In the fourth Fluharty was hit by a pitched ball. Wright fanned. Boules hit to right and Fluharty went to third. Lavigne hit to Howard and Fluharty should have been out at third, but on the mix-up, Fluharty scored. Yount hit to Crisam and Boules was out at the plate. Moul-

DIAMOND NOTES
Lawrence today and Monday afternoon. Lowell at Lawrence Monday morning.
Wolfgang, won, 25; lost, 5.
Some rowdy Lawrence fans threw tonic bottles at Umpire Duffy.
We hold Lawrence two games up to today.
We shouldn't have lost that second game.
Lowell's batting in the sixth inning of the first game gave the league leaders the win. Carlstrom's work gave Lawrence the second battle.
Big week-day crowd. There were 1998 paid admissions and of that number, many came down from the Springfield, expecting Lowell to take both.

PIEPER SQUEALS
LAWRENCE MANAGER PROVES A HARD LOSER

The Lawrence Eagle today says: Manager James J. Gray of the Lowell team brought along a lot of correspondence between him and the Chicago club and other officials yesterday when he came to the local grounds. He brought them along to convince Manager Louis P. Pieper of the Lawrence team that Lowell owned Player Roland Barrows.

Manager Gray failed to produce the most important bit of documentary evidence, however. That was to show how, when and under what conditions Chicago secured the option on Barrows of the present year. Until that is produced the rest of the correspondence does not amount to a row of pins. Manager Pieper is basing his protest on what the national commission has decided and that is, that Barrows went back to Chicago by reason of the fact that Chicago held an optional agreement on the player. In other words, that Chicago is now only merely calling Barrows back—that the club never surrendered its rights to him even when Barrows was shipped to Lincoln, later coming to Lowell.

Manager Gray maintains that the national commission made a mistake when it declared Barrows an "optional agreement" player. Until such time as that body does rectify the supposed mistake, then we must assume that it was right. And if it was right, Lowell had no right to play Barrows this season.

LEADERS CONFER
IN AN ENDEAVOR TO ADJUST DIFFERENCES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—At a conference attended by Julius Krattschmidt, vice president of the Harriman system and other Harriman officials here on one side and by J. Franklin, J. D. Buckale, W. F. Ryan, J. D. Crane, representing the five shop crafts involved, the formal demands of 26,000 railroad shopmen employed on the Harriman system were thrashed out in this city yesterday. Both sides announced that when they went into conference they were determined not to recede from their positions, that of the railroad being that it would not recognize the Federation of Employees and that of the union leaders, that this recognition must be conceded.

The Southern Pacific continues to lay off men, about 15 to 100 from the auditing staff having been let out. Most of these men have been employed as train auditors and this work will now be done by conductors.

THE BARK DISEASE
Threatens the Shade Trees and Forests

The shade trees and forests of Massachusetts, already threatened by insect pests which are yearly making greater ravages, are facing a new menace.
This is the chestnut bark disease which affects not only Massachusetts but all of New England. The bark disease is a fungus that attacks the chestnuts and Supt. Whitte of the park department says that the disease has reached Lowell. When the fungus once encircles the trunk the tree dies.
All summer Professor Arthur Graves of the Yale Forestry school has been making an investigation of the infection, and his report, just received by the department of agriculture, shows Massachusetts will have to provide at once money enough to pay for chopping down every tree affected. If this is not done, according to the report, not a chestnut tree will be left in the state in a few years.

The disease is first noticeable underneath the bark and in a short time works around the tree. The fungus grows rapidly, taking all the life out of the tree and leaving it shorn of its foliage.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reldy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.The price of sugar is reported higher than at any time since 1905. The trust is probably trying to recoup itself for the expenses of its recent prosecution by the federal government on a variety of charges criminal and otherwise.Mr. J. L. Chalifoux made many good points in his address on the new charter before the Citizens Americans the other night, but one of the best showed that as a democrat in a republican ward he might as well be disfranchised as vote for any member of the common council or school committee. The same is true of the republicans in the democratic wards.
Moreover where either party has a majority in the common council the other might almost as well send no representatives there. All this will be changed under the new charter, where every vote will count in the general contest for the elective offices.The Standard Oil trust as such has dissolved and gone out of existence in accordance with the decision of the United States supreme court; but the business will be conducted by the same people, by the same interests and with the same monopolistic power. The decision has simply shown this trust how to do a trust business and at the same time evade the anti-trust law. As now conducted the operations of this trust although fully as effective as before in stamping out competition cannot be charged with unreasonable restraint of trade. The highest court in the land has so legislated.

THE SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS

The public playgrounds this year were conducted in a highly successful manner. The supervisors, Messrs. H. A. Bruce, R. E. Guillo, E. J. Shulte, James A. Rooney and Thomas Maloney, are all deserving of praise for their enthusiastic labors. The lady assistants also deserve commendation as having done a very important part of the work. The children were benefited from the discipline, the fraternal spirit inculcated and the physical training. The supervised playground is a pronounced success and its usefulness will grow from year to year if the park board cooperates with the good ladies who have been kind enough to start the work. It has filled a great void in the lives of the children who are at a loss for something to occupy their attention during the summer vacation. Parents too have felt relief at knowing that their children were engaged at the public playgrounds rather than running after wagons, going to the rivers to bathe or to the country to forage for fruit.

PUBLIC MARKET WOULD LOWER PRICES

Parisians have begun an agitation against the high cost of living, their demands being emphasized in street parades. A demonstration somewhat similar was recently started in Des Moines, Ia., the city made famous for originating the more complete form of commission city charter. The mayor of the city, as he was bound to do, took action at once upon the demands of the people. To ascertain whether the retailers were responsible for the high prices of household necessities, he invited all the hucksters, peddlers and small dealers to use the municipal grounds fronting city hall on which to sell their commodities. The result brought relief on a great many articles sold in the markets. As a result prices were lowered in the markets, showing that the retailers or the middlemen had been demanding excessive profits.By this experiment the mayor of Des Moines demonstrated the great advantage of a public market in every city in the land. It is now several years since The Sun started an agitation for a public market in this city.
For a time the idea of having such a market in connection with a public hall was favored, but owing to a number of causes, chief of which were the inertia of our city government and the lack of funds, the whole project has been dropped as hopeless until we attain the new order of things that will follow the adoption of the Des Moines charter soon to be passed upon by the voters of our city. There is not a doubt that a great deal can be done to help the people in many ways by a prompt response to popular demands such as we see in Des Moines and such as we hope to see in our own city after we shall have adopted the Des Moines system of city government.

LABOR DAY

Labor Day, which this year will be celebrated on a very large scale in this city, has come to be recognized as labor's holiday throughout the country. The origin of this holiday dates back to 1883 when the Knights of Labor held a great parade in New York on the first Monday in September.
On the same day the following year another parade and meeting occurred at which Mr. George Lloyd offered a resolution providing that the first Monday in September should be known as Labor Day and observed as such by organized labor throughout the country. The state of Colorado is said to have been the first to make the day a legal holiday in 1887, and all the other states, together with the district of Columbia, soon followed. The day is utilized not only as a day of rest and recreation but for the purpose of holding public parades and demonstrations in favor of the demands of organized labor. In this respect the observance of the day has tended greatly to extend the influence and power of organized labor.Some states authorize cities and towns to appropriate money for the observance of Labor Day. The statutes of Massachusetts, section 28, chapter 26, of the revised laws provide that the city council of any city may by a ye and nay vote of two-thirds of the members of each branch, thereof present and voting, appropriate money for the celebration of holidays and for other public purposes to an amount not exceeding in any one year one-fiftieth of one per cent. of its valuation for such year. This year the city council appropriated $1000 to assist the labor organizations in the celebration of the day, the money to be spent under the direction of the mayor and a committee of the city council. It will be a great gala day for the laboring people, and it is the hope of everybody that they will enjoy it to the utmost.

An orderly arrangement of working hours is a desirable and time-saving thing, but when one reads the plan of the day made by a colored person he cannot help wondering where the good system held any possibility of relaxation.

The record, quoted by William Root Bliss in "Side Glances from the from the diary of Thomas Prince, a minister of the Old South church, Boston.

The conductor stepped from the car and was followed by the motorman and they each picked up a handful of small stones and they began to throw at a trolley past about 250 feet away, and by the time the outward bound thrown 25 or 30 stones each, and it was surprising how often they hit the

PRETTY PEGGY
When Peggy goes a-marketing,
Denure and pum and nee,
I would I were the dusty road,
To sing beneath her feet;
I would I were the basket on
Her soft brown dimpled arm.
Then life would be a market day
Upending in its charm.

When Peggy trips the minuet
With any gallant beau,
Her dainty feet flash in and out
Like satin stars that glow;
Her laughter weaves the sweetest tune
That ever lone heart heard,
The murmur of a brook that wakes
The love note of a bird.

When Peggy trends her way to church
My heart must follow, too,
And wish it were those violets
Mistaken "her eyes of blue,"
And wish it were the book of prayer
That smiles up in her face,
"Twould ask no fatter heaven above
Nor truer meed of grace.

Sweet Peggy, life's a queer old chap
Who must delight in pain
To drop your glances in my heart
Like pearls of silver rain,
To weave a white and gold romance
Of dreams that fade away,
For you have slept a hundred years
And I'm a song today.

THE MODERN SONG
In days of old when lovers hold Fond wooed their ladies fair,
With opposition of a kind
Parental in the air,
One came unto the lady's bower;
And horses fleet brought her,
The while he whispered soft and low,
"My love, come fly with me!"

Then they would it on marriage bent
Upon their gallant steeds;
For flying always meant a goal
To meet their nuptial needs.
But different is all this today,
No lover must be he
Who says unto a maid these times,
"Come, will you fly with me?"

He merely means in friendly way
That he is kindly fair,
To give her a delightful ride
In his new aeroplane.
But maidens must prefer old ways,
And rather do they sigh
Then with an aviator hold,
A lover true to fly.

The name of Mary has played an important part in history. In Scotland the first royal Marie was the daughter of Duke Arnold of Gueldres, who married James II and afterward became queen regent. Then we have Marie of Lorraine, who married James V after refusing Henry VIII. Their daughter was the famous Mary Queen of Scots, and the most romantic and fascinating

Maries. Then there was Mary Tudor, Henrietta Maria became the ill-fated wife of Charles I. Mary of Modena was the second wife of James II. Mary, the daughter of James II by his first wife, by her marriage with William of Orange invested their joint reign with a glory which is even now undiminished.
Since then we have had several princesses named Mary, one the daughter of George II, another of George III, while the mother of our late queen was Mary Louise Victoria. But the most essentially English of all Marys in the history of the country is our present beloved queen, says the London Globe.

It was in the hotel of a western mining town that the New England guest, registering in the office, heard a succession of wild yells.

"What in the world is that—a murder going on upstairs?" he demanded.
"No," said the clerk as he slammed the book and lounged toward the stairs,
"it's the spring bed up in No. 5. That tenderfoot up there don't get the hang of it, and every few days he gets one of the spiral springs screwed into him like a shirt stud. I guess I'll have to go up, if there ain't anything more I can do for you for a few minutes."

HENRY HUDSON'S QUEST
Out from the harbor of Amsterdam
The Half Moon turned her prow to sea;
The coast of Norway dropped behind,
Yet northward still kept she
Through the drifting fog and the driving snow.

Where never before man dared to go,
"O, pilot, shall we find the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"A waste of ice before us lies—we must turn back," said he.

Westward they steered their tiny bark;
Westward through weary weeks they slept,
Till the cold grey strand of a strange er-land
Loomed through the mist ahead.
League after league they hugged the coast,
And their captain never left his post.
"O, pilot, as you yet the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"I see but the rocks and the barren shore, no strait is there, quoth
he.

They called to the north, they sailed to the south,
And at last they rounded an arm of
sea,
Which held the sea from a harbor's mouth—
The levellest in the land,
They kept their course across the bay,
And the shore before them fell away.
"O, pilot, see you not the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"Hold the rudder true!" Prized Christ Jesus! the strait is here," said he.

Onward they glided with wind and tide,
Past marshes grey and crags sun-blest;
They skirt the skirts of green-clad hills,
And meadows white with mist—
But ah! the hope and the brave, brave dream,
For rock and shadow bar the stream.
"O, pilot, can this be the strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"Nay, captain, nay; 'tis not the way; turn back we must," said
he.

Full sad was Hudson's heart as he turned
The Half Moon's prow to the south once more.
He saved no beauty in crag or hill,
No beauty in curving shore;
For they shut him away from that fabled main
He sought his whole life long, in vain.
"O, pilot, say, can there be a strait that leads to the eastern sea?"
"God's cry is sealed. 'Twould stand revealed in His own good time," quoth he.

ting French newspaper reporter who

PRESIDENT TAFT'S VETOES
New York Times: The Underwood revision of the wool schedule Mr. Taft found to be unacceptable because it had been prepared without information as to cost differences and other factors which the tariff board is engaged in studying. The general opinion of the country, we are sure, is that, in signing a bill which reduces the run of duties on woolen fabrics from 95 per cent. to 45 per cent., he would have run no great risk of sanctioning duties too low to meet the affaires of production cost and the "reasonable profit" to American manufacturers. However, he was of a different opinion, and vetoed the bill.

Now, suppose the report of the tariff board should be of such a nature as to justify rates below those fixed in the Underwood bill. That would show that Mr. Taft had entirely misjudged the result and had done injustice to its authors in impugning haste and recklessness to them in preparing new rates. On the other hand, suppose the board's report should indicate the necessity of duties considerably higher than those fixed by the Underwood bill. Does the president suppose, do the woolen manufacturers or the friends of protection generally, imagine for a moment, that the country would accept such a report as a fair and impartial presentation of facts fit to serve as a basis for the revision of that schedule? Would it not, on the contrary, be said everywhere that the president's tariff board was but a part of the great protectionist organization, cooperating with the republican party and with the president himself, to maintain the "indefensible" duties of Schedule K? It seems to us that embarrassments which might easily have been avoided by signing the wool bill have been deliberately invited by the veto.

meeting and was admitted, says the Lawrence Eagle. He informally presented the cause of Portland, where a body of influential business men interested in booming the city want to furnish backing for a New England league club in that city. It is believed that that fine summer city is about ready for league baseball once more. Mr.
Arundel stated that he had no personal interest in the proposition and did not want to be connected with it in any way.

LABOR DAY PARADE GREAT SENSATION

JOHN J. MAHONEY
President Trades and Labor Council

CHARLES E. ANDERSON
Chief Marshal of Parade

THOMAS J. REAGAN
Chief of Staff

Program of Observance--Sports and Open Air Meeting on Common

One of the biggest labor demonstrations in the history of the city is scheduled to take place next Monday and according to the program planned by the hustling committee it bids fair to be a grand success. The only thing possible to mar the success the demonstration will be unfavorable weather which is very improbable.

The feature of the day will be the monster parade which will start at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon there will be an excellent program of sports carried out on the South common and in the evening there will be an open air meeting on the South common and many prominent speakers will deliver addresses.

It is expected that there will be about 2500 people in line and a number of floats. Already merchants on the principal streets are starting to decorate their buildings and by Monday all of the principal buildings along the route of parade will be decorated. This will be the first Labor Day parade held in this city since 1904 and the members of the various unions are very enthusiastic over the coming demonstration.

The officers of the day are: General manager, John J. Mahoney, Typographical union; assistant general manager, Timothy Bourke, Bootlers' union; treasurer, Mrs. Annie Odell, Cotton Weavers' union; chief marshal of parade, Charles E. Anderson, Iron Molders' union; chief of staff, Thomas J. Reagan, Cotton Weavers' union; adjutant, Joseph E. Conover, Carpenters' union; marshal of Trades and Labor council, Muriel Lyons, Bootlers' union; marshal of second division, Farrell Carney, Building Laborers' union; marshal of third division, Dennis Healey, Leather Workers' union.

penters 1610; William H. Mulcahey, theatrical stage employees; Sandy Dunn, brewery teamsters; Joseph Kennedy, brewery booters; Stanislaw Wozniak, cotton weavers; John W. Downing, International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen; local 14; James E. Anderson, barbers; Carl Heidenreich, brewery workers; Thomas McKenna, cigar makers; James A. Burns, clerks; Joseph P. Fiske, representing citizens; Fred Latendresse, leather workers; Michael Larkin, international molders 85; Hugh Maguire, bartenders; William D. Raygan, printing pressmen; Frank Klerck, city teamsters; Harvey B. Greene, federation of churches; Fred A. Hennessy, street railway men; 280; Frank Varneck, plasterers; Joseph Preston, painters; Fred Robey, electrical workers; William McElroy, steam engineers; Melrose Dalgic, loom fixers.

Was Sprung at the Beattie Murder Trial Today

CHESTERFIELD COURTHOUSE, Va., Sept. 2.—Before sundown today in this historic little courthouse Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., indicted for the murder of his wife on Middleman turnpike probably will complete his explanation of the tragedy to a jury that for eleven days has heard a variety of circumstantial evidence against him.

The prisoner was expected to take the stand shortly after noon in direct examination to be followed by a vigorous cross examination which it was said possibly might continue into the evening. Today at any rate the de-

Upon the kind of story told by the prisoner today many things are dependent. It already has been demonstrated by the defense that the accused would cling minutely to his story at the coroner's inquest concerning the alleged highwayman and would continue to discredit Paul Beattie, both with respect to the purchase of the fatal shotgun and the alleged confession which Paul says he heard from the lips of the accused the night after the tragedy. Importance will attach to the explanation of the prisoner as to his relations with Beulah Binford, the "girl in the case."

Paul a passerby could not see the doorway on account of an intervening mass of scaffolding. Court was not scheduled to reconvene today unless Beattie was the witness and first Mrs. M. C. Steger is the witness and she claims that a tramp who came to her home fitted somewhat the description of the alleged highwayman.

Charles Kestelberg of Richmond, the mysterious witness whose discovery yesterday caused counsel for the defense in the Beattie trial to interrupt its examination of witnesses came forward today with the declaration that it was he who was motoring on the Middleman turnpike on the night of the murder and stopped his machine to get some water while the woman with him stood on the running board.

Trades council; Barbers—Cigarmakers—City Teamsters, Cotton Weavers, International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, Stationary Engineers, Local 11, Plasterers Street Railway Men 238, Street Railway Men 551, Tailors—Second division—Building Laborers, Molders, Painters, Carpenters 49 and 1610, Electrical Workers.

Third division—Leather Workers, Loomfixers, Brewery Workers, Teamsters 72, Bartenders.

Route of Parade

The formation and route of the parade will be as follows:

The first division will form on Middle street, right resting on Central street. The second division will form on Market street, right resting on Central street. The third division will form on Jackson street, right resting on Central street.

At 9:30 o'clock sharp the parade will move over the following route: Middle street to Central, to Middlesex, to Thorndike, to Fletcher, to Adams, to Cabot, to Merrimack (to be reviewed at city hall by members of city government), to Bridge, to Sixth, counter-march to Prescott, to Central, to Charles to Summer to South common where it will be reviewed by the Chief Marshal and staff and dismissed.

The Prizes

As an incentive for the unions to turn out in full numbers and present features in the parade the committee has offered $30 in prizes. Twenty dollars has been offered as the first prize for the feature and $10 for second prize; largest number of men in line, first prize, $10, second prize, $5; best appearing union, first prize, $20, second prize, $10; best motto, first prize, $5, second prize $2.

The Committee

The following is a list of members of the Labor day committee:

John J. Mahoney, Typographical union, chairman; Charles E. Anderson, chief of staff.

Beulah, though summoned by the prosecution was not put on the stand and if she goes on at all it will be in the rebuttal, which is to begin Monday. If the prisoner admits his relationship with the girl in the same way he did at the coroner's inquest the prosecution may not ask the girl to testify, as it is an open secret that her numerous statements and chatter about the case was demonstrated in both sides a certain risk in allowing her to take the stand.

One report today was that the defense might, before the trial was concluded point to Beulah as an accessory before the fact and the prosecution it is understood, has been working on information concerning a girl who is reported to have been told by Beulah that she knew of the planning of the murder.

Only in corroborating the testimony of Paul Beattie, who says he carried certain messages from Henry to Beulah just a few days prior to the murder, it is probable that the prosecution will use her testimony. Such corroboration will not be of minor importance as the defense already has by numerous witnesses attacked the veracity of Paul as to other points in his story.

The prosecution, however, stands ready to support Paul's testimony, the most vital assault on which was made by the defense two days ago when H. Noblitt testified that he saw Paul standing in a doorway with a gun at the bridge where he works just a day after Paul was supposed to have delivered the weapon to Henry.

Paul also said that day that he testified for the prosecution that he saw Paul in the same doorway and that he was a stick and not a gun which he held. Furthermore, the prosecution will argue that from the point in the road where Noblitt says he spied

Paul a passerby could not see the doorway on account of an intervening mass of scaffolding. Court was not scheduled to reconvene today unless Beattie was the witness and first Mrs. M. C. Steger is the witness and she claims that a tramp who came to her home fitted somewhat the description of the alleged highwayman.

Charles Kestelberg of Richmond, the mysterious witness whose discovery yesterday caused counsel for the defense in the Beattie trial to interrupt its examination of witnesses came forward today with the declaration that it was he who was motoring on the Middleman turnpike on the night of the murder and stopped his machine to get some water while the woman with him stood on the running board.

The testimony of Kestelberg, if accepted as fact, neutralizes the evidence offered by the prosecution in many important respects because the commonwealth has held that it was Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who was crouching in front of a machine on the turnpike while his wife was standing on the running board and was shot, her fall causing the big bloodspot on the road.

"It was I," said Kestelberg, who is a wholesale butcher, to an Associated Press representative before court opened today, "who was on the Middleman turnpike that night. I saw the crowd of boys pass and they offered me help which I said was unnecessary. I have hesitated to give any information about the case to anybody although I read in the papers that the testimony of the boys indicated that it was Henry Beattie and his wife stopped and that it was Mrs. Beattie standing on the running board. I will tell you frankly that I don't know who the woman was who was with and gave her a ride for part of the way. I saw a married man I did not wish to volunteer testimony that would put me in a bad light socially, but I told my wife and several intimate friends and I guess it leaked out to the defense, who summoned me today."

"Did you see any other cars on the road that night?" he was asked.

Several threatening letters came in Judge Watson's mail today. One told him that if Henry C. Beattie, Jr., was convicted and sent to the chair his own name would be numbered. Another from New Brighton, Pa., declared that the gun with which Mrs. Beattie was murdered was not in Virginia now and that Paul Beattie never saw it. Still another signed "Eye-witness" said that neither Henry nor Paul had committed the crime, and made threats against the judge and jury in the event of conviction of the prisoner. All were anonymous. Judge Watson smiles as he handed them to the reporters. One came from New Orleans to Prosecutor Wendenburg and said: "Prosecutor Paul Beattie; he's guilty."

The deposition of Mrs. Steger, who is alleged to have seen a highwayman on the road near her home, was not taken, as counsel for the defense admitted that what she knew was of little account.

Charles Kestelberg was a witness today. The prisoner's face was wreathed in smiles as the man entered the room.

Kestelberg told the same story he had given to the reporters before entering the courtroom.

"Who was the lady?" he was asked. "I don't know but I have been trying to find out ever since."

"Why?"

"I thought you would want her to substantiate what I would say."

"You were drinking that night, weren't you?"

"A few beers."

"How was the woman dressed?"

"In white. She had on one of those mushroom hats."

"Where did you unload this little enigma when you reached Richmond?"

"At Broad street."

"Did any one see you?"

"I hope not."

"How did you come to meet the lady?"

"Well, I had an auto and I asked her to take a ride."

"Well, were you interested in her?"

"No. I had been drinking a little bit and didn't know exactly what I was doing."

Mr. Smith then began a re-direct examination.

" weren't you sober enough to run an auto?"

"Yes."

The witness was excused.

W. H. Sampson, a chum of Beattie, who was with him on his trip to Norfolk when he met Beulah Binford, next took the stand.

He said he had known Beattie about 15 years, knew of his relations with Beulah Binford and of their breaking off before he was married.

MANY REPORTS READ AT CONVENTION OF LAWYERS IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Reports of special committees and officers on matters pertaining to criminology and law occupied the attention of the delegates to the annual convention of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology at its closing session. Reports were given on "Sentence and release on parole" by Albert H. Hall of Minnesota, on "Judicial probation and suspension of sentence," by Wilfrid Boister of Massachusetts, "Crime and immigration," Glen C. Snodgrass, New York, "Criminal statistics," John Koenig, Massachusetts, "System for recording data concerning criminality," Harry Olson, Illinois, "Cooperation with other organizations," W. C. Hart, Louisiana, "Translation of European treatises on criminal science," John Wigmore, Illinois, "State branches and new membership," Eugene Gilmore, Wisconsin.

General discussion by legal lights from all sections of the country followed the reading of these reports. There were also reports from Secretary Harry Reed of Chicago, treasurer Winthrop of New York, Robert Gault of Chicago, and Managing Director Frederick Crossley of Chicago.

THE LOCAL CANDIDATES

May Hear From John Golden Labor Day Night

It is understood that John Golden of Fall River, one of the best known labor men in America in his speech on the South common on the evening of Labor Day will deal with labor legislation and incidentally the records of local members of the legislature relative to labor measures.

Mr. Golden keeps in close touch with all labor legislation and is one of the best informed men on this subject in the country.

Speaker Joseph Walker, the least strenuous campaigner of the three republican candidates for governor will hold a rally at C. M. A. C. hall on the evening of September 15th.

A meeting of Republicans who are interested in the Prohibition campaign was held last evening at the office of the Lowell Mutual Insurance company and plans of campaign discussed.

Politicians and candidates, great and small, will be found at Mad Pond tomorrow at the annual outing of the famous Middlesex Social club, where a big clam bake is to be one of the features. The club stands for politics but plays no favorites having both democrats and republicans among its members.

THE T. AND S. MILLS

The Tremont & Suffolk mills will reopen on Tuesday after an idleness of one week, making two weeks' vacation that the operatives of these mills have had during the summer. The original intention was to have a vacation of two weeks at a stretch, but an accident to the power plant about two weeks ago rendered it necessary to take a week's vacation at that time and arrange the second week to include Labor day.

It is understood that the Brussels department of the local mills of the Jilgelow Carnet company will resume operations after Labor day. This department has been idle for a week or more except for a few looms that have been running on samples.

MOTOR BOAT RACE TO BE HELD ON MERRIMACK LABOR DAY

Owners of motor boats and motor boat enthusiasts are displaying considerable interest in the races to be held on the river Labor day. In addition to the two prizes already offered, two more cups have been donated, one by George H. Wood and another by Charles Goulding and George F. Lull.

One cup is up for the speed race between E. A. Brooks and Leon Flint. In the open race the entries are coming in fast, 20 or more being entered with a prospect of many more before the race is called. The race being a handicap affair, it gives every boat a fair description an equal chance.

On Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the preliminary trials will be held on the river to be used in the handicapping of the entries, and all entrants and prospective ones are requested to be on hand early.

STERN OF SCHOONER DISCOVERED

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 2.—The stern of the schooner Margaret May of Philadelphia, which left Charleston August 23 for Philadelphia, commanded by Captain Jarvis, was discovered on Colo island near here today. No word has been received from her crew of seven and it is believed they are lost. The vessel evidently was caught in the recent hurricane and wrecked.

THEATRICAL MAN FATALLY INJURED

READING, Pa., Sept. 2.—Lewis Simmons, a theatrical man of Allentown, was struck by a motor truck today and died in a few minutes. He was dragged about 50 feet. Simmons was at one time a member of the minstrel firm of Simmons & Slocumb.

McNAMARA DEFENSE FUND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The design of a new McNamara defense fund stamp submitted to the postoffice department by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, has been approved by Third Assistant Postmaster General Britt. The new stamp differs materially from the original McNamara stamp. The word "stamp" is eliminated, the coloring is lighter and it is octagonal instead of oblong in form. Under the regulations of the postoffice department even the new stamp may not be placed on the address side of an envelope or package but can be placed on the reverse side. If the stamp should be placed on the address side the letter would be sent to the dead letter office as unmailable.

HORSE WAS STOLEN

Charlie Morse Reported Case to Police

Charles Morse, former superintendent of streets, this morning reported to the police the loss of his horse and carriage, the outfit, it is claimed, having been stolen from Middle street between the hours of 10:30 and 11:30. Mr. Morse went into the fire station in Middle street at 10:30 o'clock this forenoon, and when he came out at 11:30 the horse and wagon were gone. Mr. Morse feels keenly the loss of his steed, having owned it for the past nine years. The animal is a well known figure in town, having driven its master around the streets of Lowell when the latter was superintendent of streets up to the present time. The owner expects to recover the stolen rig, but he fears that the horse will be overdriven, as it is a high spirited horse and may overcome itself.

The description as given to the police is as follows: Bay horse, 500 pounds, black plate, rubber framed harness, open piano box body, newly painted black body and red running gears with steel tires.

DEATHS

MURPHY—Miss Bernice F. Murphy died at Winthrop, Mass., September 1, after an illness of three days aged 18 years, 11 months and 6 days. For the past few years, Miss Murphy had attended school in Lowell and made her home with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Peter F. Conaton of Marlborough street. During her residence and frequent visits to Lowell, she had endeared herself to a wide circle of friends to whom the sad news of her untimely death came as a shock, and their sympathy goes out to her mother and other relatives in their bereavement.

The funeral will be from Mr. Conaton's residence, 43 Marlborough street, Monday morning, with services at St. Margaret's church, Stevens St., at 10 o'clock.

FUNERALS

FINNUGAN—All that was mortal of the late James Francis Finnegan was tenderly consigned to its last resting place this morning in the presence of a very large concourse of relatives and friends, who by their presence showed the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The funeral cortege left the home, 44 Floyd street, at 8:30 o'clock and proceeded to St. Peter's church, where at 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. John Burns. The choir rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory Miss Mary E. Whitley sang "Pie Jesu." After the elevation Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered "Jesus Salvator Mundi," and as the body was being borne from the church the choir rendered "In Paradisum." Mrs. J. W. McKennedy presiding at the organ.

There was a delegation present from Court General Shields, F. of A., of which deceased was a member, as follows: James Lane, James Pitt, David Stead and Vincent. Nardella. There was a wealth of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings as follows:

Cross and pillow inscribed "Good-bye," from the family; basket, Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Brien and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Clark and family; mammoth wreath on base, employees of the weaving room of the U. S. Hurling; basket, Mrs. Mary O'Hara and family; spray, Mrs. A. M. Smith; sprays, Mrs. Mary Flynn, Miss Jennie McCarthy, Mrs. Mary Delahanty, Miss Harriett McGuire, Miss Mary McKenna, Mrs. Jennie Dwyer.

There were friends present from Boston, Dorchester, Mass. and Concord, N. H.

The bearers were John Harrigan, Patrick and Thomas Kane, Edward Sien, Michael O'Hara and Frank Sullivan. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Rev. John Burns reading the committal prayers at the grave. Undertaker John J. O'Connell had charge of the funeral arrangements.

LEBLANC—The funeral of the late

Herminigilde Leblanc took place this morning from his late home in Haverhill street, Dracut. The large cortege took the house at 8:30 o'clock and wended its way to St. Louis' church, where at 9 o'clock Rev. R. A. Fortier sang high mass of requiem. The choir under the direction of Mr. Oliver

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

LYNN, Sept. 2.—Jumping from a biplane at a height of about 20 feet, a local aviator named Schumaker escaped today with slight bruises but the machine, which was owned by Guy Foss, son of Governor Foss, was demolished. Schumaker ascended at Franklin field, Saugus, intending to try to fly to Atlantic. The aeroplane had gone but a short distance at an altitude of about 20 feet when a gust of wind caught it and almost overturned it. Schumaker, seeing a fall imminent, jumped to the ground. The biplane went about a dozen feet farther, then fell, striking with such force that it was smashed to pieces.

THE GOTCH-HACKENSCHMIDT MATCH

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The principals in the international wrestling match which is scheduled to take place at the White Sox baseball park next Monday afternoon began early today the last of their training for the contest.

Frank Gotch, the champion, went from his hotel to the Chicago Athletic club, where during the day he will wrestle with his training partners and do some light gymnasium work.

Hackenschmidt, the Russian challenger, was up early at his camp on the North side and went for a walk along the lake shore.

"I am going to wrestle carefully, and all these stories about me making a rushing bout are false," said Gotch. "If I allow Hack to get hold of me at the start he is likely to break some of my bones with his mighty strength. I believe it will simply simmer down to a case of condition. The man with the greatest endurance will win. I intend to do a little work today which will consist mostly of wrestling with my trainers."

About $50,000 has been taken in at the box office to date and before Monday it is expected the receipts will reach $75,000.

WANT CHEAPER FOOD

DUNKIRK, Department of Nord, France, Sept. 2.—Agitators of the movement for cheaper food completely dominate this vicinity. Three hundred women marched through the streets today as a demonstration to the government that it ought to do something looking to the reduction of high prices. All the roughs of the city have joined in looting the shops, frightening the dealers into barring their store windows and doors. Troops have been requisitioned to restore order.

THE KING ESTATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The estate in realty and personal holdings of James T. King, who died this week, has been certified to the probate court as worth about $700,000. Considerable property is also shown to belong to the estate elsewhere, especially in New Mexico. Mr. King was a close friend of John D. Rockefeller. The immediate heirs are the widow and Mrs. Sheldon Tolles of Cleveland, O., a daughter.

Herminigilde Leblanc took place this morning from his late home in Haverhill street, Dracut. The large cortege took the house at 8:30 o'clock and wended its way to St. Louis' church, where at 9 o'clock Rev. R. A. Fortier sang high mass of requiem. The choir under the direction of Mr. Oliver

LONDON'S LARGEST FIRE
SEPTEMBER 2.—London was just about to take a badly needed rest after its battle with the plague in 1665, when on September 2 a fire started in the house of a baker named Farrer. Nothing strange about a fire in a baker's shop, but this one did not stop there. It leaped to the next house, and then to the next, and before long it had reached the great square of St. Martin's, one of the great squares of London. For three days and three nights the fire raged driven by the wind in one direction and then another till a district two miles long and one mile wide was converted into ashes. The people were panic-stricken, and with-out adequate means of fighting the flames, people who had spent their days in the lap of luxury were converted into paupers without a rag to cover their backs. The Thames was filled with all kinds of goods that the people were trying to save. The fields were crowded with homeless people who had to live in hovels and tents. A change in the wind caused the fire to die out and when the people had lost two-thirds of their city, including thousands of houses, the Royal Exchange, the Cathedral, all their public buildings and over 100 churches.

DOMESTIC TROUBLES

Aired in Court Before Judge Hadley

Mrs. Ellen J. De Carteret appeared in police court this morning as the complainant against her husband in a case of threat. Mrs. De Carteret claimed that her husband was in the habit of becoming intoxicated and threatening her. De Carteret had little to say, his principle remark being that he would plead guilty to anything his wife said. The court found the defendant guilty and ordered him placed under bonds of $100 to keep the peace for six months. Arthur De Carteret, a brother of the defendant, went bail for the man and the court instructed the brother to be sure and keep a good watch on the defendant or else civil proceedings might follow in case there was a breach of the conditions of the order to keep the peace.

Case Will Be Settled
Michael J. Reynolds who appeared before the court yesterday morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $3.25 the property of John McManus and whose case was continued until this morning for disposition, was called. It appears that Mr. McManus loaned the defendant money the latter stating that he would give an order for his pay which was due at city hall yesterday. When McManus went to collect the money it was found that there was a lien on the pay, and he immediately swore out a warrant against Reynolds. Yesterday an agreement was reached between Reynolds and McManus whereby the former was to pay the money back within a limited time and under that condition the case was continued for two weeks.

Case Continued
Michael Hays, who it is alleged threw his wife down an embankment in the vicinity of Perry street, was brought before the court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery. Inasmuch as his wife is confined to the hospital, the case was continued until next Saturday morning.

Neglected His Wife
Joseph Arcand was charged with failing to provide proper support for his wife. Mrs. Arcand testified that her husband left her on the 12th of June and in order to support her two children it was necessary for her to

Griffiths, The Florist

R. A. Griffiths, the well known Central street florist, who for nearly a quarter of a century, has done business in the same location, owing to the improvements to be made by the purchasers of the Hamilton Company's property, has been obliged to vacate his well known place of business owing to the building of the new block. He has been fortunate enough to secure a location in the Keith theatre building, No. 31 Bridge street, and the person who has been doing business with the public for nearly a quarter of a century must certainly have gained the confidence of the public for honesty and fair dealings. Mr. Griffiths will make a special effort to better than ever supply the wants of the public with goods in his line for weddings, receptions, parties and funerals, both in quality, price and prompt delivery. Today the doors of his new establishment will be open to the public, and he wishes to thank all patrons for past favors, and hopes for a continuance of the same, and respectfully invites the public to call and look over his up-to-date floral establishment. Persons desiring, can telephone orders by calling up 1794. Griffiths, the florist, Edward Bushnell, clerk.

THE 20th ANNIVERSARY

Of Marriage Observed by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricard

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ricard are today observing the 20th anniversary of their marriage, but on account of it being a business day, the celebration will take place tomorrow afternoon, when a reception will be held at their home, 420 Fletcher street, the happy event to be continued Monday, afternoon and evening.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ricard are favorably known in this city, where they count a host of friends, a number of whom have already tendered them their congratulations over the event. Mr. Ricard was born at Yarmouth, Que., March 22, 1870, and he is now the owner of the old homestead which he purchased four years ago, using the same as a summer resort for his family. At the age of nine, he came to this city with his father, the late Andre Ricard, and immediately secured employment in one of the local mills.

at 660 Merrimack street, and business was so good that a few years later he was forced to enlarge his place, and now he is the proprietor of one of the largest establishments of its sort in the city, to say nothing of his branch store in Broadway, Lawrence which is also prospering, and of the Up Town Shoe store next door to his store in Merrimack street, where under the management of his son Eugene, business is very prosperous. Mr. Ricard is 41 years of age, while his wife is four months younger. They both enjoy the best of health and are held in high esteem by their many acquaintances. Mr. Ricard is a great society man, being a member of the following organizations: C. M. A. C., Carillon council, U. S. T. Bie. A. C., Branch St. Andre, A. C. F., Court St. Antoine, C. O. P., and Carneau council of which he is the president, being also the past chief ranger of Court St. Antoine. He is a director of the board of trade and an energetic member of the board of charity.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9th, COMMENCING PROMPTLY AT 2 O'CLOCK
11 HOUSE LOTS IN KENWOOD, DRACUT, MASS.

On the several premises, regardless of the weather, I shall offer the above lots four of them being located on Percy street, four on Huron street, and three on Pickney street. The lots all join one another on the different streets. There are several nice little homes on Percy street. The three lots on Pickney street are on very high land and command a good view of the surrounding country. There has been a very nice cement house just completed within 60 yards of the lots on Huron street. The above three streets, located in Kenwood, are opened up from the car line on Elm street to the Lawrence road. It is a five-cent car fare to Lowell and within five minutes' walk of the new school house. Now, if you are interested in this district, you should attend this sale, as every lot must be sold for just what it will bring. Deposit of $10 will be required on each lot when struck off. For further particulars, call at the office of the auctioneer, where plans can be seen.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9, AT 3.15 O'CLOCK, IN TWO SEPARATE PARCELS
A two tenement house and about 4000 square feet of land at 93 London street. A cottage house and about 1900 square feet of land at 32 Autumn street. On their respective premises regardless of weather I shall offer for sale, the above two parcels.

FIRST PARCEL—Is a two tenement, 2 1-2 story house and about 4000 square feet of land. There are five rooms and pantry with each tenement; they are lighted by gas are in very good condition, are occupied by good tenants and rents for $15 a month. The lot which is a corner one has good frontages on London and Autumn streets, is high and dry and all fenced in.

SECOND PARCEL—3200 sq. ft.—An eight room cottage house and about 1900 square feet of land at 32 Autumn street. There are five rooms and pantry on first floor and three good chambers on the next, lighted by gas, in good condition inside and out and always rented at $11 a month. The lot is well situated from the car line and has a stone wall along the entire frontage. It is well graded, has concrete walks and is all fenced in.

Here is a grand opportunity for someone of moderate means to make a safe and sound investment, for property always rents well in this locality. I think it will be to your advantage to look this property over before the sale. Terms—$250 on the first parcel and $150 on second, as soon as struck off. A liberal mortgage can remain at 5 per cent. C. F. KEYES in charge.
